These observances were proclaimed locally last week by the Garrett County commissioners and Garrett Community College. The document signed by the county officials states in part that National Geography Week promotes geographic literacy in schools, and that GIS is an important part of this literacy and awareness. The county is "committed to expanding GIS to the schools and the general public in order to showcase real-world applications with GIS," the document states. Deborah Carpenter, a GIS specialist, is pictured above as she provides the commissioners with a short program about GIS. Jim Allen, a GCC geography professor and the director of technical earth science at the college, was also on hand for the proclamation and presentation. The commissioners are pictured seated, left to right: Wendell Beitzel, Fred Holliday, and Chairman Ernest Gregg.

MLP Man Faces Charges After Domestic Assault

A Mtn. Lake Park man was arrested Saturday night after allegedly assaulting his wife and a Garrett County sheriff's deputy who had responded to the L Street residence to assist the woman, according to the sheriff's office.

Rodney Gene Guthrie, 33, allegedly grabbed his wife by the arm and threw her into a wall during the incident, which occurred shortly after 8 p.m. While deputies, who observed swelling on the alleged victim's left arm, were questioning the couple, Guthrie reportedly pushed one of them and began a struggle. He was immediately subdued, handcuffed, and taken to the Garrett County Detention Center without further incident.

Guthrie faces charges of second degree assault on his wife, second degree assault on a law enforcement officer, and resisting arrest. He has since been released from jail after posting a $5,000 bond.

Alcohol was cited as a factor in the incident.

In other sheriff's news, a traffic stop in Oakland Thursday night ended with the arrests of the vehicle's two occupants.

A deputy who had stopped a vehicle that reportedly failed to stop at a stop sign along Eighth Street at 10:40 p.m. arrested the driver, David Allen Mayne, 18, and on a charge of DWI (driving while intoxicated).

A K-9 unit then conducted a drug scan of the vehicle, and, when it showed a positive alert, both Mayne

TURKEY DAY IS UPON US, and this bird might want to head for the hills for a while, at least until the widespread basting of his brothers is over. Families are gathering across the country to be together, give thanks for their many blessings, and eat like there's no tomorrow. Historically, the Thanksgiving weekend is one of the nation's busiest traffic times, and motorists are urged to drive safely, buckle up, and secure their children in proper safety seats. Watch out for jittery turkeys on the run, too. Happy Thanksgiving to all. Photo by John McEwen.

Women Escape Serious Injury During Mishap

A pair of Aurora, W. Va., women escaped serious injury after their truck was struck from the side by a tractor-trailer and rolled several times on Garrett Highway early Monday morning, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

The mishap occurred at approximately 5:15 a.m. when a 2000 Chevrolet Blazer operated by Melissa Ann Harsh, 24, stopped to avoid a deer crossing Garrett Highway near Pleasant Hills Drive. Harsh's vehicle, which was northbound, was being followed by a 1987

Star Wars Re-Release Ticket Sales To Directly Benefit Dove Center

As a national fund-raiser for various charities, movie-maker George Lucas is re-releasing his popular movie Star Wars in December. Greig Johnson, owner of Garrett Eight Cinemas, has announced that the proceeds from all local tickets sales to the movie will go to the Dove Center.

The movie in its 1998 "remade" form will be shown from Dec. 3 though Dec. 9 at the Deep Creek Lake movie house, and all money from those sales will go to the Dove Center. The center is a shelter for families escaping domestic violence, and is operated by Linda Spassil and a board of directors.

Spassil contacted the media Friday to alert them about the sales event, and has encouraged area residents and visitors to go see the movie during the seven-day run.

"They can have fun at the movie and help us out at the same time," said Spassil, who admitted that she has never seen the 1977 blockbuster, but now plans to go see it for the first time.

"We really appreciate Greig Johnson for choosing the Dove Center as the local charity. It means a lot to our organization," she said.

GBI Detectives File Additional Burglary Charges

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation has arrested a second suspect in connection with the burglary of the Little Sandy's Restaurant at Garrett Highway and Sand Flat Road that took place earlier this month.

Donald Allen Warren, 44, a resident of a trailer along Roman Nose Road, was arrested Monday evening after reportedly being implicated in the matter by his housemate, Andrew Ray Gardea, 18, who was arrested by the Maryland State Police on related charges the previous Monday.

Investigators said that after the MSP investigation uncovered items in Warren and Gardea's trailer that were allegedly taken from the restaurant, Gardea was arrested on Nov. 15. Under

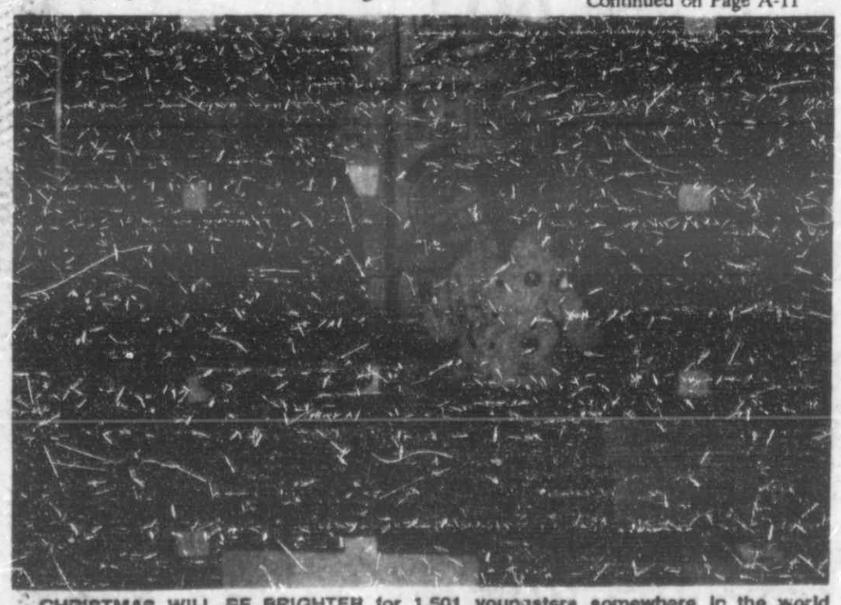
Citizen's Arrest By Local Woman Stops Suspects In Their Tracks



An Oakland woman effected a citizen's arrest last Friday evening after interrupting two suspects allegedly tampering with a motor vehicle in the parking lot of Deep Creek Foodland Fresh.

Tfc. Glenn Seaman reported that at 11:28 a.m., November 19, Marie Angela Bosley, Oakland, was inside Deep Creek Foodland Fresh when she observed one of two white male juveniles leaning in the front passenger window of her car, which was parked in the lot in front of the store.

Bosley reportedly ran out of the store and jumped onto the hood of the suspects' 1986 Chevrolet Cavalier and prevented the juveniles from escaping as they were backing up. Bosley then effected a citizen's arrest until authorities arrived moments later.

The juveniles, two 16-year-olds form Morgantown, W.Va., were charged with tampering with a motor vehicle, and theft of a cellular phone. They were released to their parents and the authorities at the Department of Juvenile Justice.

One witness to the event described it as "a real Charlie's Angels scene."

CHRISTMAS WILL BE BRIGHTER for 1,501 youngsters somewhere in the world thanks to the efforts of Oakland Boy Scout Doug Stephens, who selected as his Eagle Scout project Operation Christmas Child, an effort sponsored by an organization known as Samaritan's Purse that provides shoe boxes full of gifts for needy children in other countries. Stephens set for himself a goal of 800 such boxes, but the response to his drive by local residents, churches, businesses, and organizations was so overwhelming he nearly doubled his goal. Stephens, son of Bob and Linda Stephens, Oakland, is pictured above with Rev. Michael Dean of Fountain (W.Va.) United Brethren Church, who is the tri-state area coordinator for Operation Christmas Child. A total of 4,032 boxes were donated in the tri-state area. See story for details.

Local Boy Scout Shatters Goal For Operation Christmas Child

Making the holidays brighter for needy youngsters in other countries appealed to local Boy Scout Doug Stephens of Oakland Troop 22, so much so that he decided to make such a goal part of his Eagle Scout project. So the Southern High School freshman obtained information about a charity project known as Operation Christmas Child, which collects shoe boxes full of toys, school supplies, personal hygiene products, and other items, wraps the boxes, and then ships them to war-torn and poor countries around the world. Operation Christmas Child is a project of a Christian relief and evangelism organization called Samaritan's Purse.

Stephens set what many believed to be a too-optimistic goal of 800 boxes, which would be delivered to the Fountain United Brethren Church in nearby Fountain, W.Va., the Operation Christmas Child distribution center for the area.

Under Stephens' leadership, and with the support of numerous churches, businesses, organizations, and individuals, Stephens not only reached his goal of 800, but shattered it by collecting 1,501 boxes. According to Rev. Michael Dean of the Fountain church, a total of 4,032 boxes were collected in the tri-state

GCC Recognized As Paddling Sport Instruction Center

Garrett Community College has been designated as a National Center for Paddle Sport Instruction by the American Canoe Association, according to Mike Logsdon, director of the Adventure Sports program. The designation makes GCC the first such center in the United States.

In its role as a national center, GCC will utilize the resources of the Adventure Sports program, as well as the lakes and whitewater rivers of the surrounding area, to provide the three levels of paddling instruction. The college will offer an annual schedule of workshops, classes, and professional development seminars for certification as participants, instructors, and instructor trainers. It will also schedule an annual National Paddling School at which many paddling courses and professional development sessions will be offered in a one- or two-week format.

Since its inception in 1992, the Adventure Sports program has acquired a fleet of boats (canoes, kayaks, and rafts) and related rescue equipment capable of supporting the instructional needs of paddle sport courses. ACA certified instructors have been teaching GCC classes in canoe, kayak, swiftwater rescue, and safety instruction since the beginning of the Adventure Sports program and will be available to teach classes for the National Center for Paddle Sport Instruction.

Logsdon anticipates that the agreement will be signed by the executive director of the ACA, Jeff Yeager, and college president Dr. Steve Herman during the spring meeting of the executive council of the Adventure Sports Institute.

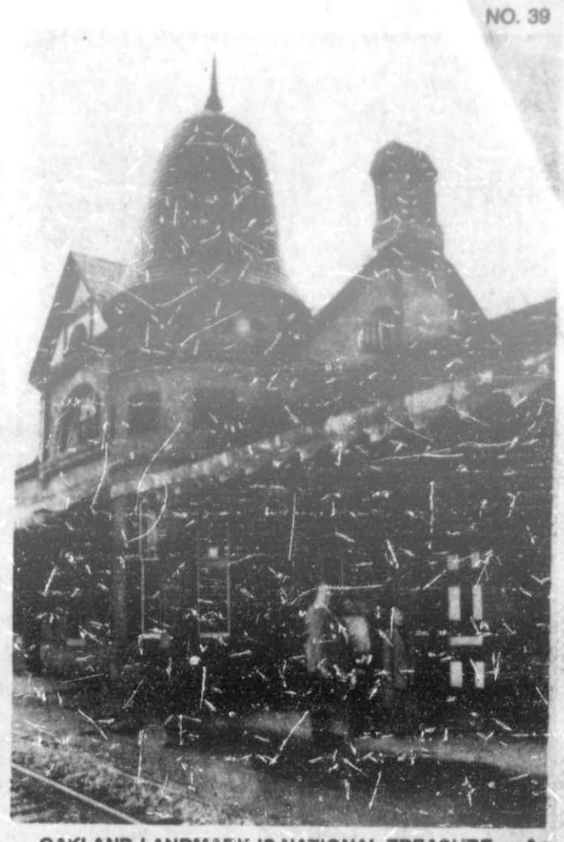
Oakland Man Dies In Tucker Co. Accident

An Oakland resident was killed in a traffic accident in Tucker County, W.Va., Saturday night, according to the Tucker County Sheriff's Office.

John Joseph Callis, 28, was traveling north on Route 219 within one mile of Tucker County High School when his Dodge sedan was struck by the rear axle of a southbound Ford tractor-trailer operated by Jediminas John Geldys, 48, Dearborn Heights, Mich. According to investigators the tractor-trailer had crossed the center line just prior to the 9:15 p.m. mishap.

Personnel from the Tucker County Emergency Medical Service and the Parsons, W.Va., and Tucker County volunteer fire departments responded to the scene, along with Tucker County sheriff's deputies. Callis was pronounced dead at the Tucker Community Center in Parsons later that night.

Geldys was charged with negligent homicide, driving to the left of center, and failure to maintain control of his vehicle. He has since been released from the Tucker County Jail after posting a $1,000 bond.



The West Virginia State Police and the West Virginia Public Service Commission are assisting the Tucker County Sheriff's Office with the investigation, which sources said is continuing.

Born Jan. 5, 1971, in Oakland, Callis was the son of C. James Callis Jr., Oakland, and Helen Marie Layman, St. George, W.Va.

He was preceded in death by one brother, Jamie Callis.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his maternal grandmother, Mary, of Oakland.

Friends were received at the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland, where a service was conducted Tuesday, Nov. 23, with the Rev. Father Chip Lee officiating. Interment was in the Oakland Cemetery.

OAKLAND LANDMARK IS NATIONAL TREASURE — An important development in the restoration of the Oakland train station was announced this week, as the historic structure has been officially named by the National Trust for Historic Preservation as one of "America's Treasures." This designation places the station in a category that includes projects such as the restoration of the Star-Spangled Banner (the flag that inspired the writing of the country's national anthem) in Washington, D.C. "This designation is certainly good news for our community," said Mayor Asa McCain. Also announced this week is the First United Bank and Trust's donation of $10,000 to the effort. Garrett County Community Action provided non-profit status to the town to help garner the national designation. See story. Pictured at the station, left to right, are McCain, Duane Yoder (Community Action president), and Jeannette Fitzwater, director of First United's division of human resources.

Oakland's Train Station Named One Of "America's Treasures"

Oakland's 1884 train station has been named by the National Trust for Historic Preservation as one of "America's Treasures," according to Glenn Tolbert, Main Street manager. The designation means that the station joins other projects such as the restoration of the Star-Spangled-Banner (the flag of national anthem fame), as well as numerous other artifacts and buildings across the nation, as an official project of "Save America's Treasures."

This public-private partnership between the White House Millennium Council and the National Trust for Historic Preservation is dedicated, Tolbert said, "to the preservation of our nation's irreplaceable historic and cultural treasures for future generations."

The announcement came at the same time that Bill Grant, president of First United Bank and Trust, said that his institution will be making a $10,000 donation toward the renovation of the station.

The national millennium committee consists of private individuals, and representatives from corporations and foundations, as well as experts in the fields of architecture, historic preservation, art, science and conservation. Hillary Rodham Clinton is the committee's honorary chair. Co-chairs are Susan Eisenhower, granddaughter of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Richard Moe, president of the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

In the private sector, Save America's Treasures works through the National Trust to designate Official Projects, such as the Oakland Train Station, to provide opportunities for potential donors to support preservation projects. A national campaign is under way to raise funds, Tolbert said. One of the first benefits is the sale of a CD called Sing America. Soon to be available locally at the

Groundbreaking Ceremony In Grantsville Welcomes Robosson

The official groundbreaking at the Robosson Supply West, L.L.C., building site in the Northern Garrett Industrial Park Monday morning was attended by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners along with other local officials. Representing the newest tenant in the Grantsville park was company owner Ralph A. Robosson, Mike Dzbynski, manager of the Sykesville facility, and John Rubis, Deer Park, who will manage the Garrett County facility.

This will be a satellite facility of Robosson Supply, Inc, a wholesale building materials supply company incorporated in 1981, which currently markets its products and services to the Baltimore metropolitan area for delivery and pickup.

Through this expansion into western Maryland, the company plans to serve contractors and distributors in western Maryland, southwest Pennsylvania, northeast West Virginia, and the northwest tip of Virginia.

From the Sykesville plant, the company supplies builders and contractors in central Maryland with exterior building products such as guttering and aluminum products, siding and accessories, and windows and door systems. The company currently manufactures most of its own aluminum guttering products in residential sizes and plans to manufacture more of its own products in the future.

The site in the Northern Garrett Industrial Park specifies a 6,000-square-foot, steel building that will allow for future expansions. East Coast Erectors, Grantsville, will be constructing the

Phenix Passes First ISO 9001 Required Audit

Phenix Technologies Inc., Accident, underwent its first ISO 9001 audit in October. The examination is a required procedure for maintaining the ISO 9001 certification.

Issued by the International Organization for Standardization in Geneva, Switzerland, the ISO is a guide to world class business practices and is the standard for quality in over 110 countries throughout the world. It can be obtained only through an extensive third party audit of the company applying. Phenix earned its certification September 4, 1998.

The annual audit was performed by Bill Cole of AFAQ Ascert International, based in Washington, D.C., who reviewed the quality procedures that Phenix has established under ISO standards. The audit scrutinized 20 sections of the company's operations. Cole reviewed over 85 written procedures to ensure they are being carried out in the daily processes of Phenix Technologies.

"We are a company that designs and manufactures custom equipment for our customers. This makes our procedures extremely complex. Our engineers, sales staff, and production personnel must be in constant communication to ensure the products meet our high quality and safety standards. Therefore, following through on our ISO procedures is natural for our work force," said Phenix president Frank Vitez.

Cole reported that his evaluation revealed Phenix personnel to be "very knowledgeable regarding quality procedures in each of their individual work environments." He also noted the work force's "commitment to excellence" and commented on the thoroughness of the ISO implementation.

Credit was given by Phenix to Sherry Umbel and Jeff Britton, who oversee the ISO procedures for the company.

"We are proud that we exceeded the expectations of our audit company. Our staff works very hard every day to produce world class products. It is a tribute to them that they do this while meeting the strict standards of ISO certification," said vice president Rudi Kremer.

At age 83, Strauss continues to teach, as well as offer his help in community and church projects. Pictured at the Nov. 3 state ceremony, left to right, are First Lady Frances Hughes Glendening, Mr. Strauss, Keri Schrader (Miss Maryland 1999), and Pat Light, coordinator of the local Maryland's Most Beautiful People project.

Two Elderly Women Struck By Vehicle In Oakland, Hospitalized

Two pedestrians in Oakland were struck by a vehicle Tuesday at 10:54 a.m. while they crossing Alder Street at Second Street. Lucille Schorb, 79, and Mary Helen Strawser, 79, both of Oakland, were admitted to Garrett Memorial Hospital following the accident and reported to be in stable condition as of Wednesday morning.

Oakland Police chief John Sines responded to the scene and reported that both women were crossing the street from the north to the south corner when they were struck by a 1985 Oldsmobile Cutlass, driven by Terry Blake Kelley, 48, Oakland. Kelley had been traveling south on Second Street when he turned left onto Alder and reportedly hit the two victims.

Southern Rescue Squad and members of the Oakland VFD responded to the scene. Sines charged Kelley with failure to exercise due care to avoid pedestrian collision.

Bloomington Store Struck By Burglars

A Bloomington area convenience store has been struck by thieves several times over recent months, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

The most recent burglary of McDowell's Exxon Mini-Mart, located in the 17000 block of Maryland Highway, occurred on Thursday, Nov. 11. That night a back window was forced open and an interior door kicked in. Taken were numerous cigarettes, and several flashlights, batteries, and adult magazines.

That incident comes on the heels of four other reported burglaries at the store, each one involving similar items that were stolen, along with quantities of cash ranging from $20 to $121. Those burglaries took place on Sept. 15 and 29, and Oct. 15 and 22.

Persons with information on any of these incidents are encouraged to contact the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911, or Garrett County Crimesolvers at 301-334-1975.

MSP Investigates Mishap Involving Five Vehicles

A double accident involving five vehicles occurred Tuesday evening on Route 495 south of Shade Hollow Road near Grantsville. The incident, investigated by Maryland State Police from the McHenry barrack, was reported at 5:40 p.m.

Tfc. Robert Sharp reported that Timothy L. Bender, 35, Accident, was operating a 1999 Chevrolet truck southbound on Route 495, just south of Shade Hollow Road, when he swerved to the left, crossing the center line into the northbound lane. In so doing, Bender first struck a 1996 Chevrolet driven by Francis B. McKenzie, 60, Grantsville, and then struck a 1985 Ford truck, driven by Michael D. Maust, 18, Grantsville, Tfc. Sharp said. Both of those vehicles were northbound at the time of the accident.

The impact of the collision reportedly caused the Maust vehicle to overturn. Bender's truck then slid to a stop in the northbound lane, the report said. At that time a 1992 Plymouth van, operated by Thelma J. Yoder, 55, Grantsville, approached the accident scene, reportedly began to stop. Yoder was then struck by a 1994 Pontiac driven by John Dunn, 63, Cumberland, who allegedly was unable to stop in time to avoid a collision.

Salisbury (Pa.) Ambulance, Grantsville VFD, and Northern Rescue Squad responded to the scene. Dunn and Maust were transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Police charged Dunn and Bender

Oakland Officials Sign Marketing Plan For Town

Town of Oakland officials have signed an agreement with a regional marketing company to develop a marketing program for its downtown. The $5,000 contract signed with McClarran & Williams Inc. is to identify consumer targets and travel agents within a five-year coordinated development and promotion strategy to increase business into the community, according to Glenn Tolbert, Main Street Program manager.

The document will be developed with a downtown theme and position statement, as well as a promotional logo. These are to help create a stronger marketing position for downtown Oakland, Tolbert said.

The money to pay for the marketing plan came from an Appalachian Regional Commission grant applied for by the Maryland Office of Planning and Zoning. The grant was sought in an effort to assist the Oakland Main Street Program's promotion of the community.

The plan is expected to be carefully fitted into the wider tourism and promotion efforts being carried out by other entities in the area, Tolbert said.

"This is very exciting for our community to be able

SOMEDAY, KID, YOU'RE GONNA BE IN PICTURES! — Indeed, these kids are in pictures — on book covers, that is, created by local artist Mark Stutzman. Stutzman and these children will be on hand at Oakland's Fresh Air Christmas event to offer their autographs on these books, which were included in a major book cover series published by Hyperion Paperbacks for Children, a division of Disney Publishing. Stutzman has completed 12 covers for the series, four of which are available at the Book Mark'et. Pictured above, front to back and left to right, are Taylor Crabtree (Nose Picker from Outer Space), Ryan Hershman (Horrid Henry), Wayne Moyer (Lab Coat Girl's trusted assistant), Kelly Taylor (Lab Coat Girl), and Evan Lantz (Funny Boy). These children will be featured on the remaining covers due out next year, along with additional characters portrayed by Alex and Robert McEwen, Katie Conroy, and the entire Crabtree family. Stutzman said the books have read well in test market audiences and are expected to be successful. The artist received the commission from Disney on a referral after completing a Broadway poster for Annie, Get Your Gun in New York City. Because Stutzman works in a realistic style, he always photographs models as they dress the part and act out the characters he is illustrating. This has been his technique for his entire 15-year freelance career. (Stutzman provided these photos as well.) He and his wife Laura, who is also an illustrator, share a studio in their Mountain Lake Park home. Fresh Air Christmas will be held Dec. 3 in downtown Oakland from 4 until 8 p.m. Stutzman will be at the Book Mark'et for the signings.

Drug Conviction Nets Month For Oakland Man

An Oakland man was sentenced to a month in jail after pleading guilty to possession of marijuana in a recent Garrett County District Court hearing.

Percy Adolphus Redman, 37, was handed the 30-day jail sentence by Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett. The drug charge stemmed from Redman's September arrest by sheriff's deputies who were initially attempting to serve him with an unrelated arrest warrant at his Crellin Road residence. Redman fled the home while deputies were outside, and a search was undertaken.

During the course of the search, a U-Haul truck rented by Redman was located sitting unoccupied near the intersection of Garrett and George Washington highways. A vehicle search uncovered marijuana within the truck.

Additional charges of resisting arrest and possession of drug paraphernalia were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

In other district court news, Karyn Marie Tote, 32, Elkins, W.Va., pleaded guilty to misdemeanor theft and was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $75, and placed on two years of unsupervised probation. An additional charge of concealing a deadly weapon (a dirk knife) was not prosecuted.

The charges stemmed from Tote's September arrest by sheriff's deputies after she shoplifted a candy bar from the Maryland Highway Amoco convenience store. A subsequent search located the dagger-type knife in her purse.

John Marshall Wolfe, 37, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to second degree assault and was handed a four-month sentence, all but 30 days of which were suspended, fined $100, and placed on one year of supervised probation. Wolfe was arrested by Maryland State Police troopers in May following a domestic altercation at his residence, during which he assaulted his wife while allegedly intoxicated.

Stephen Dale Wilt, 39, Grantsville, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and DUI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs), and was handed a three-month sentence, of which all but 14 days were suspended, fined $355, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service. Wilt's August arrest by state troopers came when a search that followed a traffic stop uncovered a bag of marijuana in his pocket.

James Craig Crooks, 25, Thurmont, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and cocaine and was handed an eight-month sentence, of which all but four days were suspended, fined $355, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 60 hours of community service. He had been arrested by state troopers in August when the drugs were found in his car after a traffic stop. An additional charge of illegal possession of a prescription drug (Oxycontin) was not prosecuted.

Thomas Raymond Miller, 24, Bayard, W.Va., pleaded guilty to a charge of second degree assault, and visiting Judge Thomas Lohm handed him a 14 day sentence, four days of which were suspended, a $55 fine, and placed him on six months of supervised probation. Miller's August arrest by sheriff's deputies at the Garrett County Fair came after he tackled another person. Alcohol was cited as a factor in the incident.

Christopher Acheson Beitzel, 19, Oakland, pleaded guilty to violating an ex parte order and was handed a 30-day sentence, all but seven days of which were suspended. Sheriff's deputies had arrested Beitzel in July after he had gone to his ex-wife's residence on a day when he was not allowed to do so as stipulated by an existing court order.

Bradley J. Nesline, 26, Cockeysville, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ), and a 30-day sentence with all but two days suspended, a $200 fine, six months of supervised probation, and 40 hours of community service. State troopers carrying out a routine check of his parents' Bittinger Road residence located Nesline there in August when the house was supposed to be unoccupied. A bag of marijuana was located inside the house, and the tag on his vehicle was reportedly stolen in Baltimore County.

Additional charges of misdemeanor theft, driving with a suspended license, driving an unregistered vehicle, failure to notify the MVA of an address change, and unauthorized use of a license plate were not prosecuted.

Charges of harassment and telephone misuse via repeated phone calls faced by Margaret E. Rishel, 44, Markleysburg, Pa., were placed onto the stet docket. Rishel had been arrested by sheriff's deputies in August for alleged domestic-related harassment of a Friendsville woman.

A charge of telephone misuse faced by Shaun Ailan Rishel, 25, Markleysburg, Pa., was stetted, and a related charge of violation of an ex parte order was not prosecuted. Sheriff's deputies had arrested Rishel on domestic-related charges stemming from the same series of incidents that had involved Margaret Rishel.

A charge of felony theft stemming from an alleged snowboard theft was stetted by visiting Judge Paul Staken in the case of David Morgan Lebon, 26, Oakland. State troopers had arrested Lebon in January in connection with the crime, which took place at the Wisp Ski Resort.

All charges faced by William Joseph Spoon, 28, Barnesville, Ohio, and Lansing Brando Johnson, 26, St. Clairsville, Ohio, were placed onto the stet docket. The two had been arrested by Oakland City Police officers after damaging property of the Starlight Motel after fighting in a motel room. They each faced charges of disorderly conduct, intoxication to endanger themselves, and destruction of property. Each subject was ordered to complete 30 hours of community service.

A trespassing charge faced by Joel Justin Uphold, 20, Oakland, was stetted with the condition that he complete eight hours of community service. He had been arrested by sheriff's deputies in August after trespassing in the Midway Plaza parking lot in violation of a previous warning.

A harassment charge faced by Patricia Stanton, 44, Oakland, was stetted. Her August arrest by sheriff's deputies came after she had allegedly followed another person even in violation of a signed agreement that there be no contact between them.

Christopher Lee Guthrie, 21, Oakland, was not prosecuted on charges of fourth degree burglary, disturbing the peace, and trespassing. The charges stemmed from his September arrest by Loving Relationships...

Giving thanks will be an activity of most Americans this holiday, and while there is much for many to be thankful for (homes, jobs, food, etc.), the single most important thing for which we should be most grateful are the other people in our lives, be they family members or friends. The material things of this world are finite. But relationships with others are forever, at least for those who believe that our time here on earth is just a stopping point.

So it is important that good relationships be maintained, through thick and thin, if at all possible, particularly among family members. Sometimes it is not easy, but there is almost always regret when a damaged family relationship is never mended.

Next Wednesday, Dec. 1, is World AIDS Day, which brings awareness to a horrible, fatal disease that has probably ravaged more family relationships than any other. Few diseases could be any worse, for not only does AIDS destroy life, but relationships as well. Many AIDS patients, primarily those who are homosexual, spend their final, often agonizing, days totally alone because they have been rejected by family members too ashamed to continue to love and care for them.

Of course, AIDS is no longer primarily a "gay" disease. It is well established in the heterosexual community, and still spreading at an alarming rate. We in Garrett County feel somewhat isolated from AIDS because, so far, we have had relatively few cases of it. But parents should be extremely concerned and well informed about AIDS as their children go out into the world where making contact with the disease is far more likely. They also must be open and honest about AIDS with their children so they, too, are well informed and will know how to protect themselves.

Two years ago one of our writers, David Foster, did a story about a local young man who died from AIDS, and the effect of his disease and death on his mother and his stepfather. His mother remained loving to the end, while his stepfather just couldn't cope with the shame, and severed his relationship with the young man for good. We learned later that our story was extremely therapeutic for the stepfather, assisting him in coming to grips with the tragedy and strengthening his relationship with his wife. Of course, it was too late to do so with his stepson.

Perhaps on this Thanksgiving Day, and every day, we should be most thankful for our ability to love and to care, even under the most difficult of circumstances. And while we're at it, we should give thanks that others have this same ability to keep loving us when we, too, might seem unlovable.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

On Friday evening, November 12, the house of my friend, Donna Fisher, burned to the ground in Friendsville. What a devastating experience, to lose everything one owns in one swoop. Fortunately, no one was hurt or even injured.

My purpose for writing is to thank the Wisp hotel for housing Donna for the first few nights that she was homeless, giving her time to begin to rebuild her life. The Wisp was quick to offer their generosity, in the best spirit of small-town life. I am sure as Donna goes through the process of creating a new home she will have many needs. May others in the community follow the example set by the Wisp.

Thank you, Wisp Hotel.

To the Editor:

Zoning — a referendum please!

As a citizen of this great county, I believe I have a fair understanding of the people, how times have changed and what we the people want. As the planning and zoning folks have seen, more than a majority desire No Zoning.

In an effort to gain fairness, I plea with the commissioners to place this very important issue on the next ballot as a referendum. Give the people a chance to specifically render their opinion. Those of us who have been individually gored by the politics of zoning can place the facts before the public. Then, with a referendum, you will find a very clear vote — from which you will not need to further ponder what the people think.

Sincerely,
Thomas E. Doyle
Oakland

To the Editor:

The recent article concerning the formation of a Garrett Co. licensing board for mechanical trades is a great idea and I applaud the efforts of Mr. Heilig and Mr. Garner. Training and licensing is desperately needed in this part of the state. The county with the homeowners interest in mind, should be more open to such a plan. It would bring needed training to our area and ultimately improve the competence of the work force.

Licensing and education is the first line of defense for the consumer. A complaint to a licensing board will go a lot further in resolving a problem with a contractor than one without a license.

A year ago county officials were quick to inform the public of the driveway paving scam and stressed that anyone doing this type of work should have a MHIC license. Homeowners were advised to report contractors without licenses to the county sheriff's office. The Maryland Home Improvement Commission (MHIC) protects homeowners from contractor fraud and faulty workmanship. If you hire unlicensed contractors, you are not protected.

Garrett County is continually growing, with construction and development playing a large part. Let's support those trying to bring change, especially where our welfare is at stake.

To the Editor:

Once there was a sweet, gentle shaggy dog who lived in a pleasant country neighborhood in a place called Oakland, Maryland. This letter is being written in lieu of an obituary, mainly because obituaries are usually not written for pets.

I was one of the neighbors that he charmed with his friendliness. He loved to walk in the woods with anyone who could spare the time. He seemed to almost talk with his eyes. You couldn't help but let him take over your world for a few exquisite minutes. He would even offer to share a bone with you.

One day recently this sweet, gentle dog, who would never harm anyone, died suddenly, not by accident or disease, but by a monster, or perhaps monsters, who brutally held him down and slit his throat, and eventually dumped his body on the road in another pleasant country neighborhood. Because of the lack of blood found on that road, it seems likely that the evil person not only did that awful deed, but perhaps even watched the dog bleed to death.

What would cause someone to do something so cruel? If the dog was bothering him, he could have called the owner. His name and phone number were on his collar. He could have called the shelter and had them pick him up. But he chose torture.

This person, or persons, must be found. Would anyone who has any knowledge of who might have done this please contact the sheriff as soon as possible? If that person can do it once, he can do it again.

NEO-PURITANISM

In our time to call someone "a puritan" or "puritanical" is a denigration. The liberal establishment has no more bitter epithet than to call their opponents "Neo-puritans." Back in the 1560s when the word "Puritan" was coined, it was used in a similarly derisive way by the liberal establishment. That is evidence of the saying, "The more things change, the more they stay the same.

I come from the Puritan tradition, and am proud of it. In the 16th century to be a Presbyterian was synonymous with being a Puritan. The same equation cannot be made today, but in my case I hope to maintain some kind of connection between the two.

In his excellent article on "Puritanism" (Encyclopedia Britannica, 1973) Winthrop S. Hudson — who, one might deduce from his first name, may have been a descendant of the Mayflower Pilgrims — summed up the essence of Puritanism: "The Puritan was a spiritual athlete, characterized by an intense zeal for reform, a zeal to order everything — personal life, family life, worship, church, business affairs, political views, even recreation — in the light of God's demand upon him."

There were Puritan excesses and errors, but the principles of Puritanism were foundationally right. It was upon that foundation that the American republic was founded. It is in the loss of those principles that the American republic now founders.

There were two kinds of 16th and 17th century Puritan. The first in the most literal sense of the word wanted to purify the Church of England. The second kind desired to live a purified life which he believed to be possible only separate from the Church of England. The Pilgrims were separatists, and, in fact were not called "pilgrims" until nearly 200 years after the landing at Plymouth. The spectrum of Puritans included Presbyterians, Congregationalists, Baptists, and Quakers.

The feast of harvest home as a fit occasion for offering thanksgiving to God was a peculiarly Puritan feast because it jettisoned all traces of what they considered Roman paganism. The feast became an emblem of the simple, direct, and ardent relationship which the Puritan sought to establish and maintain with God in the setting of a believing community.

The Puritan quest for God required the removal of everything that might distract the believer from intimacy with God through Jesus Christ. The strict simplicity of the Puritan life was intended to enable the Christian to remain focused on God.

Restraint of fleshly desires creates space in a person's life for attainment of spiritual desires. It was this great vision which led the Puritans to live spare, austere lives in order to fulfill the chief end of man. The Shorter Catechism of the Westminster Confession of Faith — probably the most sublime expression of Puritan faith — tells us that "Man's chief end is to glorify God and to enjoy him forever."

The trade-off is clear. The Puritan foregoes a few temporal pleasures in order to enjoy infinite and eternal pleasures.

The Puritans did have some terrible tendencies. One was to "throw the baby out with the bath water." They attempted to abolish Christmas, for example. That aspect of Puritan history offers a caution to those of us who consider ourselves Neo-puritans. Even restraint needs to be restrained sometimes. Moderate restraint has its own problems, too. It is easier to give up a thing altogether rather than to use or enjoy it sensibly.

The challenge of Neo-puritanism is to identify a way of living in the world that affirms human values pleasing to God. The feast of Thanksgiving is an appropriate time to reclaim in word and deed the goodly heritage of the Pilgrim men and women who sought to establish an earthly commonwealth as the image and likeness of the heavenly city of God.

The proceeds from the sale of the CD will go to the general fund to save America's treasures, including the preservation of the Oakland station.

Federally, the United States Congress has appropriated $30 million for grants to go to preservation projects such as the Oakland train station restoration. Some $25,000 of this money has already been applied for through a cooperative venture between Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. (GCCAC), the Oakland Main Street Program, and the Oakland Mayor and Town Council.

"The designation as one of America's Treasures is certainly good news for the station and for the community," said Oakland Mayor Asa McCain. "It comes at a time when we can really use a good, healthy dose of attention aimed at our efforts. This honor and the generous contribution from First United Bank and Trust are both very nice rewards for our renovation endeavors."

The historic station is at the center of Oakland's revitalization efforts which include the nearly completed 2-1/4 mile hiking/biking trail. The station itself is about to undergo a $1 million renovation, with funds coming from numerous federal, state, and private monies. Part of the current local campaign to pay for the work on the building includes the sale of tax credits to businesses which return most of any donation made, and the sale of various train station paraphernalia.

Among the items being sold are Christmas tree ornaments in the form of the station, a locomotive, and a caboose. A hat or lapel pin of the station is also being offered at town hall. The Sing America commemorative CD will now be added to the fund-raising offerings.

"Receiving this designation is important to our community because it will bring us national attention," said Duane Yoder, president of GCCAC. "But locally it shows another example of how several organizations right here in Garrett County work together to make things better for all of us. Our organization was happy to provide the non-profit status required to win this designation. We are also

A MARK TWAIN MONOLOGUE AND A ONE-ACT COMEDY will be presented next week at Oakland's Our Town Theatre, as director Richard Hill presents First Day In June. Hill will open the show with Jay Baker's Blue Jay Yarn, the Twain monologue, and the one-act show Graveyard Cleaning-Off Day by Becky Reynolds will follow. The play revives the forgotten tradition of gathering at the old family cemetery and spending a spring day cleaning and tidying up, Hill said. "What was once a day as important as Christmas has become impractical as families scatter across the country," he said. "The play explores the conflict of old and modern ways, and change as both important and depressing." Actor Susan Bell is pictured in the foreground, and behind her, left to right, are actors Carl Whitlatch Jr., Matt Esry, and John White. Not pictured is actor Judy Bertsch. Technical direction for the show is by Ben Sincell, and Sue Harkins is the stage manager. The play is being produced through a special arrangement with Dramatic Publishing. The show will be given on Dec. 2, 3, and 4, with all performances beginning at 8 p.m. All seats will be $5. Reservations can be made by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

POST 578 OBSERVES CENTURY YEAR

The Aurora-Terra Alta VFW and Ladies Auxiliary of Post 578 have been busy celebrating their first century.

Their first celebration was May 1, with poppy promotion in the morning and a reception for Luci Freeland in the afternoon. She sang the National Anthem for Senators Jon Blair Hunter and Sarah Minear and Delegate Larry Williams, who were all in attendance along with Terra Alta's mayor, Charles Feather.

The VFW post and auxiliary donated the book VFW: Our First Century, to the Aurora Library. Auxiliary president Betty Sereno made the presentation to Alice Penzo, librarian.

The post and auxiliary participated in the Terra Alta Independence Day parade on July 3. A display was prepared showing activities and providing information about the VFW's programs.

A special breakfast for veterans and guests was served on July 4, with plans made to make this breakfast and a dinner a monthly event. The annual picnic was held at the Terra Alta Community Park in August, with entertainment and a sing-along.

A copy of VFW: Our First Century was presented in October to the Terra Alta Public Library by Betty Sereno, auxiliary president. Also present were VFW Commander Todd Deahl and Chairman Harold Sereno, who helped with the presentation by Margaret Sypolt of an audiotape by Tom Brokaw. A sing-along and lunch at the senior center followed.

On November 9, members of the Post 578 and auxiliary presented a flag program at East Preston Middle School for 52 fifth graders and two teachers. The following day they were at Aurora, where they presented the flag program to 27 fifth graders.

Veterans Day services at the Honor Roll in Terra Alta on November 11 were followed by a trip to Wal-Mart at Morgantown, "Honoring Our Hometown Veterans," for veterans and their guests. That evening, the auxiliary served a meal in the post home. Guest speaker was Tom Lillie and special guest was Gold Star Mother Ellen "Sis" Atkinson. There were 85 in attendance.

On December 7, Pearl Harbor Day, the VFW Post and Auxiliary 578 invite all veterans to lunch. Those who can attend are asked to call Betty Sereno at 789-6819.

When Santa comes for a visit to the post home on Washington Avenue, Terra Alta, the VFW celebration of the century will come to an end. This will be for children up to 10 years old.

A scripture passage was read by Brooke Brenneman, niece of the groom and friend of the bride.

A white limousine escorted the couple to the reception at the Grantsville fire hall. The hors d'oeuvres table and buffet-style dinner were both catered by Charlotte Tice. The three-tierred purple and white wedding cake was decorated by Jane McCracken. Colleen Hershberger and Peggy Teats, both aunts of the bride, cut and served the wedding cake.

The bride's bouquet, the boutonnieres, corsages, and altar flowers were arranged by the Flower Garden at County Market. Pictures were taken by Twila Yoder, and videographers were brother of the groom Rick Brenneman and uncle of the bride Ron Teats.

The bride, a graduate of Northern High School, is currently attending Allegany College of Maryland in the physical therapist assistant program.

The groom, also a graduate of Northern High School, is employed at Rigidply Rafters, Oakland.

Immediately following the wedding and reception, the couple honeymooned in Nags Head, N.C., and Williamsburg, Va. They now reside in Grantsville.

Maryland Gets B- On Anti-Drunk Driving, Underage Drinking Efforts

Maryland has fallen behind in the war against drunk driving by earning the grade of B-, according to a report released this week by Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD). The Rating the States survey — unveiled on the eve of the heavily traveled Thanksgiving holiday — evaluated the nation and each state's efforts to tackle drunk driving, the most frequently committed violent crime, and underage drinking, the nation's No. 1 youth drug problem, according to MADD. Maryland received a B+ in 1996, the last time the survey was conducted.

For the 2000 survey, states were graded on results from data collected in nine categories: political leadership, statistics and records, law enforcement, administrative measures and criminal sanctions, regulatory control and availability, youth legislation, prevention and education, victim issues, laws, and fatality trends.

Sixty percent of each state's overall grade was based on its alcohol-related fatality trends and priority drunk driving laws. The remaining 40 percent of state grades were based on scores in the other seven categories. The nation's overall grade was a C+.

"Every state was graded against itself — not in comparison to other states," explained Bob Shearouse, public policy director, MADD National. "Objective information was gathered in all nine categories and evaluated on its merits."

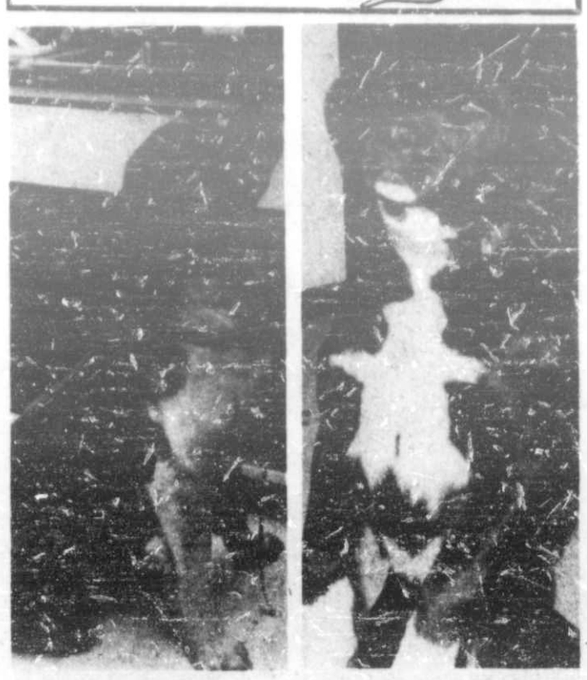
"It comes as no surprise that in the area of political leadership and laws, Maryland scored poorly in this survey," said Wendy Hamilton, public policy liaison for MADD Maryland. "Despite MADD's repeated efforts for stronger laws which could deter drunk drivers, legislators have failed to respond."

Hamilton said that, while the legislature has passed important traffic safety legislation, including a primary safety belt law and graduated licensing for new drivers, there are "serious gaps" in the state's DWI laws. Currently, Maryland has 20 of 32 key anti-drunk driving laws and eight of MADD's so-called priority laws on the books.

"We have an unfinished drunk driving agenda here," said Hamilton. "Our legislative session begins on January 12, 2000, and MADD is already working with lawmakers on support for a comprehensive deterrent package to close the gap, including a .08 BAC per se law; mandatory ignition interlock; open container; felony DWI for serious bodily injury; and increased penalties for repeat offenders and high BAC drivers (.16 and higher).

Of particular concern to MADD, law enforcers, and prosecutors is the state's use and overuse of PBJs (probation before judgment) for drunk drivers. "What we do with offenders the first time impacts directly on whether they'll offend again," said Hamilton. "MADD opposes any law or loophole that allows loosened sanctions against drunk drivers. It is the state legislators who have the power to do away with PBJs." Maryland is one of only a few states that allows PBJs in cases of drunk driving.

Also, MADD's effort in the state to pass a bill that would change the legal definition of drunk driving from .10 to .08, has failed to make it through the House Judiciary Committee three years in a row, despite a growing body of evidence that .08 is an effective deterrent measure and strong support from the public and a majority of legislators. Both the District of Columbia and Virginia have passed .08 and are receiving millions of dollars in additional highway construction funds as a result.



Another serious gap in Maryland's drunk driving laws is poor BAC (blood alcohol concentration) testing rates of surviving drivers involved in fatal crashes. Although Maryland has a law that requires that these drivers be tested for a BAC level, it is not enforced.

"The easiest way for a drunk driver to escape DWI charges is to get injured and be taken to the hospital," said Hamilton. "Clearly, the number of fatalities and injuries caused by drunk drivers is much higher than reported each year and the drunk drivers are getting off scot-free." Of the 606 people killed on Maryland highways in 1998, 203 were reportedly alcohol-related fatalities.

The Rating the States survey was mailed to each MADD state organization, which completed the survey with information provided by appropriate state government agencies. The Governor's Highway Safety representative reviewed the completed questionnaire for accuracy. After evaluating the data from each state survey, a panel of judges chosen for their expertise in highway safety issues completed the state report cards by assigning later grades for each category and for the state overall.

Founded in 1980, MADD will celebrate its 20th anniversary in 2000. MADD's mission is to stop drunk driving, support the victims of this violent crime, and prevent underage drinking. To receive a copy of the Rating the States survey, persons may contact MADD at 1-800-446-MADD (Md. only) or can view it entirely on-line at the MADD web site at www.madd.org.

Bears Feeding Heavily Now To Prepare For Winter Hibernation

by Steve Bittner
Forest Game Biologist
Department of Natural Resources

October and November are busy months during a black bear's life cycle as they feed heavily prior to the winter season. The feeding behavior generally starts in mid-September and continues until food supplies become scarce. Once a negative energy balance is reached, bears will begin denning for the winter. They will not use more energy looking for food than they can take in. In years when foods are abundant, bears may not den until mid to late December.

During the fall months, bears need to add a heavy layer of fat that will provide insulation and an energy source for the long winter. Bears generally will not eat during the winter months and use their fat reserves as an energy source during hibernation. Most bears add 100-150 pounds of fat in just two months. They are voracious feeders during this time of the year and spend most of their time searching for food.

This year in Garrett County the supply of natural bear foods is about average. Although there appears to be a bountiful supply of wild apples and crabapples, acorns are about average in number. Acorns are a preferred food during the fall, and their abundance can be directly related to the fall and winter condition of black bears.

This winter I would expect bears to start denning in late November to early December. However, one key to the start of denning is weather conditions. If it stays warm bears will not use a lot of energy to maintain their body temperature and will feed for a longer period of time. If we have a cold fall and an early winter, bears will probably den earlier. The 1999 fall has been relatively warm so far, which leads one to believe that bears may den a little later than normal.

Bears cover large areas while searching for food, and when a food source is located they will continue to frequent that area. When the food supply is exhausted, they will move on to another area and continue the search for food. These extensive movements at this time of the year can cause problems. Bears become more susceptible to being struck by vehicles as they cross roads more frequently. In October alone, vehicles struck seven bears in Maryland, five of which were killed. One of these bear accidents occurred in Allegany County, while the remainder occurred in Garrett County.

After the opening of deer firearms season this Saturday, Nov. 27, I expect bear sightings to increase in western Maryland. Some lucky deer hunters will have the opportunity to see a bear while in the field. Some might even see a bear feeding at places where deer entrails have been left. I would suggest to deer hunters that they keep their cameras handy, as they might miss a great opportunity for a good bear picture.

I also would like to remind deer hunters that bears should be respected, but not feared. Black bears are usually not aggressive animals, but they are Maryland's largest predator. Should a bear come close to your area, yell at it or make loud noises to scare it away. Wave your arms if the bear approaches you. The bear may also stand up, trying to detect air currents that would identify you as a human. Back out of the area and keep a safe distance from the bear.

If you are camping in western Maryland during deer hunting season, keep all food locked in a cooler in the trunk of your car. Do not leave food at your campsite. If you do, you may have a close encounter with a bear that you will never forget.

I would encourage deer hunters who are fortunate enough to see a bear to report it to their local DNR wildlife field office; the number for the Garrett County office at Mt. Nebo is 301-334-4255. We are especially interested in sightings of sows and cubs. Hunters can provide assistance to our bear management efforts by reporting the location of any sows and cubs that they see while out in the field during the fall deer hunting season. Your cooperation would be greatly appreciated.

We would like to say a "Very Special Thank You" to our children David, Roger, Tracy, and their spouses Kathy, Patty, Amy Jo, to each of our grandchildren (who make every day special), to each of you for your presence, for each card, for each gift, and your best wishes. All of these made our 50th Wedding Anniversary a very special day.

Lakers Halted By Dundalk Before Rolling Over Fayette

After winning their first six games of the 1999 season, the Garrett Community College Lakers saw their streak ended Saturday night in the finals of their own McDonald's Tournament, as they were topped by tourney winner Community College of Baltimore County at Dundalk, 87-68. The Lakers earned a spot in the title game Friday evening by stopping Howard Community College, 85-70.

Coach Dennis Gibson and his squad got back on the winning track last night, though, by crushing visiting Penn State-Fayette, 113-76. The Lakers will take a Thanksgiving break and be back in action next Wednesday at Baltimore City Community College.

A 16-point, 13-rebound, two-block effort by Charles Somerville paced the Lakers in their win over Howard on Friday, while teammate Carlos Jones hit 14 points. Warren Coates and Scott Kochenderfer each finished with 12 points. Kochenderfer also dished out five assists, as did Antowain Newton and Corin Turner.

The Lakers took control of the contest early and led by 15, 40-25, at halftime.

Leading Howard in scoring were Shawn Green and Chris Smith with 15 and 13 points, respectively. Jeff Haddaway also reached double figures with 10. Justin Brown pulled down 11 rebounds and Smith was credited with six assists.

Dundalk advanced to the title game by rolling over Ocean County College (N.J.), 86-61, in Friday's other contest.

The Lakers fell behind by 10 in the first half against Dundalk on Saturday, 43-33, and slipped further behind throughout the second half as they had trouble against Dundalk's zone defense.

They also couldn't stop Eugene Jackson from scoring. Jackson hit 10 field goals and four of five free throws to finish with a game-high 27 points. Michah Davenport also had a big night for the visitors, finishing with 21 points and 12 rebounds, while Anthony Chase netted 14 points.

Leading the Lakers in scoring for the first time this season was Corin Turner, who recorded 16 points, and also dished out six assists. Dexter Levi and Charles Somerville each had 14 points. Somerville also pulled down nine rebounds and had three steals, while Kochenderfer recorded six assists.

The Lakers were out-rebounded by a 50-35 margin, but led in assists, 18-10.

"This gave us a good idea of what we are going to have to do if we want to win in the Maryland JUCO," stated Coach Gibson. "We just didn't execute well against their zone and we did not stop their one-on-one guard play."

Ocean County College topped Howard CC in the consolation game, 71-50.

Named to the All-Tournament team were Somerville and Turner for Garrett, Jackson and Davenport for Dundalk, and Issiah Christian of Ocean County.

Five Lakers finished in double figures in the easy win over Penn State-Fayette, with Charles Somerville leading the way with 24 points. Freshman Antowain Newton hit 20 points, Michael Ward had 16, Carlos Jones finished with 13, and Dexter Levi added 11.

Garrett also led in rebounding by a 62-43 margin, with Charles and Thomas Somerville, and Dustin Long each grabbing nine. Charles Somerville and Levi also each had five blocked shots, and Turner finished with 10 assists.

The Lakers seized control of the game early and were on top by a comfortable 58-37 margin at halftime. The Fayette players committed 25 turnovers and connected on only 50 percent of their free throws.

Tim Polosky finished with a game-high 27 points for Fayette, while teammates Mike Hicks and Eric Bushey each scored 11. Hicks led his team in both rebounds and assists with nine and four, respectively.

The Lakers are 7-1 overall and 2-1 in JUCO competition.

Treatment for Restless Leg Syndrome

Until recently, little was known about restless leg syndrome (RLS). This condition, which currently affects 2 to 5% of adults, is characterized by a "creepy" or "crawling" (but not painful) feeling in the legs at night. The sensation tends to ease with motion. Persons who report having RLS seem to have symptoms before age 20. In children the condition may be mistaken for growing pains or even attention deficit/hyperactivity disorder. The cause of RLS is unknown, but may be associated with iron deficiency, heavy metal poisoning, anemia, nerve damage, high blood levels of uric acid, and kidney failure.

Preventive measures for RLS include establishing a regular sleep pattern, getting moderate exercise, and good nutrition. A hot bath or leg massage before bedtime may be helpful. It is thought that alcohol and cigarette smoking may worsen the condition. Dietary supplementation with vitamin E and the B vitamins such as folic acid is thought to be preventative as well.

Thanks Now!

The year has come to an end, but thankfully with 11 heat race wins and 5 feature wins. Thanks to Seth's Self Storage, DeWitt Charter Service, J&B Logging, Frazee Excavating, Paul Thomas & Sons Inc., Trade Winds, Copy Catz Pizza, Maryland Minerals and Designs 2000 for helping me accomplish a great year of racing. At times things got tough, but with the help of my supportive pit crew, Mike Greene, Mike Fike, Bill Murray, Alex Close, Jeff Simpson, and Dad and Mom, we made it a success. Plus, as for my fans, it was always a good feeling to know wherever I traveled I could always look up in the grandstands and see familiar faces.

I want my sponsors, pit crew and fans to know I sincerely thank you for all you've done for me this past year.

For Denise, I want to thank you for helping me believe in faith and giving me the courage you do, for all.....

Thanks, and Happy Holidays!

Laker Women Split; Rally Downs Anne Arundel Before Frederick Loss

The Garrett Community College women's basketball team began its season this week with a 67-61 come-from-behind victory over Anne Arundel Community College Saturday before losing to Frederick Community College by a 74-44 margin two nights later.

Garrett got its year off on the right foot by rallying from a six-point halftime deficit to catch Anne Arundel and eventually win by six points. The Lakers outscored their visitors by a whopping 47-35 margin in the second half.

The Lakers started the contest by putting five freshmen on the floor. First-year guard Donielle Gaines ended up leading the Garrett squad with 15 points, connecting on four field goals (including a pair of three-pointers) and going 5 for 8 from the free throw line.

Fellow freshman Shawntice McLaughlin, a 5-3 guard, and sophomore guard and co-captain Amanda Larnerd each tallied 11 points (one of Larnerd's field goals coming from three-point range), and freshman guard Tiffany Morris hit two field goals and each of her three foul shots to net seven points. McLaughlin handed out four assists to help spark the scoring.

First-year center Tameka Graves, 6-1, cleared 17 rebounds, making for a fine college debut on the boards.

"We showed tremendous character with five freshmen starting their first collegiate game," said Garrett coach Ann Weliham. "We found ourselves in an early hole and battled back from a deficit. In the second half, we regained our composure and played more of our game."

Monday night's contest was not surprisingly a different story as the still-learning Lakers took on the Frederick Cougars, one of the top women's JUCO programs in the nation, on the Cougars' home court in Frederick. Garrett, down by a 48-13 score at the half, narrowed the margin slightly over the second half to finish 30 points off the mark. Frederick hit for five three-pointers to GCC's one, by freshman guard Gretchen Baker, and the Lakers committed a whopping 24 personal fouls to the Cougars' 18.

Freshman Erica Henderson, who hit eight field goals and one of three free throws to total 17 points from her forward slot, was the only Laker to connect for double digits. Fellow freshman Sha'Ray Washington, a 6-1 center, followed with six points, while Blackmon tallied five points.

Garrett (1-1) is off for a several-day Thanksgiving break, and will take to its home floor against CCAC-Allegheny Monday, Nov. 29, at 6 p.m.

GCC's Wolf Earns JUCO Volleyball Recognition

Laurel Wolf, a sophomore at Garrett Community College and member of the GCC Lakers' volleyball team, has received a Maryland JUCO volleyball's 1999 All Conference Team Honorable Mention.

Wolf has played for the Garrett volleyball team for two years. She accumulated a 96 percent service average, 109 assists during her freshman year on the team, and earned the Most Improved Volleyball Player award for 1998. Her sophomore year ended with a 94 percent service average and 187 assists.

Wolf plans to major in pre-medicine. She resides with her parents, Dr. Michael and Linda Wolf, in Friendsville.

"Laurel acted as a starting setter her freshman and sophomore years for the Lakers," said Laker coach Margaret Quinn. "Her efforts were a major contribution to the Laker offense. Laurel is an excellent example of a student-athlete."

Artworks Sought For DNR Duck Stamp Contest

Submissions of artwork are being sought for the 2000-2001 Maryland Migratory Waterfowl Stamp Design Contest. This year, Maryland's Department of Natural Resources (DNR), in partnership with the Friends of the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center, will sponsor the contest, which is designed to promote wise management of natural resources.

The annual design competition, in its 27th year, is more familiarly known as the duck stamp contest. It serves as the mechanism for choosing the artwork that is reproduced in stamp form and required to be affixed to waterfowl hunting licenses. Duck stamps also are widely collected and treasured for their uniqueness and beauty.

"Art is a very important venue for gaining insight and appreciation of our precious natural resources, and this is a wonderful opportunity for Maryland artists to showcase their talent," said DNR Secretary Dr. Sarah Taylor-Rogers. "We are also very fortunate to have the Friends of the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center as a partner in this effort."

The contest is open exclusively to Maryland artists. Judging will occur April 1, 2000, at noon at the Patuxent National Wildlife Visitor Center in Laurel. Contestants and the public are invited to attend and witness the judging process. For complete contest rules and information, contact DNR on-line at: www.dnr.state.md.us/wildlife/duckstamp, or toll free in Maryland 877-620-8DNR, ext. 8012.

Proceeds from the sale of the $6 duck stamp fund waterfowl research and habitat enhancements on public lands throughout the state. Since its inception, $3 million in stamp sales have been used to create and improve waterfowl migration and wintering areas. Recent projects include: providing 380 acres of quality feed for wintering Canada geese; installation of wheelchair accessible waterfowl hunting blinds at the LeCompte Wildlife Management Area in Dorchester County; monitoring the effect of nutria on wetland habitat; controlling phragmite, an invasive plant that displaces natural vegetation and reduces the value of wetlands for wildlife; and expanding a six-acre impoundment at the E.A. Vaughn Wildlife Management Area, improving food and cover for wintering ducks.

The 1999-2000 duck stamp winner was Wally Makuchal of Girdletree, near Salisbury. The winning piece, titled "Colors on Parade," is primarily an oil work with some mixed media. The background is airbrushed acrylic. In what the artist calls a "realistic style," it depicts a male and female wood duck floating along in a calm body of water in the afternoon sun.

The daughter of Patricia and Harold Michaels of Swanton, she took the animal while hunting with her dad on private property in the Sanders Lane area. The deer is being mounted for the family wall.

MCHENRY YOUTH TAKES YOUNG BUCK - Wesley Spiker, 11, took his first buck during Saturday's Youth Hunt Day. The son of Bill and Claudia Spiker of the Sang Run area, Spiker took the spike while hunting with family members on family property.

questioning he implicated his housemate and also reportedly stated that Warren had a handgun on his person during the time of the burglary. Officers recovered a .22 revolver from the trailer during their search.

Warren, who faces charges of second degree burglary, felony theft, and a handgun violation, is being held at the Garrett County Detention Center on a $75,000 bond as set by a district court commissioner. Gardea is being held on second degree burglary and felony theft charges, and his bond is set at $50,000.

In other GBI news, two men were arrested recently as a result of separate investigations of alleged child abuse.

Michael Lewis Seen, 32, Frostburg, was arrested on Nov. 15 on two counts each of child abuse, third degree sex offense, and battery. He reportedly carried out ongoing sexual abuse of the same alleged victim over a period of several years while residing in several different locations. During one period within that time frame Seen resided in Grantsville, where some of the incidents allegedly took place. He reportedly moved to Allegany County earlier this year.

Seen has been released from jail on a $10,000 bond.

John David Upole, 35, Oakland, was arrested on Nov. 13 and charged with child abuse and second degree assault for allegedly hitting a juvenile repeatedly with a plastic baseball bat in what he reportedly claimed was a disciplinary action. He has since been released after posting a $10,000 bond.

Robosson said that he was excited about the prospect of this new facility. "This is something our company has been considering for several years, but we were waiting for the right time," he explained. He noted that he was "very impressed" with the assistance he had received throughout the process, from the choice of location, to the preparation of business and financial plans, to the permit process.

Commissioner chairman Ernie Gregg commented on the continued development in the Northern Garrett Industrial Park. "In the last six months we have seen a substantial addition to Hobby House Press and the announcement of the location of two new businesses in the park. This activity is a result of the continued commitment of the Board of County Commissioners and the Office of Economic Development to foster economic growth in Garrett County," Gregg concluded.

Women Escape

Kenworth tractor-trailer operated by Donald W. Nelan, 33, Beverly, W.Va., who swung his rig to the right in an attempt to avoid rear-ending the Blazer.

The tractor-trailer skidded as it was passing alongside Harsh's vehicle and the rear portion of the trailer struck the passenger side of her Blazer. According to witnesses, the impact spun the Blazer around and rolled it three or four times before it came to a rest upside down in a ditch along the right side of the roadway. Harsh and her passenger, Bonnie Jean Harsh, 49, both crawled out through the broken front windshield. Although the Blazer's airbags did not deploy, both women were wearing safety belts at the time of the accident.

The women were transported by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where they were treated for minor injuries and released. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also assisted on the accident scene.

Nelan, the operator of the tractor-trailer, was not injured, but has been charged by the sheriff's office with failure to control speed to avoid a collision. The report stated that his rig, which was transporting a load of wood chips, left skid marks approximately 100 feet along the highway.

In other sheriff's news, a single-vehicle accident in Kitzmiller resulted in the serious injury of the car's lone occupant Thursday evening.

Betty Lou Clark, 73, Kitzmiller, was operating a 1988 Chevrolet Cavalier on State Street at approximately 7:13 p.m. when she apparently blacked out. Her vehicle accelerated through the intersection with Kitzmiller Road, struck a guardrail, and came to a rest in a concrete ditch at the bottom of an embankment alongside Kitzmiller Road.

Clark was flown by Maryland State Police Trooper 5 helicopter to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where she remained hospitalized as of last night in satisfactory condition.

The Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire Department and Elk District Ambulance Service (Elk Garden, W.Va.) also responded to the scene.

A single vehicle accident that occurred shortly after midnight last night on George Washington Highway near Althouse Hill Road resulted in injuries to two Oakland women. The circumstances are still under investigation by sheriff's deputies.

The mishap occurred when a 1994 GMC truck traveling eastbound on George Washington Highway left the roadway and struck a cement wall. Two occupants of the vehicle, Jeannie Rebecca Hesson and Julianne Elizabeth Hesson, both 22, were transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial for their injuries.

One of the women was subsequently transported via ambulance to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., where she was admitted, while the other remained hospitalized as of this morning at Garrett Memorial. Hospital spokespersons were unable to provide details as to which subject is hospitalized where, or on their respective conditions.

The sheriff's office said that investigators are still trying to determine whether one of the women was operating the truck at the time of the accident, or whether a third party may have been involved.

CLEANING UP in tri-state area kart racing were the members of the Western Maryland Kart Club, who captured six of a possible eight track championship this season. Five of those titles were garnered at the Laurel Highlands Kart Track in Somerset, Pa. Pictured above left front is Bryson Sanders, the 1999 champion in the Rookie Class. He is sponsored by Southern Auto Supply, Southern States, and Cub Cadet through Naylor's Hardware. Second from left front is Jeremy Murphy, the champion in the Senior Light Class and runner-up in the Senior Medium Class. He is sponsored by T-C Engineering, Norm Hanline Excavating, Lakeside Dock and Racing Collectibles, Lakeview Auto Parts, Randy's Body Shop, and Signs by Design. Pictured far left, second row, is Steve Cowgill, the 1999 champion in the Gas and Oil division. He is sponsored by Western Maryland Tin Shop. Standing in the back is Eric Bowman, who finished third in the Rookie Class. He is sponsored by Lakeview Auto Parts, Horsepower Graphics, Markwood Chevy/Olds, and Signs by Design. Standing center is Chad Feaster, who had five feature wins at Laurel Highlands and four at Winchester, Va. He is sponsored by T-C Engineering, Markwood Chevy/Olds, Signs by Design, and Griffith Specialties. Pictured far right is Dave Smith, who at age 68 captured the Cage Karts championship. He is sponsored by Smith Engineering. Beside him are his son Doug and grandson. Standing rear right is Rick Meglaye of Pennsylvania, who won the Senior Medium Class title. Not present for the photo was Western Maryland Club member Cody Hardesty, who was the 1999 Pennsylvania Dirt Track Champion, Stock Heavy Class. Hardesty, who is sponsored by Chippy's Transmission Service, Pleasant Valley Tarp, Nu-Finish Auto Center, and Action Towing, recorded 26 feature wins this season. The racers all noted their appreciation to their sponsors.

Rev. Dean said that they had planned on receiving about 2,600 boxes from the area, so they had to order more packing crates to accommodate the much larger than expected response.

Stephens said that he was surprised by the attention that the project gained from local newspaper and radio stations. "People called from Oakland, Frostburg, Cumberland, Grantsville, Fort Ashby, and many other places, all saying they wanted to help," he said. "A Cub Scout pack and a church from Ridgeley and Fort Ashby (W.Va.) even took shoe boxes to the collection site in Fountain for me, but they said they wanted me to get the credit.

"I'm happy that we can help all these kids who don't have nearly as much as we do," he said. "I really want to thank everyone who helped me with this effort. I never could have done it alone."

Last year Operation Christmas Child collected over 2.3 million shoe boxes from throughout the United States, Canada, Europe, and Australia, which were then distributed in more than 55 countries throughout Latin America, Eastern Europe, Africa, Asia, and the Middle East.

"This project offers the opportunity to reach out to needy children in desperate situations around the world," stated Franklin Graham, president of Samaritan's Purse. "It's not just about reaching children with shoe boxes. It's about sharing the Good News of Jesus Christ with them through Christian literature that is distributed with the boxes."

area, meaning that Stephens and his contributors collected over 37% of that total.

Stephens said that 21 local churches, three entire schools, two other individual classes, Troop 22 members, four Cub Scout packs, one sorority, and numerous individuals participated in his project, either by contributing completed boxes or by donating items and/or money. Shoe boxes were stored at Stephens' house or were delivered to the J.C. Penney store in Oakland. They were checked to make sure that they met all of the specifications of the sponsoring organization (Samaritan's Purse). After being delivered to Fountain, they were loaded on a tractor/trailer and sent to Boone, N.C., to be shipped overseas.

Man Faces

and his passenger, Benito Juan Perea, 21, Corinth, W.Va., were each charged with possession of marijuana.

Mayne was subsequently released from jail after posting a $2,500 bond, and Perea was released after posting a $1,000 bond.

A West Virginia man was jailed for drug and alcohol offenses Thursday night by deputies checking for a reported underage drinking party at an N Street apartment complex in Mtn. Lake Park.

Kenneth Clayton Reckart, 18, Aurora, was arrested on the scene at 10:30 p.m. and charged with underage consumption of alcohol after deputies reportedly aroused him from a stupor. While conducting a search after that arrest, the deputies reported finding a bag of suspected marijuana in one of Reckart's pockets. He was then charged with possession of marijuana as well.

Reckart was subsequently released on his own recognizance after appearing before a district court commissioner.

A Terra Alta, W.Va., woman was arrested on drug and alcohol charges early Saturday morning after a traffic stop along Sand Flat Road.

Stephanie Ann Johnson, 35, faces charges of DWI, possession of marijuana and cocaine, and drug paraphernalia. The deputy reportedly noted the smell of burnt marijuana coming from inside her vehicle as he was talking to her, and a subsequent search uncovered a brass pipe, rolling papers, a bag of suspected marijuana, and a small flip-up mirror case with suspected cocaine on the mirror. The report also noted that a sizable amount of currency was found in the car.

Johnson was subsequently released from jail after posting a $1,000 bond.

A Frostburg man faces charges of DWI and failure to obey a lawful order after his Saturday night arrest in Grantsville.

Christopher Lee Jones, 18, was arrested shortly before midnight at a Meadow View Drive apartment complex where deputies had earlier dispersed a disorderly gathering. Jones had been instructed not to return, but was apprehended at the complex a short time later. He was released from jail after posting a $500 bond.

Thomas William Morgan, 34, Frostburg, was arrested after a search at the jail uncovered a bag of suspected marijuana in his pocket. Morgan was being booked after he had been served with an unrelated arrest warrant. After being charged with possession of marijuana, he was released on a $3,000 bond.

John Edward Ayers, 19, and Ryan Patrick Channel, 18, were both released on their own recognizance after being arrested for trespassing in the parking lot of Browning's Foodland on Nov. 11. The men, who had previously been warned not to loiter in the area, were each charged with trespassing and failure to obey a lawful order.

Several other DWI arrests, in addition to those previously mentioned, were made by sheriff's deputies recently. Facing DWI charges are Matthew Lee Paugh, 21, Jonathan David Farmer, 23, and Mark James Park, 35, all of Oakland; Charles Melvin Culp, 37, Mtn. Lake Park; and Patrick Joseph Marcinko, 37, York, Pa.

Leads Sought By Deputies In Hunting Mishap

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is seeking leads in an apparent hunting incident that resulted in damage to a Deep Creek Lake area home.

The incident, which occurred between Oct. 18 and 22, involved a muzzleloader or a rifle slug of unknown caliber that went through the exterior wall of an unoccupied residence in the 1400 block of Sandy Shores Court, located off Shingle Camp Road. The slug, which was not recovered, traveled through both sides of a shower stall and fell into the drywall space between the next wall.

Sheriff's deputies are seeking any leads regarding a hunter who may have been in the area at the time of the incident. Persons may contact the sheriff's office at 301-334-1911, or Garrett County Crimesolvers at 301-334-1975.

In other sheriff's office investigations, leads are sought in the case of the theft of a hunting bow and arrow set from a parked vehicle in the McHenry area. The Golden Eagle Evolution compound bow, valued at $800, and several accessories including arrows were taken from a Chevrolet Suburban between Thursday morning and Friday evening. The vehicle was parked at two different locations during that time period: at the owner's Bumble Bee Road residence adjacent to Garrett Community College, and in the college's parking lot.

A horse was shot and killed in a field along the 3600 block of Kitzmiller Road the night of Oct. 13. No further information was available on the incident, which amounted to a $1,000 loss.

An unattended Friendsville residence was ransacked during a burglary that occurred between Sept. 27 and Oct. 13. A window was broken out of the Wakefield Road home to allow access, and at least two guns, a 12-gauge pump shotgun and a .22 caliber Magnum rifle, were stolen. Damage to the structure's interior exceeded $1,000.

Casselman Veterinary Services, Grantsville, was broken into between Oct. 5 and 12 when a lock was pried off and the contents of the office were ransacked. Nothing was found to be missing from the Hemlock Drive business, but the damage to the door amounted to $500.

An Oakland area trailer was broken into via its front door between Oct. 5 and 12. The total loss from the residence, located in the 200 block of Plessinger Lane, was estimated at $525; taken were a pair of gold wrist chains, as well as several shirts and videotapes.

A tool shed located in the 300 block of Klinks Lane was burglarized sometime in September after a door lock was broken by the perpetrator(s). The $300-$500 loss included a 16-inch chainsaw of unknown make, and two boxes of assorted tools, mostly of the Sears Craftsman line.

A 20-inch Stihl .038 chainsaw was taken from a sawmill located in the 2420 block of Mason School Road on Oct. 29. The saw was valued between $250-$300.

An apparent theft by deception occurred at the Grantsville Foodland on Nov. 10 when a subject allegedly took $150 from a cashier at the store without the employee's knowledge. Investigators are looking for a man described as a black male, 5-6, 150 pounds, who was carrying a bank money bag at the time of the incident.

Four hundred dollars in cash was taken from the petty cash box of the Deer Park Spring Water Company recently. The theft was discovered Tuesday morning at the company's office, located along Hotel Road in Deer Park.

A Pepsi machine outside Reel Video along Weber Road was the target of an Oct. 13 theft attempt. The next morning, employees of the video store found that the lock had been broken off and the hasp had been tampered with, although entry was not gained to the coin box. Damage was estimated at $150.

A small quantity of prescription medications, Methadone and Percoset, were taken from a vehicle parked in the Wisp Resort parking lot late at night on Nov. 11. Each medication was in a prescription bottle.

A large, older model gray car reportedly ran over and destroyed a stop sign at the intersection of K and Oak streets in Mtn. Lake Park on Nov. 14 at approximately 5 p.m. The vehicle was observed fleeing the scene in the direction of Maryland Highway.

Bud's Package Store, located in the 2400 block of Hutton Road, was burglarized during the night of Nov. 12. An exterior window situated next to a shelf inside the store was broken out, and the perpetrator(s) apparently reached through the opening to remove several bottles of vodka. A Buffalo carpenter's knife lying on the inside window sill was recovered from the scene.

Vandals apparently damaged the Gonder Insurance Agency billboard along Oakland Drive in Mtn. Lake Park on Oct. 29. The dents, possibly caused by thrown rocks, necessitated the sign's repainting.

An attempted break-in of the Sound Waves store in the Brodak Plaza shopping center took place on Oct. 29 when a perpetrator(s) tried to break the lock on the business door.

WORLD AIDS DAY IS DEC. 1, and this week local citizens and the Garrett County commissioners proclaimed the county's observance of the worldwide designation. The document signed by the officials states in part that the global spread of HIV (human immunodeficiency virus) infection and AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) necessitates a worldwide effort to increase communication, education, and action to stop the spread of these illnesses. The Joint United Nations Program on HIV/AIDS (UNAIDS) designates Dec. 1 each year as World AIDS Day, a day to expand and strengthen the worldwide effort to stop the spread of HIV/AIDS. UNAIDS has estimated that 33.4 million people are currently living with HIV/AIDS, with individuals under the age of 25 accounting for more than half of all new infections. The American Association for World Health is encouraging a better understanding of the illnesses, the document states, as the number of people diagnosed in the United States continues to increase, with 688,200 AIDS cases reported as of Dec. 1998. The World AIDS Day theme is "AIDS — End the Silence. Listen, Learn, Live!" This encourages individuals to "a) listen to young people, hear their views and concerns, and engage them in conversation about issues concerning sex, sexuality, and HIV/AIDS; b) learn from one another about respect, participation, support, and ways to prevent HIV infection; and c) live in a world where fewer people are infected with HIV, where the rights of young people are protected, and where those living with HIV/AIDS are cared for and are free from discrimination." At the signing, Donna McClintock noted that the county's AIDS council has been active since 1983, working to continue to educate the public about HIV/AIDS and help to prevent the spread of the illness. She said it is a misconception to believe that Garrett County is safe from the illnesses, and this sentiment was echoed by Southern freshman Christie Hamilton, a member of Pandora's Box, who read a short story by Northern High junior Julie Green titled "The Presence of the Dragon." In the photo, seated left to right, are Commissioners Wendell Beitzel, Fred Holliday, and Ernest Gregg. Standing in the same order are health workers Kendra Todd, Lisa Wilt, Christie Hamilton, Donna McClintock, Paulette Kelly, and Joanne Harsh.

charged with overseeing the administration of any monies that may come earmarked for the station, as we are with some earlier grant proposals we've received."

The Oakland council and town's Main Street Program have worked with GCCAC in the past to seek national and state funding for the train station, Tolbert said. GCCAC provided the required 501c3 designation and administrative coverage for such endeavors as the Oakland Train Station Tax Credit Program, which then returns to the donor most of the monies or goods given to the building.

"Several area companies and individuals have made the best of that program and received not only tax credits but also wide public acknowledgment of their generosity," Tolbert noted.

Donors utilizing the tax credit program to make donations to the renovation project will also be recognized in a permanent display, he said. The $10,000 donation made by First United was made under the tax credit program and was timed with this announcement.

•The mayor and town council renewed the accounting and auditing contracts with Devine & Sheffield through 2001.

•The mayor and council will again sponsor the annual holiday decorating contest for town residences and businesses. The prizes will be awarded as follows: 1st place business, $25; 1st place residence, $50; 2nd place residence, $30; and third place residence, $20. Independent judging will start at 5 p.m. on December 21. Winners will be announced at 7:30 p.m. during the council meeting that evening.

•Bids for the purchase of a plow were discussed. A decision will be made soon.

•The council voted to purchase a computer for the town.

•A letter was received from the office of the county commissioners concerning the tax differential. The town will not pursue this issue.

•Kitzmiller will continue to collect its own municipal taxes rather than bill through the county.

•The annual Christmas tree lighting, plus a community sing and refreshments, will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 1, at 6 p.m.

•The town and the Lions Club will jointly purchase chairs and tables for the community building.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Dec. 27.

Editor's Note: The following article for In-Touch Communications Inc. was inadvertently omitted from the Christmas Wonders publication. It follows here in its entirety:

In-Touch Communications Inc.

During the holiday season, both In-Touch Communications stores (in Oakland and McHenry) will be drop-off locations for items desperately needed at the Dove Center, the local domestic violence and assault resource center.

According to Linda Spassil, the director at the shelter, the following items are needed: bedding sets for twin beds, laundry detergent, paper towels, toilet paper, hand soap, cleaning supplies, paper napkins, seasonal decorations, and trash bags.

These items can be dropped off at either location of In-Touch Communications, McHenry near Slopeside Citgo or Oakland at the Get 'n Go kiosk.

As for Christmas ideas, give the gift of safety! In-Touch Communications offers a full array of items designed to deliver a greater level of safety. Wireless communications are no longer just for corporate users. The affordability and flexibility of calling and pager plans makes wireless a wonderful gift option to provide security, convenience, and accessibility to the people we love.

As an authorized agent to U.S. Cellular, the company sports several calling plans and pager options that fit each customer's unique travel patterns. And the new digital calling plan provides another exciting wireless option. A full range of cellular equipment and pagers are also available at both locations.

Shoppers are invited to visit our stores and discuss wireless communication needs with our friendly staff. If shoppers want to deliver a gift on the holiday, purchases can be selected now and activated on Christmas Day. Gift certificates also make a welcome gift.

TRAILBLAZERS
by Sarah Cosner

The Trailblazers meeting was held on Nov. 18 at Yough Glades Elementary School. Susan Mayfield discussed the Livestock Association meeting and the changes that might happen next year at the fair. We then finished planning our Christmas and Achievement Dinner in December. We drew names for the Christmas exchange.

We then elected officers for next year. The officers are: president, Diana Mayfield; vice president, Erica Green; secretary, Angie Beckman; treasurer, Nick Rush; reporter, Emily Cosner; photographer, Emily Green; and song leaders, Cody Ferguson, Carey Rush, and Jeremy Miller.

Enrollment information was given out to all members. Everyone was asked to bring their enrollment back to the Dec. 3 dinner. Members who are planning to take a beef to the fair received their beef identification cards and were reminded that they are due Jan. 15 at the extension office, and their cattle need to be tagged by Jan. 1.

Jennifer Cosner gave a demonstration about her cat. Diana Mayfield and Angie Beckman gave a demonstration on "How To Do a Record Book." After demonstrations, questions were answered about record books and enrollment. Record books are due at the January meeting.

Emily, Sarah, and Jennifer Cosner served refreshments. Our next meeting will be Dec. 3 at 6:30 at Yough Glades Elementary School for our Christmas and Achievement Dinner.

GOP Committee Attends State Party Meeting

Members of the Garrett County Republican Central Committee attended the Maryland Republican Party state convention held recently in Bethesda.

Seminars on successful Lincoln Day dinners and technology up-dates were presented. The party leaders attending the meeting participated in a straw poll vote in which candidate George W. Bush was selected with 125 votes — almost four times as many as the runner-up, Arizona senator John McCain, who received 33 votes. Following Bush and McCain were Steve Forbes with 12 votes, Alan Keyes with 8 votes, and Gary Bauer with 6 votes.

Party members attending were polled on the vice presidential choices, and those votes were closer. Congressman John Kasich was first with 41 votes, followed by Elizabeth Dole with 35 and Colin Powell with 26. Gov. Tom Ridge of Pennsylvania received 22 votes and New Jersey governor Christine Todd Whitman took 16 votes.

Garrett County representatives to the convention were committee chairman Brenda Butscher, vice chairman Arzella Parsons, William Skipper, and Beatrice Crosco.

POKEMON: THE FIRST MOVIE

Rated G - Running Time: 1:15 - Released 11/10/99

Cabbage Patch Dolls, Tickle Me Elmos, Beanies, Furbys. Every holiday season has its toy sensation. This year it's Pokémon, the Japanese cartoon/video game phenomenon that has schoolkids collecting trading cards and following the exploits of hundreds of characters with names like Pikachu, Squirtle, Siduck, and Mew. These characters, each endowed with a few quasi-magical talents, cannot speak except to utter their own names. Apparently, Pokémon are trained and kept as pets by humans, occasionally being required to fight each other in a ring like gladiators. The Japanenglish name Pokémon, short for "Pocket Monsters," derives from the fact that they are kept inside pocket-sized round containers until they are called on to perform. I have obtained this information through an exhausting period of research, buying Burger King kids' meals, taking copious notes during the film, and, most importantly, asking my 7-year-old. He seems to be an authority.

Pokémon: The First Movie (a terribly depressing title for a movie critic) is directed by Michael Haigney and Kunohiko Yuyama. It begins with a cartoon short called Pikachu's Vacation, which is designed to 1) get the kiddies psyched up for the main event, 2) acquaint us ignorant parents with the numerous, task-specific creatures, and 3) sell Pokémon merchandise. Apart from occasional commentary by an unseen narrator, the dialogue of Pikachu's Vacation consists entirely of Pikachu, the most popular character (voice of Ikue Ootani, as if it mattered) and his friends saying their names over and over. I mean, this stuff is worse than the Smurfs. The animation is the kind of flat, jerky Japanese artwork we have seen for decades, exactly like the old Speed Racer cartoons of the '60s.

Then the feature begins. MewTwo Strikes Back involves a superintelligent Pokémon cloned from the DNA of a gentle puss named Mew. However, "Mewtwo" is an evil, angry cat who resents humans and their obedient slave-pets, so he decides to destroy everyone and rule the Earth himself. But he needs an army of super Pokémon clones (by the way, the plural of "Pokémon" is "Pokémon"), so he invites the world's best trainers and their pets to his island, promising a world-class match. This crowd includes Pikachu, his trainer, Ash (Veronica Taylor), friends Misty and Brock (Racheal Lillis and Eric Stuart), and Jesse and James of "team Rocket" (also Lillis and Stuart). A melee ensues.

As lame as it is (and it is), this film actually has a more coherent plot than I thought it would. Written by Takeshi Shudo (English version by Norman J. Grossfeld and director Haigney), it contains some mild violence, but its main theme of "why can't we all just get along?" is at least something parents can approve of. The kids in the audience at my showing were certainly enthralled, and I only fell asleep twice. ★½

THE WORLD IS NOT ENOUGH

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:07 - Released 11/19/99

I tried to have a good attitude about the new James Bond film, The World Is Not Enough. Surely, I thought, this one will have some redeeming qualities. Surely the writers will at least attempt to rise beyond the hackneyed stereotypical consciousness that has plagued the franchise since its early days in the '60s. Surely, I thought, it'll be better than Tomorrow Never Dies.

Alas.

I knew before the first 20 minutes had passed that this film, directed by Michael Apted (of the 7-Up series) and written by Neal Purvis, Robert Wade, and Bruce Feirstein, contained the same tired formula we have come to know and loathe from the Bond series. Convoluted plotlines, high-tech gadgetry, gross sexism, and stuff blowing up. I have no idea why so many men like this stuff. But what I really can't fathom is why so many women like it. And don't tell me it's Pierce Brosnan.

In this installment, James Bond (Brosnan) is asked to play bodyguard to a young oil baroness named Elektra King (Sophie Marceau) after her father is blown up at MI6 headquarters, Bond's home base. Bond's superior, M (Judi Dench) feels responsible for King's death, because she had advised him not to pay $5 million in ransom money to a terrorist who had kidnapped Elektra. Elektra, who has since escaped and is supervising the construction of an oil pipeline in Azerbaijan, is not interested in Bond's help, but when a bunch of guys in helicopter-snowmobiles try to kill her, she changes her mind.

Soon it is discovered that the kidnapper is none other than Renard (Robert Carlyle, The Full Monty), a heartless killer who has already been shot once in the head. In fact, the bullet that entered his brain is still there, numbing his senses so that he doesn't feel any pain. "The bullet will eventually kill him," says the staff doctor, "but he'll keep getting stronger until then." I can't believe I'm writing this tripe.

When Bond goes to a nuclear missile launch site to find out what Renard is up to, he meets Christmas Jones (Melrose Place's Denise Richards), who, when she's not polishing her nails or making sure her bra is still able to contain her copious bosom, is a nuclear scientist. But a foreman assures Bond that, because he has not had any success getting her in the sack, Ms. Jones is "not interested in men." While constantly trying to dodge bullets and outrun explosions, Bond has to decide who, if anyone, is on his side. And he has to do it quickly, because M has been taken prisoner and given a front-row ticket to the next fiery explosion.

As usual, for comic relief we have good ol' gadget wizard Q (still played by 55-year-old Desmond Llewelyn) who, after 17 appearances in Bond movies since 1967, is threatening to retire, and his replacement-in-training, R (John Cleese), whose clumsy comic style, while mildly amusing, is out of place here. And we have all the preposterous plot devices we would expect from a Bond opus — women who are willing to trade anything for sex, boats driving down the street, helicopters with huge circular saws dangling from them, a submarine doing a nose-dive to the bottom of the ocean, and a high-speed chase inside an empty pipe. We have everything for the man of good taste, provided he has an I.Q. under 87. ★★½

SLEEPY HOLLOW

Rated R - Running Time: 1:45 - Released 11/19/99

The Legend Of Sleepy Hollow is one of Washington Irving's most famous stories; it would make a perfect Halloween movie. Unfortunately, spookmeister Tim Burton's version, Sleepy Hollow, was not released until now, which thoroughly undermines its effectiveness. It shouldn't matter (and if it were a better film, it wouldn't), but had Sleepy Hollow been released a month ago when we were all in seeing black cats and jack-o-lanterns in our sleep, it would have been up against Bats and The House On Haunted Hill, and it would have given them a proper thrashing at the box office. Now that Halloween is over, however, and the film industry has officially entered Oscar season, this flawed opus simply looks like a second-rate period thriller. Too bad.

Sleepy Hollow is special effects make-up man Kevin Yagher's first try as writer, and it shows. Though he had help from more experienced writer Andrew Kevin Walker (Seven), and Irving's main theme is adequately presented, the details of this particular adaptation often seem forced and clumsy. There are various murder mystery-style puzzles for us to figure out, but usually they are uninspired and/or laughably easy to decipher. The tone seems to be in conflict between Burton's usual tongue-in-cheek style and a straight horror/thriller; we don't know if we're supposed to be scared or amused, so neither is true. As one would expect, the effects involving the headless horseman are fun to watch, but much of the non-horseman footage is tiresome. Johnny Depp, who has worked with Burton before in Ed Wood and Edward Scissorhands, is unable to convince us of any of his character's main motivations, e.g., fear, determination, or affection for his love interest (Christina Ricci). Frankly, he just looks tired. The one character with some life, ironically, is the one who is dead. Christopher Walken (whose only line is "Aaaaarrrrgh!") plays the horseman during the few scenes when he has a head. Walken is fiery and energetic; he's the only one in the film who is.

The year is 1799. Constable Ichabod Crane (Depp), a New York investigator with a penchant for forensics, is chosen to investigate the small upstate town of Sleepy Hollow, where three murders have occurred in two weeks. When he arrives, the town looks just like one dreamed up by Tim Burton — fog, graves, and eerie darkness. He soon meets the town's elders: banker Baltus Van Tassel (Michael Gambon), magistrate Phillipse (Richard Griffiths), Doc Lancaster (Ian McDiarmid), Reverend Steenwyck (Jeffrey Jones), and notary Hardenbrook (Michael Gough). Tales of the Headless Horseman permeate the town, and the skeptical Crane soon believes them, too — after having a few close calls with the villain himself. So the issue becomes a matter of discovering where the horseman comes from, and who (if anyone) is controlling him. There is a mysterious air of conspiracy among the men, a mysterious young woman (Ricci) who seems to be practicing witchcraft, and a mysterious sub-plot involving the will of a recently deceased town leader.

Depp and Ricci seem to be in a game of one-upsmanship to see who can look more sleepy and uninspired. The town elders are reasonably convincing in their small roles, but the intricacies of the plot seem to drag the film down instead of make it interesting. There are numerous scenes of heads being lopped off, but none are really gory enough to be disturbing. The Burton trademark special effects are typically fun, but the late release and lackluster performances make Sleepy Hollow feel exactly like its title: sleepy and hollow. ★★★

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

Bearpaw Investigations

OFFERING FULL-SERVICE private investigating, Wayne Paugh, owner of the recently opened Garrett County business Bearpaw Investigations, has many supportive links across the state, developed during his 25 years with the Maryland State Police.

When the doors opened at Bearpaw Investigations in Mtn. Lake Park, a full-time, full-service private investigation agency was added to the roster of Garrett County-based businesses. Owned and operated by 25-year Maryland State Police veteran Wayne R. Paugh, the agency is licensed by Maryland State Police, fully bonded, and commercially insured.

Bearpaw Investigations offers its clients a menu of services, such as process serving, insurance investigations, skip tracing, witness locating, executive protection, pre-employment background investigations, and repossessions and collections. "We have up-to-date photographic and computer equipment. We can handle any type of personal investigation from a lost dog to a missing person," Paugh said.

Among the computerized data base searches performed by Bearpaw are worker's compensation history, real property, telephone checks, social identifier and name checks, uniform commercial code and corporation records, criminal record checks, and motor vehicle records.

In the capacity of private investigator, Paugh will network with agencies and police departments with which he previously worked during his law enforcement career. His experience has provided him with both the knowledge and the connections to help him get a job done as quickly as possible, he explained.

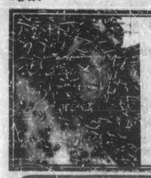
A Garrett County native, Paugh said he decided to open this business following his retirement as a means of staying in Garrett County. His wife Karen, having encouraged and supported this endeavor, is currently managing the office. "Karen and I knew we wanted to stay in this area after I retired. This was one way we could do that. We could not only stay but continue to serve this community," Paugh noted.

Several months ago, prior to his retirement, Paugh had applied to join the peace-keeping forces in Kosovo and Bosnia. "It really looked like that was going to happen. I had the interviews, passport photos taken, and everything. Then they stopped hiring for that position," Paugh explained.

Karen said she had been anxious at the thought of her husband serving in those war-torn regions, but had decided that if it was what he wanted, then he should do it. "But it didn't work out and I am relieved," she admitted.

The Paughs have two grown children who live and work in the Hagerstown area but visit Garrett County frequently.

Conveniently located in Bayberry Castle along Oakland Drive, Bearpaw Investigations serves all of Garrett County and beyond, Paugh said. "We're linked to a nationwide network of private investigators and we will be serving all of the western region."



Paugh holds membership in the National Association of Professional Process Servers, the Maryland Investigators and Security Association, the Maryland State Police Alumni, the Fraternal Order of Police, and the Maryland Troopers' Association.

For more information, persons may contact Bearpaw Investigations at 301-334-4828 or toll free at 877-261-2327.

Older Individuals At Greater Risk For Hypothermia

A warning about dangers of cold weather to older citizens was issued by the state Department of Aging last week. "It is particularly important for older individuals to realize that they are susceptible to hypothermia, the most deadly cold-induced condition," said the department spokesman.

If not caught and treated early on, hypothermia, which occurs when the body's core temperature of 37 degrees Celsius is lowered due to exposure to the cold, can lead to a rapid decline in the body's ability to function normally. "Each year more than 700 Americans die of hypothermia — many in states thought to have mild climates," the spokesman said.

Older individuals have a lower metabolic rate, which makes it more difficult for them to maintain normal body temperature when exposed to cold weather. In addition, since they may not have the ability to detect temperature changes, older people may not seek shelter early enough to avoid becoming hypothermic.

"Many variables contribute to the development of hypothermia. We encourage senior citizens, caregivers, and relatives of older family members to learn about the symptoms, treatment, and prevention of hypothermia," said Sue Ward, secretary of the Maryland Department of Aging.

Cold temperatures, improper clothing, wetness, fatigue and exhaustion, dehydration, poor food intake, some illnesses, and taking some medications are conditions leading to hypothermia. Symptoms to look for include excessive shivering, shallow breathing, inability to think and pay attention, weak pulse, slurred speech, poor control over body movements, irrational behavior, or a blue hue to the skin.

In severe cases, shivering stops, the individual loses consciousness, has little or no breathing, and the pulse is weak, irregular or non-existent.

To treat hypothermia, one should move the victim to a warmer location, replace all cold or wet clothing with layers of warm, dry clothing to prevent further heat loss, and wrap in warm blankets. Persons should not attempt to rewarm with hot water or massage the body, as this could lead to serious tissue damage. Alcohol and nicotine products should not be given to someone suffering from hypothermia. Severe hypothermia requires urgent medical attention.

The rules to preventing hypothermia are the early recognition of symptoms, wearing insulated or layered clothing, drinking plenty of fluids and hot drinks, keeping well nourished, and avoiding alcohol consumption, overexertion and excessive sweating.

In addition to exposure to outside elements, seniors living in poorly heated homes are also at greater risk of hypothermia. The Maryland Energy Assistance and Weatherization Assistance programs help low-income individuals with home heating bills and home weatherization services.

Seniors who wish to receive more information about how to avoid hypothermia or for assistance with heating bills or weatherization services may call the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403 or the Maryland Department of Aging toll free at 1-800-AGE-DIAL.

"Be a concerned relative and neighbor," said Ward. "Be aware of elderly people living alone and check in on them to make sure they are not experiencing problems with the cold weather."

BEING SAFE ON THE FARM - This miniature farm, painstakingly created by Mike Miller, illustrated potential health and safety hazards. His three-dimensional presentation was part of the Garrett County Health Department's Rural Health and Safety Fair, held recently at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. Miller, who spent two hours "building" his farm, also displayed vintage toy tractors to the delight of fair participants both young and old.

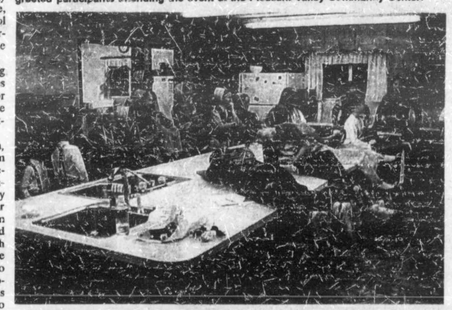
TAKING AIM AT MR. YUK - The Mr. Yuk sticker game, one of the many children's activities at the Rural Health and Safety Fair, helped the younger members of the community become aware of the many faces and places of Mr. Yuk. The stickers of Mr. Yuk, which depict a face tasting something "yuddie," were passed out to the children. These stickers can be placed by parents on potentially dangerous substances to remind youngsters not to touch them.



SHARING INFORMATION - Naomi Petersheim, at left, a committee member for the Rural Health and Safety Fair, took advantage of the opportunity to meet with Becky Parke of the Garrett County Health Department to learn about screening programs for breast and cervical cancer. The display for the free cancer screening program was one of the many informative exhibits provided for fair-goers.

DRACULA CAME TO TAKE BLOOD—blood pressure, that is, during the Halloween luncheon at the Mary Browning Senior Center recently. A number of seniors dressed in costume for the event had their blood pressure checked by Michael Gibbons (aka Dracula) of the Garrett County Health Department, who also provided information on preventative measures and intervention in dealing with health-related issues seniors may face. Shown above with Gibbons is MBSC participant Evelyn Kahl, dressed as Mrs. Dracula.

REACHING OUT TO COMMUNITY MEMBERS OF ALL AGES, Garrett County Health Department's Lois Ford, left, coordinator of the recent Rural Health and Safety Fair, greeted participants attending the event at the Pleasant Valley Community Center.

LEARNING WITH LAUGHTER - Children's activities and games were on the agenda at the recent Garrett County Health Department Rural Health and Safety Fair. Youngsters in the photo above gathered in the kitchen of the Pleasant Valley Community Center for some fun and laughter while playing a safety game at the fair.

Adventure Sports Students Busy

A full calendar of varied activities is keeping GCC's Adventure Sports students busy this semester and giving them "hands on" experiences to augment their academic studies, according to Mike Logsdon, director of the program. "These activities are planned so that students have the opportunities to improve their skill levels in the outdoor sports and to acquire some business experience in the adventure sports industry," Logsdon said.

The climbing wall in the GCC gymnasium provides some of these opportunities. A staff consisting of Josh Lyons, Chris Landers, and Jared Smith manages the wall, which is open at specified hours. Climbing wall competitions with students from Frostburg State University have been scheduled for this month and again in December.

Another business enterprise for students is the Adventure Sports Rental Center, the staff of which consists of Dan Webster, Dave Patrick, Matt Bramlee, Melanie Seiler, Justin Van Saghi, and Josh Frick. The rental center, located in the new Outdoor Studies Building, rents equipment such as mountain bikes, climbing gear, kayaks, canoes, and paddles to adventure sports students.

Other job opportunities for students in the coming months will be internships and jobs as skiing and snowboarding instructors at the Wisp. A GCC ski race team is being formed, with competition to be scheduled for January and February.

At a recent competition in Richwood, W.Va., the GCC mountain bike team, Team Big Wheels, won a first place and second and third places in three categories. In the men's sport category, team coach Clark Lanthier took first place, Matt Bramlee, second place, and Kent Cadotte, third place. Eric Anderson and Joni Fisher finished third in the men's beginner and women's beginner categories. Steve Tomb is advisor to the team.

Once again, an intercollegiate triathlon will be scheduled for a weekend in April, with competition in water paddling and wall climbing. In past years teams from GCC, Ohio University, Hocking Technical College, Frostburg State University, West Virginia University, Edinboro State University, and Salisbury State University have participated.

Another Adirondack Expedition led by Steve Tomb has been scheduled for January 4-19 for students who have already completed courses in back country living skills and introductory rock climbing. During the two-week period, students will earn a total of three credits in mountaineering, ice climbing, and winter camping.

"SNEEZING AND SNIFFLING"

If you have never experienced the misery of being an allergy sufferer, count your blessings and hope you never do. And, this is the time of year, with its springtime breezes, that many people with allergies dread most.

Fortunately, it's not nearly as bad as it used to be. We now stock many prescription medicines that are giving relief to allergy sufferers. Hopefully, new products will be developed so that in years to come, everyone can enjoy springtime.

As the air becomes cold and the branches bare, it is apparent that the season of Thanksgiving is near. We cook turkey and stuffing and all sorts of wonderful offerings behind windows that steam as the crispness of fall meets the warmth of bubbling pans of gravy. Grocery stores strain to meet the demand as the big day nears.

It is the morning of Thanksgiving. One by one, the family arrives from near and far. Doors and hearts open wide for each guest as we greet those whom we do not see often and some whom we do. Finally it is time to join our hands in prayer and give thanks for God's blessings throughout the year.

Of course, everyone does not celebrate Thanksgiving in this same fashion, yet, if we open the door and let God into our hearts, we all can be thankful for the continual blessings of God working in our lives. Visit God's House each week. New blessings await. Happy Thanksgiving!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

THE PERENNIAL CHOICE
November 28, 1999

Background Scripture:
Joshua 24
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 24:14-24.

In 1887 at El-Amarna, an Egyptian peasant woman stumbled across a store of 300 clay tablets that she sold for the equivalent of a dollar. Eventually, another 240 tablets were discovered there in what had been the capital city of Pharaoh Akhenaton. The tablets were a spectacular archaeological find: A large collection of letters between Pharaohs Amenoiphis II and Akhenaton and the governors they appointed to rule in Palestine.

A repeated pattern in these 540 letters is the obsequious swearing of allegiance by the governors to the pharaohs. In letter 236 by Governor Abdu-Heba we find this flowery obeisance: "Your servant renews his oath of loyalty to Pharaoh by bowing seven times seven times..." This oath established a kind of covenant between the Pharaoh and his officials.

The term covenant seems to be growing in popularity within the churches today. We speak of the rite of baptism as a covenant, as well as marriage and any sort of binding agreement. In Old Testament times the covenant signified a "coming together" and "bonding." The English word covenant is descended from the Old French word covenant, a literal "coming together." It is related to the French noun covenir meaning "to agree."

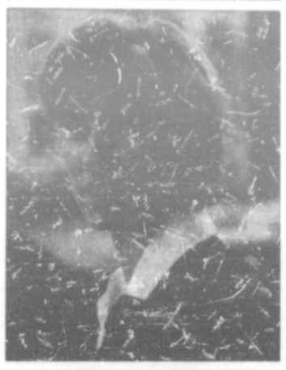
Beginning With Abraham

In the last few months we have traced this concept from the first expression of it from God to Abraham, from Abraham through Isaac, Jacob, and Joseph to Moses, Joshua and the twelve tribes of Israel. This term speaks to us of God's promises regarding the future of Israel and the Promised Land, as well as of Israel's promises to obe God's commandments.



Essentially, the covenant is both a relationship and an agreement. The Old Covenant made through Mose established God as the Lord of Israel and the Israelites as his children selected for a particular mission. In the New Testament we encounter a New Covenant (Testament) sealed by the sacrifice of Jesus's death. It is at the Last Supper that Jesus first utters this term: "This cup is the new covenant in my blood" (Mk. 14:24.) The cup signified his blood that sealed the new agreement between God and his people, the new relationship existing between them.

We tend to think of covenants as once-and-done. But the essence of the Christian's life is the continual renewal of our covenant with God. The scene in Joshua 24 is but one of the many times when Israel was challenged to renew the covenant with the Lord. Seldom has it been expressed so clearly and concisely: "Now therefore fear the Lord, and serve him in sincerity and faithfulness; put away the American Hollow explores bleak reality

By John Crook

Rory Kennedy

At 68, Iree Bowling says she is grateful for her husband, Bass. After all, he never beat her.

And in Mudlick Hollow, a poverty-stricken nine-mile-wide valley in eastern Kentucky, you have to take your blessings where you find them.

In American Hollow, a 90-minute documentary premiering Monday, Nov. 29, on HBO, filmmaker Rory Kennedy chronicles a year in the lives of Iree and her extended family, which includes 13 children (only one of them, David, has left the area).

The results mix black comedy and heartbreaking pathos in a startlingly frank but sensitive look at a clan that has been virtually bound to Mudlick for seven generations, tied by blood, tradition, exhaustion, poverty and, perhaps most unforgivingly, lack of any other options.

Iree raised the many children with little help from her alcoholic husband (the children are a good deal more ambivalent toward Bass than she is). She also cares for her invalid mother – who was chronically and severely beaten while she was married – and her sister, who suffers from brain damage from a childhood accident for which her parents sought no medical assistance.

All of the Bowlings receive government financial assistance, since jobs are virtually nonexistent in the isolated valley. Some family members gather and sell moss, ginseng and bloodroot for extra pocket money, or work as manual laborers for nearby families who are somewhat prosperous. And, let's face it, just about all the other families are more prosperous than the Bowlings.

Against this bleak backdrop, three major stories dominate this year in Mudlick. First, Edgar, one of Iree and Bass' sons, is arrested in a case of mistaken identity and – since the family is unable to scrape up money for bail – is forced to spend 17 days in jail before he is exonerated.

In the second, Iree's granddaughter Samantha flees with her two young children from her abusive husband after being battered repeatedly. She eventually wins a divorce from him, shortly before he is arrested and convicted of murder.

The most heartwrenching story, however, finds Clint, Iree's 17-year-old grandson, about to explode with frustration (major profanity alert!) at the bleak future facing him. He pins all his hopes first on his girlfriend, Shirley, who backs out of their engagement on their wedding day, then on his Uncle David, who talks Clint into going back with him to Cincinnati to look for work.

As Clint bitterly vows he will never return to Mudlick, Grandpa Bass grins stupidly and says, "A bad check always returns."

And sure enough, a month later, Clint is back in the Hollow.

American Hollow isn't an easy film to watch; you may find that you have to disengage and "come up for air" now and then during the telecast. There are moments when it's hard not to feel as if you're eavesdropping, as when the scrawny, bantamlike Clint breaks down completely in his mother's arms after Shirley calls off their wedding.

Kennedy has crafted a documentary of unflinching candor and terrible beauty that carries even greater weight right after Thanksgiving, with its celebration of family and prosperity.

Q: Whatever happened to NYPD Blue? I thought it was coming back this fall. –Mrs. William Hollar, Winter Haven, Fla.

A: The Rick Schroder-Dennis Franz police drama will, in fact, be back. Here is what happened: ABC used the NYPD Blue Tuesday time slot to launch Once and Again this fall, with Blue scheduled to take over its regular period starting Nov. 9.

Once and Again scored big with viewers, however, and ABC didn't want to mess with a good thing – especially since Disney, ABC's parent company, owns a slice of that show. The network told Blue executive producer Steven Bochco it was moving his show to another night.

Not surprisingly, Bochco hit the roof. Long story short: In January, after football season, Once and Again will move to Mondays, and Blue will have its belated season premiere in its Tuesday slot. The good news for Blue fans is that this means their show won't be airing reruns once it premieres.

Q: Did Shannon Sturges (Silent Predators) ever play in a soap opera? She looks familiar! –A.R. Smiley, Selma, Ala.

A: Yes. Sturges played Molly Brinker on Days of Our Lives (1991-'92) and Reese Burton in the nighttime soap Savannah (1996-'97).

Q: I very much enjoyed the Mystery! presentation Second Sight. Could you suggest where I might be able to write to its leading man, Clive Owen? –Marilyn Smith, Bloomington, Ill.

A: Write to Owen c/o Mystery!, WGBH, 125 Western Ave., Boston, MA 02134.

Q: My friends insist that "Judge Judy" Sheindlin isn't really a judge. I say they're wrong. –Cecilia Ress, Erie, Pa.

Rick Schroder

A: You're right. Sheindlin is a 1965 graduate of New York Law School and is a former Manhattan family court judge. She compellingly wrote of her experiences in that job in her book Don't Pee on My Leg and Tell Me It's Raining.

Q: My boyfriend says that before Festus, there was a character named Chester on Gunsmoke. Is he right? –J. Hall, Lake Havasu City, Ariz.

A: Of course he is! Dennis Weaver scored his first big career success as drawling deputy Chester Goode, a role he played from 1955-'64.

Q: I am certain I recall Eric Braeden (The Young and the Restless) years ago in Western movies. How old is he? –J.H., San Angelo, Texas.

Q: Is Seth Peterson (Providence) related to Paul Petersen of The Donna Reed Show? –Dorothy Schwartz, Pine Grove, Pa.

A: No.

Woodland Owners Train As Coverts Project Volunteers

Three woodland owners in Garrett County have recently completed a statewide training in forest and wildlife management. Tom DeMay, Friendsville, Marcia Simmers, Keysers Ridge, and Ken Wishnick, Bittinger, were among 29 Marylanders to participate in the Coverts Project training.

The instruction prepared these individuals to volunteer their services to assist other woodland owners and managers to improve wildlife habitat, forest health, timber production, woodland recreation, and aesthetics through sound forest management practices.

Wishnick, Simmers, and DeMay received extensive classroom and field training through the Coverts Project, a natural resources program of the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service. As Coverts Cooperators, they are now part of a statewide network of volunteers helping Maryland's 25,000 private woodland owners better manage their properties through education and contact with forestry and wildlife professionals and resources.

According to information from the Cooperative Extension office, about 42 percent of Maryland is woodland, and 85 percent of this is in the hands of private landowners, half of whom own 10 acres or less. These woodlands, which provide wildlife habitat, wood products, watershed protection, and recreation opportunities, are subject to reduction and fragmentation, the office spokesman stated.

"Although some landowners and others think the best action for woodland is none, that isn't necessarily so. An active management plan that includes sound tree planting and cutting practices will produce a variety of tree growth habitats and increase wildlife populations," he noted.

Coverts (pronounced kuh-verts) is named for thickets that shelter wildlife. In the eight years of the Coverts Project in Maryland, over 200 volunteers have completed the Coverts training and are sharing forest and wildlife management with others in their communities.

To learn more about the Coverts program, persons may contact the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Service at 301-334-6960, Marcia Simmers at 301-746-8989, Tom DeMay at 301-746-4944, or Ken Wishnick at 301-387-5238.

Local Guard Unit Upgrades Hancock Site

Members of Maryland Army National Guard 243rd Engineer (CSE) Company from Oakland and Camp Fretterd traveled to the Baker Training Facility near Hancock recently to conduct a road improvement project for the Maryland National Guard training site there.

The Oakland unit supplied 20 personnel and six pieces of earth moving equipment, which included two backhoes, two graders, and two 5-ton dump trucks. A combined total of 10 pieces of equipment and 64 soldiers were on site to install culverts, grade roadways, and complete road drainage improvements.

The officer in charge of the project was 1st Lt. Christopher White and the non-commissioned officer in charge was Staff Sgt. Greg Skiles, who oversaw the three-day project, which was completed as scheduled. The mission was accomplished to project requirements, according to a spokesperson.

The battalion commander, Lt. Col. Peter Hinz, spent a day with the 243rd reviewing the training and project execution. Wayne Baier, facility manager for the Baker Training site, said he was "very pleased with the work done by the 243rd Engineer Company and would like to have the company conduct future training at the site."

Persons interested in learning more about the local National Guard unit or in operating earth moving equipment may contact the local recruiter at 301-334-3200.

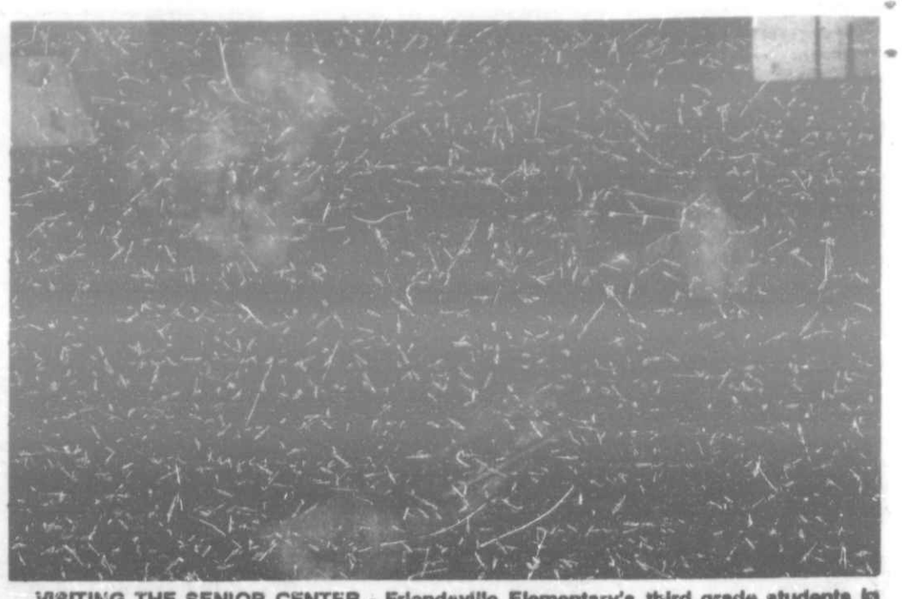
Maryianders Spend Record $ On Entertainment

Comptroller of the Treasury William Donald Schaefer has announced that Marylanders set a new spending record of $226.3 million on taxable entertainment during the first quarter of fiscal year 2000 (July, August, and September 1999). That is 11.1 % more than the previous record of $203.6 million spent during the same period in FY 98 and 15.3% more than the $196.3 million spent during the first quarter of FY 99.

"Almost all major entertainment categories showed increases in spending this summer, but a few showed tremendous growth," said Comptroller Schaefer. "Doing especially well were amusement parks — which enjoyed an 87% increase in business over last year — and live theater and concerts which saw a 55% increase in their business. All in all, it was a good summer for Maryland's entertainment industry."

Amusement parks saw the biggest percentage increase of all entertainment categories in the first quarter, up from $11.6 million last year to more than $21.8 million this year. Spending on amusement rides at carnivals also increased by 11.4%, to $12.3 million. Marylanders spent $18.7 million on coin-operated amusement devices, a 1.5% increase. Boat rides and boat rentals also posted an increase of 0.5% to almost $9.1 million.



The first quarter figures also show that Marylanders spent about $37.8 million on movie tickets, a 17.3% increase over the same period last year — reflecting the big draw of the summer's blockbuster movies. Live theater and concerts in the state also attracted more entertainment dollars for the July-September period. Spending in this category increased by about 55%, to more than $7 million.

Golf greens fees and cart rentals were responsible for consumer spending of more than $37.6 million, an 18.7% increase. Spending at miniature golf and driving ranges also increased by 14.7%, to more than $7 million. Statewide spending on athletic events held steady with a slight decrease of one-half of one percent, to $23.6 million. However, spending for athletic facilities and equipment rentals increased by 11.4%, to $4.2 million.

The comptroller's office collects the admissions and amusement tax at rates set by local county, city, or town officials and returns the money to local governments each quarter. Schaefer said individual checks are on their way to local governments for their share of the nearly $15 million in admissions and amusement tax receipts. "The current distribution is 19.3% more than the $12,572,492 we returned to local governments for the July-September period of 1998," Schaefer said.

Garrett County will receive $131,959, a 10% increase over the $120,032 received for the same quarter last year.

While first quarter of fiscal year 2000 ended on September 30, final admissions and amusement tax figures were not available until last week. Businesses had until October 21 to remit admissions and amusement taxes they collected for the month of September.

VISITING THE SENIOR CENTER - Friendsville Elementary's third grade students in Sandra Slotnick's class recently visited the new community/senior center at Friendsville Town Park. The students were greeted by center manager Marcy Ciliitto and assistant manager Ruth George. Helen Vitez, on hand to visit with the children, read to them from their favorite books that they brought with them. Following the stories, the children received a treat to take back to school. The children said that the new facility was beautiful and that they felt very comfortable there. In the photo with Vitez are Justin Lowdermilk, Kevin Hoover, Dustin Stough, and Dylan Gallagher.

Annual Madrigal Dinner Set At Frostburg State

The public is invited to "step into the past" by attending one of the Frostburg State University Madrigal Dinners, where diners will be greeted by roving minstrels and cries of "Wassail, Wassail" and entertained with fine music. The dinners will be served Friday and Saturday, Dec. 3 and 4, at 6:30 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 5, at 3 p.m., presented in the Lane Center Multi-Use Room.

According to an FSU spokesperson, the event will recreate the pomp and charm of Renaissance England, and diners can expect a royal banquet and participants in ornate costumes.

Jugglers, beggars, and musicians will mingle with the audience, offering their yuletide greetings in word and song. The FSU Collegium Musicum, Brass Ensemble, and Guitar Consort, as well as a jovial court jester and other highlights, will be presented by music department students.

Heralded by the Court Brass Ensemble, the menu will include Regal Roasted Beef, Roasted Royal Potato, Queen's Beans Almondine, Browned Loaf from the Hearth, and Imperial Plum Pudding.

Tickets for the fourth annual Madrigal Dinner are $16.50 for the general public, FSU faculty and staff, and $12 for students and children. For more information, persons may call the Lane Center Information Desk at 301-687-4411 Mondays through Fridays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Rookwood Pottery is probably the most famous company making art pottery in America in the 20th century. The pottery was founded in 1880 by Maria Longworth Nichols who saw some pottery at the Centennial Fair and started to make her own in Cincinnati.

The Rookwood Pottery produced many vases as well as dinnerware, figurines, bookends and tiles. Business managers, potters, a glaze chemist and decorators were hired. Rookwood was expensive, well made and artistically decorated from the beginning and won many prizes for the work. It continued to be a world renowned pottery until it closed in 1941.

All types of Rookwood pottery are collected today. Most prized are pieces by famous decorators like Albert Valentien, Carl Schmidt, Kataro Shirayamadani and Matthew Daly.

Rookwood has always been clearly marked with the initials of the factory and the artist. The famous RP and flame mark even dates the piece. After 1900, the Roman numeral for the year was included. The most expensive Rookwood piece ever sold at auction was $198,000 for a vase by Shirayamadani decorated with an electroplated fish swimming under a sea-green glaze. Average vases made in the 1920s to 1940s sell today for hundreds of dollars.

Q. I collect plates decorated with a calendar and an ad for a business. When were the first advertising calendar plates made?

A. The oldest plate we have heard about is for the year 1877. It was by J.W. Harrison of Liverpool, England. Most of the plates made in the United States date after 1906. Plates dating from the 1930s are common. Those made in the 1940s are scarce.

Home Tips

SEW IT UP – Since my bedroom triples as a craft-sewing-computer center, space is extremely limited. I've allocated one dresser drawer for sewing supplies, which precluded those delightful little cases for spools and bobbins of thread.

I solved the problem of loose spool and bobbins of thread by puting the matching bobbin and spool in a self-sealing plastic bag. It keeps the matching threads together for future use, is easy to find the color you're searching for, keeps the threads clean and keeps them from becoming unraveled.

I've also found the self-sealing plastic bags are great for keeping partially-used rolls of self-gripping tape, elastic, trims and ribbons, as well as my sewing machine oil and miscellaneous glues used for trims, in case of accidental leaking. Laura K., Shreveport, La.

INNOVATIVE CAKE – My father was noted for his pancakes, but the one we children liked best was his pancake "cake." He made large cakes, using two pans and flipping them from one to the other. My mother then lightly buttered it, sprinkled with light brown sugar and placed in a warm oven. They did this about six times, until there was a nice stack. It was ringed with tiny sausages and served with real maple syrup.

This allows a family to eat all at once, slicing it in cake-size wedges. It's great, too, for sleepovers. Katie F., Pasadena, Md.

We know that exercise can do a lot to keep us healthy and ward off the less pleasant aspects of the aging process. Those of you who read this column regularly know that I sometimes refer to this as the "use it or lose it" principle. Use your body or risk losing the full functioning of its various parts.

I've also talked about exercising the brain for the same reason. The more we use our brains, the more likely we'll be able to keep them growing and fully functioning for a long time to come.

The September 1999 issue of "The Brain in the News," a publication of The Charles A. Dana Foundation, printed an excerpt from the book, "Keep Your Brain Alive" by Lawrence Katz of Duke University and Manning Rubin. The piece cited various ways to keep the brain active. Among them are the following:

* Wake up to different smells, such as vanilla, peppermint, citrus, or rosemary. Keep extracts of these substances on your bedside table. Take a whiff when you waken and again as you dress. These scents help activate new neural pathways.

* Brush your teeth with your non dominant hand. This forces you to use the opposite side of the brain from what you would normally use and encourages making brain circuit connections that are usually inactive.

* Be social. Chat with the supermarket clerk, the mail carrier, the folks in your home or office elevator. Social deprivation affects cognitive ability. Social interaction, even casual or short, is stimulating.

* Master a new gadget, such as a musical instrument, computer or anything that requires the use of several senses – such as sight, sound and touch in learning the guitar. Research shows this helps build brain networks.

* Paint a picture. Art activates the nonverbal and emotional parts of the cerebral cortex. Painting a picture, for example, engages areas of the brain involved with form, colors, textures and thought processes that differ from the usual logical thinking we use for most of our activities.

Garrett Container Systems Receives Quality Awards

Garrett Container Systems (GCS) has been recognized for participating in the U.S. Senate Productivity Awards and Maryland Quality Awards programs for 1999. The Accident-based firm is a leading manufacturer of aluminum shipping containers for government, international, and domestic markets.

GCS received a Maryland Quality Award Certificate of Recognition at an awards ceremony held at the Johns Hopkins University Applied Physics Laboratory in Baltimore recently. The local business was one of only 10 firms that received a commendation from the program.

"The certificate is only one more step in our pursuit of continuous improvement and quality excellence," said Jim Kesselring, Garrett Container System's quality and support manager. "Our team found the awards process of self-assessment rewarding, motivating, and team building. The process and experience has made our team recognize the value of communication, organization, quality, and continuous improvement planning."

Kesselring accepted his team's award certificate from Senators Paul S. Sarbanes and Barbara A. Mikulski, along with Thomas C. Tuttle, chairman, Senate Productivity and Maryland Quality Awards, and Dr. C.D. Mote Jr., president of the University of Maryland.

The U.S. Senate Productivity Awards and Maryland Quality Awards programs are structured from the performance excellence criteria of the Malcolm Baldridge National Quality Award. The criteria provide a framework for assessing performance and help an organization measure its results across a wide range of key indicators, such as customer service, production management, and human resources.

Bidding Opens For GIEC At Garrett CC

The Garrett Information Enterprise Center on the Garrett Community College campus moved a step closer to construction this week with the advertising of invitations for general contractors to bid on the project.

Scheduled to open late in the year 2000, the 20,000-square-foot facility will be divided into 20 office spaces equipped with high speed Internet connections. Small information-intensive businesses will be incubated in the building, and will have full access to college services and facilities. These include library resources, campus conference rooms, computer labs, GRIC technical support staff, free business counseling, and a network of technical and financial facilities.

Small businesses such as computer hardware and software development companies, system integrators, consultant firms, and related service businesses are now being recruited to become tenants of the GIEC. "Garrett County has much to offer information technology businesses with the excellent quality of life, the secure and safe environment, the outstanding work force, and the technological infrastructure found here," said Sandy Major, director of the center.

Major, director of the GCC Small Business Development Center for 10 years, will be responsible for day-to-day operations including the hiring and supervision of other staff members and coordination of all technical and financial assistance. In her new role she will have guidance from the GIEC advisory board and direction from Lowell Bender, dean of Continuing Education and Training.

School Advisory Group To Hold Public Session

The second meeting of the year for the Garrett County Board of Education's Advisory Committee on Education (ACE) is scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 7, at 7 p.m. in Room 315 of the Continuing Education building at Garrett Community College. The public is invited to attend.

The agenda for the session will include a presentation and discussion regarding the recent implementation of character education in the schools.

ARC Tours To Include Simon Pearce Plant

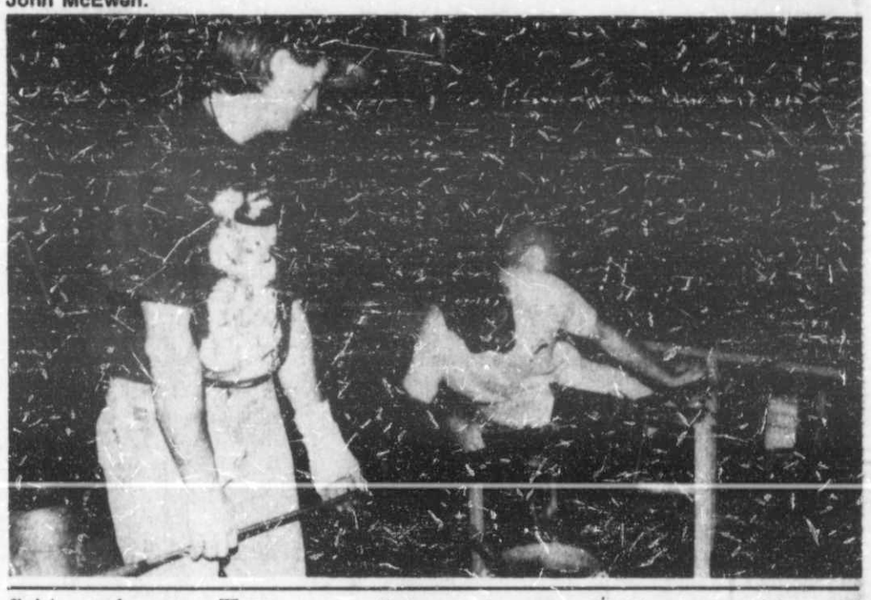
The eighth annual "Home for the Holidays" house tours event, sponsored by the American Red Cross, will be held on Dec. 3 and 4, and in addition to the Deer Park Inn and four family homes, the event will include tours at the Simon Pearce Glass Plant in Mountain Lake Park. This event is one of the local Red Cross chapter's largest fund-raisers, with the proceeds used to help area residents when disasters occur.

Tickets for the tours, which are $5 in advance or $7 at the door, are available at Englander's, Gregg's, and Proudfoot's pharmacies, Flowers by Webers along Weber Road, Deep Creek Pharmacy in McHenry, and Arrowhead Market at Deep Creek Lake.

Simon Pearce studied at the Royal College of Art in London before apprenticing at some of Europe's most renowned glass houses. He established a workshop in Kilkenny, Ireland, in 1970, and for 10 years produced his original line of glass works.

Pearce and his wife decided to move to the United States in 1980, and purchased an old woolen mill in Quechee, Vt. Feat-uring a restaurant, a retail shop, and pottery and glassblowing operations, the mill at Quechee is now one of the most popular destinations in Vermont. A second glass factory was opened in Windsor, Vt., in 1993 and was later enlarged to include a pottery operation, a warehouse, and administrative office space.

When Pearce needed to expand for the third time, he looked for an area with tourism appeal, a willing work force, and a building with room to grow. The former Bausch & Lomb plant met his specifications and glassblowing production began at that location in January of this year. With the addition of the local factory, the company now consists of three major manufacturing facilities, 11 Simon Pearce retail stores in the Northeast, a catalog operation, a web site and wholesale accounts with over 300 independent retail stores throughout the United States.



The glassblowers in the factory, trained by Pearce and his staff, work in teams to blow the glass into the proper piece and to hand-finish each one. These traditional techniques represent a much slower, less mechanical production process, Pearce said, giving each piece of his glass its own distinct character. Guests at the plant can observe this work from a catwalk viewing gallery above the factory floor.

During the Home for the Holidays tours, visitors will be presented with a host of holiday decorating ideas and gift suggestions, a factory spokesperson said.

USDA Farm Service Agency Releases Info On Livestock Assistance Program

The United States Department of Agriculture's Farm Service Agency has released information on the Livestock Assistance Program (LAP). Sign-up for the program began on Nov. 18, and will end on Jan. 21, 2000.

What is LAP?

The Livestock Assistance Program was authorized by Public Law 105-277, and provides direct payments to eligible livestock producers who suffered grazing losses due to natural disaster during calendar year 1999. Nationwide, $200 million is allocated to the program.

For grazing losses due to natural disasters, LAP benefits will be made available to eligible producers in approved counties where precipitation was 40% or more below or above normal for at least 4 months and where there was at least a 40% loss of available grazing during a minimum 120-consecutive-day period.

Eligibility for LAP benefits for an individual producer is based on whether a natural disaster caused the producer in an approved county to suffer a 40% or greater loss of grazing for a 90-consecutive-day period during calendar year 1999.

Eligibility Requirements

Eligible livestock are beef and dairy cattle; buffalo or beefalo when maintained on the same basis as beef cattle; sheep; goats; swine; and equine animals used commercially for human food or kept for the production of food or fiber on the owner's farm.

Livestock must be owned for at least three months before they become eligible for LAP benefits.

Specifically, to be eligible for LAP, a livestock owner must:

- possess beneficial interest in eligible livestock or have financial risk in eligible livestock;
- report eligible livestock and supporting grazing acreage on Form CCC-740;
- report a percentage of loss of grazing on Form CCC-740;
- complete "person" determination forms;
- have gross income of less than $2.5 million for each person in an operation; and
- certify conservation compliance on Form AD-1026.

LAP assistance is based upon the value of feed calculated on a corn equivalency basis required for eligible livestock during at least a 90-consecutive-day period where a minimum 40% feed loss occurred. A producer must have sufficient grazing available for eligible livestock to be eligible for the maximum payment.

Additional Benefits

Additional benefits for losses due to the 1999 natural disaster may be available for forage losses under the Noninsured Assistance Program (NAP), 1999 ad hoc disaster assistance, or FSA Emergency Loans. Because a single allocation of $200 million is available to fund this program nationwide, a national factor will be applied to ensure equitable distribution of benefits to all eligible producers.

Payment Schedule

Payments are scheduled to be made in late February 2000.

Where and How to Sign Up

An application for LAP benefits must be filed with the Farm Service Agency by Jan. 21, 2000. When applying for LAP, the applicant will be required to provide the following information:

- number, kind of livestock, and weight range of livestock owned during calendar year 1999, and the applicant's share in those livestock;
- acres, location, and type of grass or forage on which a loss was experienced in calendar year 1999;
- an estimated percent of loss of grazing; and
- information about significant changes in livestock numbers, including dates when changes occurred.

A producer can receive LAP benefits and also receive benefits under any other program administered by the secretary of agriculture for grazing losses.

Further information is available at local FSA county offices. In Garrett County, the FSA office number is 301-334-6954. Information may also be obtained from FSA's home page at: www.fsa.usda.gov.

Good Weather Gives Md. Farmers Good Work Week

It was a good work week for Maryland's farmers as they were afforded almost 6½ days for fieldwork, according to the Maryland Agriculture Statistics Service. Corn harvesting was virtually complete and soybeans made great improvement, thanks to unseasonably warm weather at the end of the week and wind during most of the week. Late fall hay harvesting continued as well. Some portions of the lower Eastern Shore have not had a killing frost and central and western Maryland are reporting dry conditions. Soil moisture continued to be in the adequate category as topsoil was rated 18% short, 80% adequate, and 2% surplus. Subsoil moisture condition was 11% very short, 7% short, 78% adequate, and 4% surplus.

Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended Nov. 21, listing the item and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, in that order, follows:

Crops harvested: soybeans 85, 73, 92, 83; sorghum 96, 89, 98, 84; alfalfa, 5th cutting 90, 73, 85, 77; other hay, 4th cutting 94, 93, 99, 94.

Crop conditions, listing the commodity and percentages for very poor, poor, fair, good, and excellent, in that order are: wheat 0, 0, 11, 78, 11; barley 0, 0, 16, 67, 17; rye 0, 1, 7, 75, 17; and pasture 1, 4, 25, 61, and 9.

Dates Noted For Pesticide Recertification

The West Virginia University Extension Office in Kingwood, W.Va., has released its schedule for private pesticide applicators' recertification classes.

The dates are as follows: Tuesday, Nov. 30, Preston Farmers' Market, Terra Alta, 7-9 p.m; Thursday, Dec. 2, Aurora School, 7-9 p.m.; Thursday, Dec. 9, Bruceton School, 7-9 p.m.; and Friday, Dec. 10, WVU Extension Office, 10 a.m.-noon.

A private applicator must obtain 10 credits with a three-year period before his or her license expires to be able to renew it.

Persons who have questions or need additional information may call the extension office at 304-329-1391.

Sarbanes Says New Disaster Asssistance Funding Could Mean More For Farmers

Senator Paul S. Sarbanes announced that the Omnibus Appropriations Bill, currently moving toward President Clinton's desk for signature, contains $576 million in additional emergency agricultural funding nationwide, which is designed to assist those farmers who have suffered from weather-related disasters this past year.

Sarbanes has been urging officials to include additional monies for disaster assistance after he voted against the Agriculture Appropriations Bill for FY 2000, saying that the bill did not adequately meet the needs of Maryland's farmers. The bill only made available $1.2 billion nationwide for disaster assistance, which included the drought that devastated Maryland and the northeast/mid-Atlantic regions of the United States this past summer. It has been estimated that the drought caused up to $2 billion in damages in the northeastern and mid-Atlantic states alone. Maryland farmers would compete with all other farmers across the nation for disaster assistance.

While it is unclear at this time as to how much new money Maryland's family farmers will be eligible for, Sarbanes said he was grateful for the inclusion of the additional money for disaster assistance saying, "In the waning days of this Congress, we made a very strong case that our farmers needed additional funds to help them remain solvent, instead of facing bankruptcy and the loss of their farms as a result of the double-whammy of natural disasters and low commodity prices.

"I am encouraged by this development, which will hopefully provide more money for Maryland's farmers. In my view, we must also begin looking at the success or failure of our overall farm policy as a result of the passage of the Freedom to Farm Bill several years ago. We simply cannot continue to provide insufficient emergency assistance, which is so limited by current farm law, when our farmers are facing the problems they have over the past few years."

Included in the $576 million assistance figure is $186 million in funding for farmers who incurred crop losses; $179 million to provide additional emergency loan authority to repair and replace damaged farm equipment (mostly as a result of losses from Hurricane Floyd), and to assist producers as they prepare for their next planting; $80 million for the Emergency Watershed Program, to repair streams and enroll certain flood-prone lands in easements; and $50 million in USDA's Emergency Conservation Program, to rehabilitate damaged farmland and ranchland caused by natural disasters.

Farm Service Agency Reports On Ag & Related Agencies Act 2000

The Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Act 2000 was signed into law last month by President Clinton. The USDA Farm Service Agency reports that funds authorized by the new legislation include the following:

- $25 million for emergency disaster loans;
- $5.5 billion for supplemental payments to commodities producers;
- $125 million for additional payments to dairy producers;
- $1.2 billion for crop loss assistance, under a program similar to the single year crop loss disaster assistance program of 1998;
- $328 million in payments to tobacco producers;
- a doubling of the payment limitation for loan deficiency payments and marketing loan gains from $75,000 to $150,000, applicable only to the 1999 crop year;
- $475 million in payments to oilseed producers, based on 1997 or 1998 production, except for new producers; and
- $200 million for livestock producers for losses resulting from natural disasters.

Other Provisions

In addition, the legislation provides for a one-year crop insurance buy-up incentive, one-year recourse loan programs for honey and mohair, and a one-year extension of the dairy support program. Provisions also include funding for the Dairy Indemnity Program, the resumption of Sept. 11 payments for cotton handlers, and the elimination of the sugar marketing assessment.

Farmers also now have greater flexibility in the timing of receiving their PFC payments. Those who do not choose a payment option will receive their full payment near the end of FY 2000, which began Oct. 1, 1999, and ends Sept. 30, 2000.

A Livestock Assistance Program (LAP) will be implemented to provide grazing loss assistance through direct payments based on supplemental feed needs. A Livestock Indemnity Program (LIP) will be implemented to provide relief to producers whose livestock perished due to natural disaster.

$475 million was authorized for producers of oilseeds, including soybeans. The program will provide payments to farmers who produced oilseeds in 1999, but the benefits are based on their production in 1997 or 1998 (or 1999 for new producers). Because of provisions included by the congress, the program will require farmers to sign up for benefits.

The 2000 Act also includes provisions for:

- $400 million for a one-year crop insurance buy-up incentive;
- a one-year recourse program for honey;
- a one-year recourse program for mohair;
- a one-year extension of the dairy support program;
- funding for the Dairy Indemnity Program;
- funding for Step II payments for cotton handlers;
- the elimination of the sugar marketing assessment;
- a one-year increase in the payment limitation for Loan Deficiency Payments (LDP) and Marketing Loan Gains (MLG) from $75,000 to $150,000; and
- providing $30.50 per ton in support payments for quota peanuts, and $8.75 in payments for additional peanuts.

When Will the New Assistance Become Available?

The majority of the income assistance payments — $5.5 billion in supplemental PFC payments — began Oct. 25, 1999, and should be completed in the next few weeks. With the exception of the oilseeds payments, almost all income assistance payments will be made before the end of the year. These comprise 79% of total payments in the package.

Most disaster assistance payments, such as crop loss disaster assistance, will be made early in the new year. This is because those programs require a sign-up period and a determination of eligibility.

Funds for emergency farm loans are extremely limited, and will probably be depleted before the new year.

Natl. & Md. Ag Statistics Services Issue Reports

Chickens & Eggs

Laying flocks in Maryland produced 62 million eggs during September 1999, of which 56 million were table eggs and 6 million were hatching eggs. The average rate of lay was 69%. The average number of layers on hand during September 1999 was 2,992,000. On Oct. 1, 1999, 11.0% of the layers in Maryland were being molted and 35.0% of all layers had been through a molt.

Egg production in the United States totaled 6.85 billion during September 1999, up 6% from the 6.48 billion produced in 1998. Production included 5.79 billion table eggs and 1.06 billion hatching eggs, of which 999 million were broiler-type and 61.0 million were egg-type. The total number of layers during September 1999 averaged 322 million, up 4% from the total average number of layers during September 1998. September egg production per 100 layers was 2,126 eggs, up 2% from 2,082 eggs in September 1998. Egg-type chicks hatched during September totaled 38.8 million, up 2% from September 1998. Eggs in incubators totaled 35.3 million on Oct. 1, 1999, up 10% from a year ago.

Domestic placements of egg-type pullet chicks for future hatchery supply flocks by leading breeders totaled 227,000 during September 1999, down 30% from September 1998.

Leading breeders placed 6.87 million broiler-type pullet chicks for future domestic hatchery supply flocks during September 1999, down 6% from September 1998.

Agricultural Prices

Crop prices for the month of October declined except for soybeans, which reached $4.80 a bushel. This was a 13 cent increase from last month, but still was 59 cents below last year's price. This was the highest price received for soybeans this year since January, which had a price of $5.21. Wheat, corn, barley, and hay all dropped in price, especially hay, which dropped $20 per ton from last month. Wheat was at its lowest price all year, excluding July 1999's price of $2.09. The milk price is the highest since January. Cattle prices are the most since April of 1998. Hog prices are the best since May. However, broiler prices are the lowest since April and egg prices are the lowest of the decade.

Milk Production

Maryland dairy operators produced 341 million pounds of milk during the July-September quarter, up 5% from the same quarter a year earlier. The number of milk cows was 86,000 head, unchanged from the same quarter a year earlier. Improved production per cow was responsible for the gain in total pounds of milk available. The quarterly production of milk for the U.S. was 39.8 billion pounds, 3.3% above the July-September period last year. The average number of milk cows in the U.S. during the July-September quarter was 9.17 million head.

Do You have a Goal for Family Income?

Let's say that your family would like to have $30,000 of annual income for family living. How much profit per hundred pounds of milk would you have to receive to meet that income goal? There is a very simple formula to use for establishing realistic goals. Divide the desired annual income by the herd size, then divide again by the average milk production per cow and multiply by 100. The resulting number is the profit needed per hundredweight of milk to generate the desired income. Formula: profit/cwt = desired income ÷ herd size ÷ milk per cow x 100. Now for an example: profit/cwt.= $30,000 ÷ 60 cows ÷ 17,000 pounds x 100 = $2.94. You can use this formula for other commodities by making a few changes in measurements.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

Can anyone really keep a secret in Bittinger? I doubt it. The rule is to spread the word. I am afraid that the surprise has already been ruined about the upcoming 50th anniversary open house for Bob and Mazine Legeer on Saturday, Nov. 27, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Bittinger fire hall. Everyone is invited to attend. You can bring a card if you like, but no presents. That's what they say, and no big fuss.

I am trying to finish shopping for my Hanukkah presents soon. That is eight presents each for my three daughters, which means 24 presents. It is only a few weeks until Hanukkah. I think it begins December 4. Also, Sunday will be the first Sunday in Advent, so we will have both the Jewish and Christmas celebrations.

Hanukkah is a nice holiday. It commemorates the time that Jerusalem was occupied by the Syrians. After the Jewish recaptured the synagogue, they planned a celebration for eight days. The altar lamps were to be lit for the whole time, but they only had enough oil to burn for just one day. However, a miracle occurred and the lamps burned for the whole eight days and nights. Besides the tradition of the presents, there is also the tradition to light a menorah (candleholder) with eight candles. I know this is quite unusual in Bittinger. I suppose that even Jesus probably celebrated hanukkah when he was growing up. Yes, we will also be celebrating the birth of Jesus.

A card shower is being planned to celebrate Andy Brenneman's 82nd birthday on November 29. You can send a card to him at 8025 Rock Lodge Road, Accident, MD 21520. They also say no presents, but I intend to send him a present anyway.

Speaking of birthdays, the November birthday celebrations are over at our house. Caitlin and her dad celebrated their big days on the 19th. She was due to be born on my birthday on the 6th, but she waited an extra week or two so she could be born on her dad's birthday. She was well worth the wait, Carol Bass served cake and ice cream for Caitlin and her cousins and families. Meanwhile at our house, I served a quiet birthday dinner to Lloyd and our friend, Steve Schlosnagle, who also had a birthday on Saturday. We sent a present to Lloyd's dad, who celebrated his birthday on the 21st.

Steve mentioned that November is the most beautiful month of the year. According to him, it has everything in it like this year. You may get spring weather like yesterday, or snow and cold. Last year I wrote a column about the scenery around here at this time of the year, which is dominated by brown, tan, and rust.

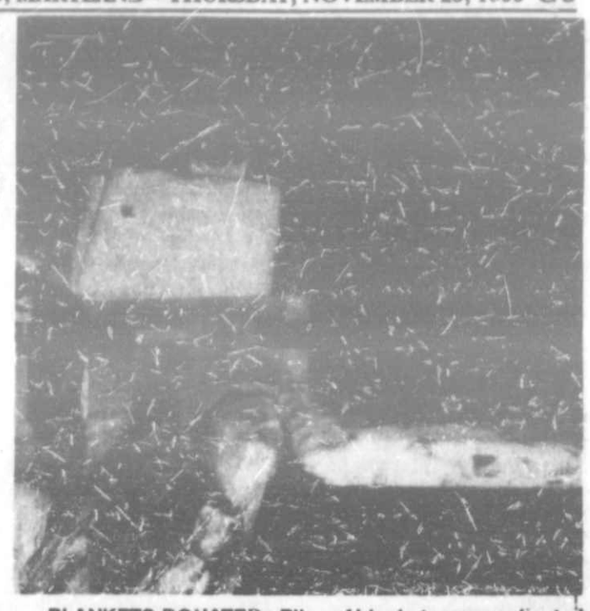
We also had a celebration on Saturday when we presented the last of our two kittens to a wonderful new owner, Cheri Rittel, who needs some new blood to go with her older barn cats. I know she and her family will love them and give them a good home. Mere talked her into taking them, as her dad loses his patience with five cats. Really, he doesn't like cats, period. Cheri was one of my little brothers' (Barry and Scott) favorite teachers. She still loves to watch "her kids" growing up. She saw Barry at our Labor Day party and remarked how much he is looking like his dad. I am so happy that she has Meredith in her class this year. We are so lucky to have teachers for our kids who love them, not only when they are teaching them, but forever. You can't pay them enough or thank them enough. Thank you! We love you, too. And by the way, all your former students still remember and love you all.

The soccer season is just about over, but not quite, Caitlin's team held its pizza party on Monday night. Next Monday evening at 5:30 p.m. at Pizzazz, the Breakers will celebrate their championship season with another pizza party. That's three pizza parties in three weeks.

The Youth Group of Emmanuel Lutheran Church is collecting money for the "Warm the Children" project of Garrett County. A container is located on the church's window sill in the church narthex for change or bills. The group is also collecting good, new, or used toys, CDs, and books to donate to Lou Stouffer, the Terra Alta Santa Claus, who donates these gifts to needy kids in local areas. Please bring lots of good presents to the Educational building by Sunday, Dec. 12.

Darryl and Elliot Glotfelty and friends Scott Bass, Jim Savage, Eric Shields, and Adam Hannibal over the past month have been working on a project to raise money to purchase several acres of the rain forest in Bolivia, South America. They are drawing and painting pictures of tropical birds and selling them for $1 each to raise the money. To date, they have raised $56, which pays for one acre. They wish to help preserve the rain forest and would like to thank all who have given their support in this endeavor.

DECKING THE "THANKSGIVING TREE" - The Thanksgiving tree, a tradition with employees of Merkle Response Service Inc. at other locations in the state, has been adopted by the workforce in the Grantsville office of the corporation. "Employees may buy leaves to hang on the tree — they are $1, $5, and $10 each. The money that we collect will be used to buy Christmas gifts for a local family," explained Betty Merrill, who is coordinating the project for her co-workers. The Grantsville staff members will have the opportunity to submit names of families in need to receive the holiday gifts. "I keep track of the amount donated and when I give the total to our boss, Ron Edens, he will match that amount," Merrill explained. In addition to the Thanksgiving tree, the Merkle employees are collecting canned foods and dry goods to be distributed to needy families over the holidays.



Oakland Star Chapter Meets

Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star met Tuesday, Nov. 16, at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple. Worthy Patron Richard Csamer called the meeting to order. Worthy Matron Deborah Raynovich opened with a reading, "Always set a place at your table for an angel," and then greeted Wilda Hile, Joy Lou Fogle, and Isabel Moses, Deputy Grand Lecturers of Maryland; and Past Matrons, Past Patrons, officers, and members.

A program, "Friendship Bags," for Friendship Night and gifts were presented. A Thanksgiving program, "Harvest Prayer of Thanks for Thanksgiving," and gifts were also presented.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, Dec. 7, which will be Master Masons Night. All members are reminded of a baby shower for Judy Travis and new baby to be held at 6:30 p.m.

Ms. Raynovich closed with a reading, "Freely forgive others — Angels will bring a Blessing." Refreshments were served by Betty Shaffer, Betty Foy, and Pauline Faucett.

BLANKETS DONATED - Piles of blankets were collected and contributed by the West Marva District Office of the Church of the Brethren to this year's blanket drive, sponsored by Garrett County Community Action's Department of Emergency Services. The office, representing Frostburg Church of the Brethren, Cherry Grove Church of the Brethren in Grantsville, and Fairview Church of the Brethren in Oakland, donated over 65 blankets. This is the sixth year that blankets, quilts and afghans have been collected to be given out to county residents facing heating or other emergency situations. In the photo above, Virginia Fike, AmeriCorps member coordinating the drive, accepts the donation from Brenda Harvey, the administrative assistant for the district office.

WEPCO Helps Toys For Tots With Donation

To encourage donations to Toys for Tots, WEPCO Federal Credit Union has donated one of its 8-foot Christmas stockings to Toys for Tots. The Christmas stockings are filled with toys, stuffed animals, and games. Both offices of the credit union, in Bloomington and Oakland, are also official drop-off locations for area toy donations.

WEPCO will hold drawings to provide members with a chance to win one of the "super-sized" Christmas stockings. Children who are members of the credit union and 12 years old and younger may register to win. Two separate drawings will be held at the credit union offices in Bloomington and Oakland. The drawings will be held on December 17 at 5 p.m.

The drawings for the Christmas stockings are being held to promote the new children's savings program at the credit union. WEPCO's new Looney Tunes Savings Club is designed just for members 12 years old and younger, to help teach them good saving habits. The club provides personalized deposit and withdrawal tickets for the child, as well as a club folder, coin saver card, ID card, and a Looney Tunes pencil. The savings club is free, plus children may join the club and sign up for the Christmas stocking at the same time.

For additional information regarding Toys for Tots donations or the drawings for the Christmas Stockings, persons may contact Lana Bittinger at WEPCO Federal Credit Union by calling 301-359-3081 or toll free at 1-800-292-8139.

TOYS FOR TOTS, a program that provides toys to children in need, received a boost recently from WEPCO Federal Credit Union, which has donated an 8-foot stocking filled with gifts. A drawing will be held to determine the winner of the stocking. Pictured above are Becky McKenzie, WEPCO vice president, and Dave Kesecker, Toys for Tots representative from Coldwell Banker, Keyser, W.Va. See story for details.

Cross-Country Bike Tour To Benefit ALA

Those hungry for an experience outside the ordinary may want to join the American Lung Association in Seattle next summer for an adventure to usher in the millennium. From June 19 through August 5, 2000, hundreds of cyclists will trek 3,250 miles across the United States to make history and to raise funds for the American Lung Association. "For 6½ weeks, cyclists will push their limits, inspire the nation with their dedication and drive, and help fight lung disease," an ALA spokesperson said.

The bike tour will begin in Seattle, pass over the Rocky Mountains, cross the Midwest plains, traverse the Mississippi River trail, and conclude in Washington, D.C. Average mileage per day is 81 miles. Big Ride cyclists are supported on the route with a "city on wheels," which includes amenities such as hot, catered breakfasts and dinners; enroute rest stops with refreshments; hot showers; gear support; and bike and medical support.

"Many of our past Big Riders had never cycled more than 30 to 40 miles in one day," said Stephen Peregoy, executive director of the American Lung Association of Maryland. "The Big Ride provides an excellent opportunity to get involved in helping people with lung disease and to master the challenge of a lifetime. A cross-country bike trek like this truly demonstrates the importance of healthy lungs."

Short- and long-term volunteer positions on the crew are available, from driving support and equipment vehicles, to setting up and breaking down camp, bike tech, and camp services. Volunteer crew members receive meals, lodging, and transportation.

For more information, persons may contact the Lung Association's Big Ride office at bigride@lungusa.org, 877-BIG-RIDE, or visit its web site at www.bigride.com.

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

The need is great this year. In Garrett County, Maryland, needy children will go cold this winter without your help.

Just what is The Republican Newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND?

THE REPUBLICAN

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND is neighbors helping neighbors. The Republican is asking readers to donate to the fund, and the proceeds are being used to buy new winter clothing for needy area children. There are no administrative fees; all the money donated is used to buy warm winter clothing.

How are needy children being identified?

A collaborative effort to identify needy children is under way between the Department of Social Services, Healthy Families, the Dove Center, and other organizations. We want to help families who are trying to make ends meet, but who are simply in need of a boost this year.

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

The staff at The Republican has recruited volunteers to serve as "shoppers" who accompany selected children and their parents on shopping trips. The kids are able to select their own coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, boots, or any other needed winter items. Any person or civic group interested in helping out is welcome to contact Mary McEwen at the newspaper, 301-334-3963.

How can I help?

Either sign up as a volunteer, or complete the coupon below and send it with a donation to the address on the coupon. (All checks should be made out to Warm the Children Fund.) All donations are tax deductible. Please make your donations before December 12, 1999. Those collected after December 12 will be saved for next year's campaign.

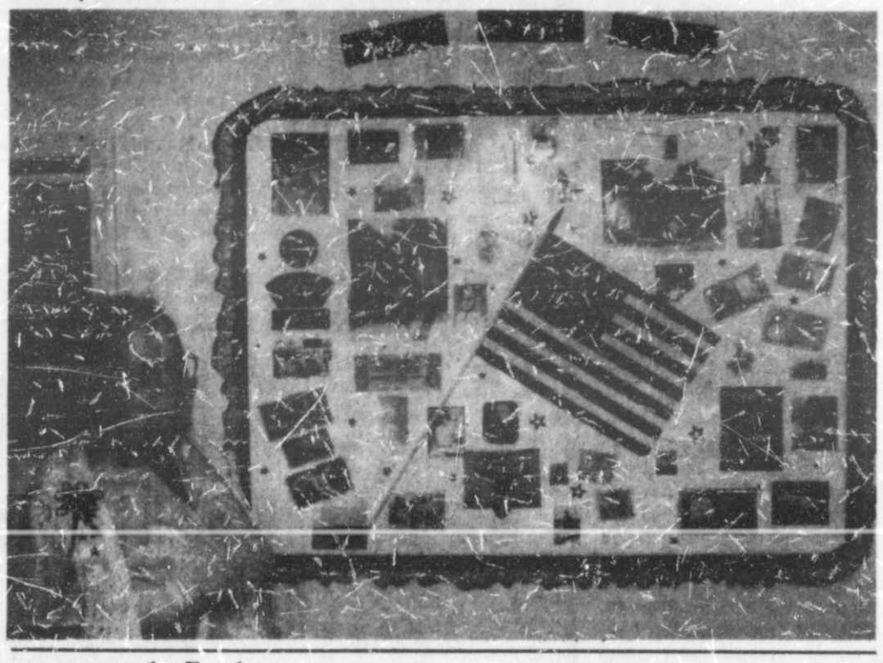
Members Of GCC Math Department Make Presentations



Members of Garrett Community College's math department made several presentations at math conferences in Maryland and California recently, according to Dr. Nancy Priselac, coordinator of mathematics.

At the International Mathematics Conference on Technology in San Francisco, where representatives from 40 nations were in attendance, Priselac gave a presentation titled "Fruity Investigation" that showed the link between science and math using the graphing calculator. She used a graphic calculator activity packet and CD developed for the program during her presentation.

Other members of the math department presented "Earth, We Have a Problem" for the Frostburg Math Conference, using the Maryland Interactive Distance Learning Network. Linda May and Mike Nedrow were at the Frostburg site, while Diana Marks, Harrison Stewart, and Connard Edlin were at the GCC site. The presentation was a portion of the planned distance flight simulation being prepared in conjunction with the Challenger Center Classroom of the Future project. Wayne County, W.Va., and Garrett County are scheduled to be the first two test sites for this project.

Microwave Meals Help Busy Cooks, Need Extra Care

The on-the-go lifestyle of many families may pose a meal-time challenge. Foods are often prepared and served quickly, in the interval between arriving home from one activity and heading off for another. Tight time frames lead many to rely on take-out food, ready-to-eat meals, and use of the microwave.

"Microwaves can play an important role at mealtime, but special care needs to be taken when preparing or reheating meat, poultry, fish, and eggs to ensure they are served safely," warned Tina L. Buckel, R.S., food service coordinator for the Garrett County Health Department.

The cookware used in a microwave should be manufactured and labeled for microwave use, Buckel explained. "Some plastic containers can warp or melt, possibly causing harmful chemicals to migrate into the food. Plastic wrap, if used, should not touch foods during microwaving," she said.

When microwaving, food items should be arranged evenly in a covered dish and liquid added if required. Covers should be loose or vented to let steam escape. Large cuts of meat should not be cooked on high power (100%) but on medium (50%) for longer periods, to allow heat to conduct deeper into the meat without overcooking the outer areas, Buckel noted.

While microwaving, foods should be stirred or rotated once or twice during cooking time to eliminate cold spots where bacteria can survive and for even cooking. After completely cooking foods in a microwave, a clean food thermometer may be used to assure proper temperatures have been reached.

"Always check foods in the thickest area. Cooling times vary because ovens vary in power and efficiency. It is recommended that raw meats be cooked in a microwave to 165 degrees and held for two minutes after removing from the microwave oven," Buckel said.

If a microwave is used to thaw or partially cook foods, the foods should be transferred immediately to the other cooking source. "Never partially cook food and store for later use. In addition, if defrosting food, remove the food from the packaging prior to defrosting. Foam trays and plastic wraps can melt or warp, causing harmful chemical to migrate into food," Buckel reminded.

Foods reheated in a microwave should be heated until steaming hot and a clean thermometer may be used to assure the foods have reached at 165 degrees F.

Spassil Speaks To HotSpot Team On Victim Services

Linda Spassil, executive director of the Dove Center, Garrett County's resource center for domestic violence and sexual assault, addressed the HotSpot team during its meeting in Grantsville last week. She told the group about the outreach services available for victims of violence and abuse.

With a Dove Center office now operating in Grantsville five days each week, efforts to extend the reach of support and counseling programs are yielding results, Spassil told the group. "Our caseload at the Grantsville office is growing rapidly and we have had a very positive response from the community," she noted.

The office in Grantsville, opened in July with money received from a grant, is staffed on a rotating basis by counselors Kristiann Germain, Brenda LeMay, and Heather Hanline. "Heather is our children's counselor and she is here for after-school appointments. She sees children who have been victims of abuse or have witnessed abuse," she said.

The focus of the national HotSpot effort is develop a safe, crime-free community atmosphere through cooperative efforts of community leaders, social service organizations, and law enforcement agencies.

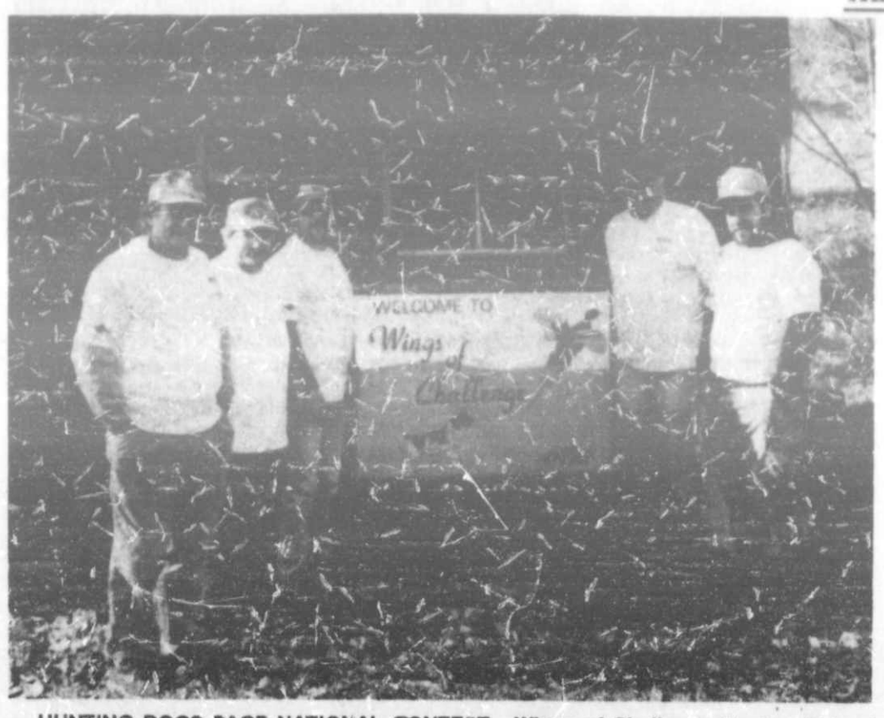
Curran, Others Win Legal Case Against MCI

Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr. announced this week that his Consumer Protection Division, along with 23 other attorney general offices, has entered into an agreement with MCI Worldcom Communications Inc. (MCI), under which the telecommunications company has agreed to change certain billing practices and to pay a total of $1.32 million to Maryland and the 23 other states.

The states contended that MCI violated consumer protection laws by falsely representing a certain charge on long-distance telephone service bills to be a government-mandated tax or charge. In January 1998, MCI began billing its customers a new charge it called a "National Access Fee." On many customers' bills, the fee was placed in the "Taxes and Surcharges" portion of the bill.



When consumers saw the "National Access Fee" on their bill and called MCI about it, they were often told that the fee was a tax or a charge which the FCC was requiring MCI to collect. However, the National Access Fee is not a tax or other government-mandated charge. The FCC has not required MCI to collect this charge from consumers.

"It is wrong to label the National Access Fee as a tax. It is not and never was," Curran said. "MCI's calling this fee a tax when it is not understates the real costs of MCI's services, particularly when a consumer attempts to compare MCI's rates to those of other long distance carriers."

While denying wrongdoing, MCI has agreed that it will not put what it is currently calling its "National Access Fee" in the taxes and surcharges portion of its customers' telephone bills, and it will not use the term "National Access Fee" or other term which could mislead a consumer to believe that the charge is a tax or other government-mandated charge. MCI also agreed that it will not represent that any fee or charge is required by the FCC or any other governmental agency if it is not; represent that all long distance carriers impose an identical fee if they do not; or represent that the charge is passed through to the local phone company if it is not.

MCI has also agreed to pay each of the settling states $55,000. The 23 other states joining Maryland in the settlement are: Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, and Wisconsin.

Attorney General Curran said that consumers should question their long-distance carriers about any fees that appear on their bills that they don't understand, and compare rates and fees among long-distance carriers.

HUNTING DOGS FACE NATIONAL CONTEST - Wings of Challenge Hunting Retreat in Accident recently hosted the National Hunting Dog Association's Dog Challenge. It was the first such competitive event held at the retreat. "Everything seemed to go very well. We were extremely pleased and felt it was a successful dog challenge," reported co-owner Tina Devine. All events were in the open-shooting division, with several different breeds and levels of trained pointing dogs. Top placements were selected on the basis of exceptional pointing, flushing, full retrieving, and bagging, utilizing one shell in good time. "We're looking forward to future events at Wings of Challenge and participating at other host clubs locally with our club dogs," Devine said. In the photo above are owners of the winning dogs. The State Highway Administration, through consultation with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, has identified Waters of the United States, including jurisdictional wetlands, which are regulated by Section 404 of the Clean Water Act. This public hearing provides the opportunity to present views, opinions, and information that will be considered by the Corps in evaluating a Department of the Army permit. All comments received will become part of the formal project record. Copies of any written statements expressing concern for aquatic resources may be submitted to Mr. Paul Wettlaufer, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, CENAB-OP-RP, PO Box 1715, Baltimore, MD 21203-1715 until January 7, 2000.

The Environmental Assessment serves as an application for a Department of the Army permit pursuant to Section 404 of the Clean Water Act (33 U.S.C. 1344). Coordination with Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) also ensures that the document satisfies the alternates analysis requirements of the State's wetland permit review. Application for the State permit will be made subsequent to the alternate selection process.

The decision whether to issue the Section 404 authorization will be based on an evaluation of the probable impacts including direct, indirect, and cumulative impacts of the proposed project on the public interest. This decision will reflect the national concern for the protection and utilization of important resources. The benefits, which reasonably may be expected to accrue from the proposed project, must be balanced against its reasonably foreseeable detriments. All factors which may be relevant to the proposed project will be considered including the cumulative effects; among those are conservation, economics, aesthetics, general environmental concerns, wetlands, cultural values, fish and wildlife values, flood hazards, floodplain values, land use, navigation, shoreline erosion and accretion, recreation, water supply and conservation, water quality, energy needs, safety, food and fiber production and, in general, the needs and welfare of the people.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is soliciting comments from the public; Federal, State, and local agencies and officials; Native American Tribes; and other interested parties in order to consider and evaluate the impacts of this proposed activity. Any comments received will be considered by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to determine whether to issue, modify, condition, or deny a permit for this proposal. To make this decision, public comments regarding the assessment of impacts to endangered species, historic properties, water quality, general environmental effects, and the other public interest factors listed above are taken into account.

The applicant will be required to obtain a water quality certification in accordance with Section 401 of the Clean Water Act from the Maryland Department of the Environment. Water quality certification is requested from Maryland Department of the Environment by way of this public notice. Any written comments concerning the work described above which relate to water quality certification should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Wetlands and Waterways Program, 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore, MD 21224. The 401 certifying agency has a statutory limit of one year to make its decision.

The evaluation of the impact of the work described above on the public interest will include application of the guidelines promulgated by the Administrator, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, under authority of Section 404 of the Clean Water Act.

A preliminary review of this application indicates that the proposed work will have no effect on listed species or their critical habitat pursuant to Section 7 of the Endangered Species Act as amended. As the evaluation of this application continues, additional information may become available which could modify this preliminary determination.

HEARING IMPAIRED/NON-ENGLISH SPEAKING PERSONS:

If anyone who is hearing impaired desires to attend this Hearing, please notify Mr. Paul F. Maloney at the above address, in writing or teletype to 1-800-735-2258 (Statewide toll free). Holiday Shopping
Gift Guide
Offering gift ideas and Christmas Greetings from

The
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1999
Season's
Greetings

We have published this holiday shopping guide for many years to help local merchants "get the word out" about the many gifts they have available at their places of business, and to provide gift ideas for shoppers. For most of those years, we have included specific gift ideas in various price ranges, and simply listed those gifts for each of the advertisers in the publication.

This year, however, we decided to try something a little different. Instead of having the merchants provide us with lists, we gave them the opportunity to share with our readers whatever holiday information they desired. Some tell of special events, such as open houses and drawings. Some tell the history of their businesses, or feature some of their employees. Some mention what the holiday season means to them from a personal, family aspect. Others preferred to provide lists of gift ideas as in past years. We hope this information is helpful to our advertisers, as well as our readers.

As always, we encourage residents to shop locally as much as possible since it is the local businesses which provide employment and local tax revenue, and support so many local causes, projects, organizations, and campaigns.

Happy Shopping on the Mountaintop!

Retailers Expect Strong Holiday Sales

Saving the best for last, Maryland retailers are expecting the 1999 holiday season to be the best of this decade.

Based on a survey of its members and recent sales performance, the Maryland Retailers Association (MRA) is forecasting a 6.5% increase in holiday sales over 1998 sales. MRA president Tom Saquella said the survey responses were the most aggressive he has seen in over 10 years. "Almost 50% expected sales increases of 6% or more and no one saw a sales decrease," he said.

Saquella said this optimism should not be surprising in light of a growing economy and strong retail sales over the past two years. Three quarters of the survey respondents indicated that sales through September were above 1998 and provided "positive momentum" for the holiday season.

"The economy doesn't get any better for retailers," said Saquella. "What should be up is up — consumer confidence, employment, wages, and household wealth. What should be down is down — unemployment, inflation, and interest rates. The bottom line is that Marylanders have a lot of disposable income which they are spending in retail stores."

Also boosting holiday sales in Maryland are the strong sales performance this year of big-ticket durable goods (electronics and home furnishings) and the upcoming millennium celebration. "Maryland tends to out-perform the nation in sales of these more expensive items with our higher income levels, and the millennium can only be an added boost," Saquella said.

The only "cloud on the horizon" is if the Federal Reserve Board continues to raise interest rates. "Although most economists see very benign inflation, the Fed seems determined to slay this imaginary dragon," Saquella said.

Big-screen televisions, home entertainment centers, and DVDs will be the top sellers in electronics, he said. Apparel will reflect the continuing trend toward casual wear, with sport jackets and leather jackets expected to do well along with the traditional favorites, ties and sweaters. Formal wear should also do well with the millennium celebrations. Diamonds, pearl necklaces, and watches will be strong in jewelry. Curios, recliners, and motion furniture are expected to lead furniture sales.

It would not be the holiday season without toys. Pokemon, Furbies, Beanie Babies, and Power Rangers will join such traditional favorites like Barbie, computer games, and bicycles. Older children will be into music and brand name clothing.

The Maryland Retailers Association is the retail industry's major statewide association in Maryland. MRA's membership covers all segments of the industry and includes both major national chains and local independents.

Meet Rudy's Customer Service Team

"When your business depends so heavily on giving good service to the customer, a qualified staff is most important," states Amy Rudy, merchandise manager for Rudy's Clothing. "We want to devote this column to introducing our team of customer service representatives. They are the ones who keep Rudy's running smoothly on a daily basis and provide extraordinary service to our customers."

Sheila Campbell Rinker has worked at Rudy's since 1991. She is a graduate of Northern High School and has attended Garrett Community College. She lives near Accident with her husband Terry and daughter Megan. On her day off, Sheila volunteers her time to help out in Megan's pre-K classroom.

Beth Lewis Helbig, a graduate of Southern High School, has worked at Rudy's since 1995. Beth lives near Oakland with her husband Chris and their pet boxer, Sheena. Beth's interests include taking care of her nephews and nieces and lending a helping hand to friends, family, and anyone in need.

Sheila and Beth are Rudy's customer relations representatives. Almost any time you visit Rudy's you'll find one or both of them to help you. They are experts at knowing what Rudy's has and where it is in the store. They are also experienced at putting outfits together and helping customers find the most flattering look for his/her individual figure type. If something needs to be special ordered, they can take care of you and will give you a call when the item comes in.

Elaine Edgar Hoye, a graduate Northern High School, began working at Rudy's in 1966. As ware room manager she receives and marks the merchandise, handles the returns of damaged goods, and prepares the billing statements each month. Elaine is gifted in figuring out how things work, and she can fix anything. You are likely to see her repairing a fixture, rigging up a sign, or putting up seasonal decorations. She is Rudy's jack-of-all-trades and we appreciate her many talents.

The Gift That Keeps On Giving...

While puppies and toys may provide instant delight, opening an interest-earning savings account or CD for your young child or grandchild, can lead to even greater rewards in the future. Like help with a college education, a first apartment or a secondhand set of wheels.

And while we don't want to see them grow up any faster than you do, the truth is that the sooner you start putting a little away, the more time you gain to make that money pay.

This year, come in and open a gift that will keep on giving ...for years to come.

Get'n Go, Inc.

At Get'n Go, convenience wears many faces! Get'n Go, Inc. is owned and operated by Kiley and Traci Royce. The Oakland Get'n Go is located at 507 East Oak St. in Oakland and the Terra Alta Get'n Go is right behind the Dairy Queen on Rt. 7 in Terra Alta, W.Va. You can find fast and friendly service at each location with a great variety of conveniences to meet everyone's needs!

The Oakland Get'n Go was bought in 1996, (formerly known as Tom Browning's Hometown Market), and has become a hot spot in Oakland for home-cooked and home-baked food, along with a new homemade ice cream parlor. We are the only full-scale deli in the area, where every salad in our case is homemade fresh. We cater parties, funerals, etc., with a variety of meat and cheese, vegetable, fruit, and cookie trays. We have a great selection of groceries, beer, beverages, and tobacco products. We are also known for having the lowest milk price in town. We are the only place that accepts Maryland and West Virginia Bell Atlantic Phone, Allegheny Electric, and Columbia Gas payments. We have a fax and copy service and are also a location for U.S. Cellular. Plus at Get'n Go our wonderful staff always knows you by name with hometown friendly service.

The Terra Alta Get'n Go was established in 1992, and over the course of seven years has become well known to many as a one-stop shop, where you can find Citgo quality fuel, on-road and off-road diesel, K-1 kerosene, and we fill propane tanks. We have a great selection of West Virginia Lottery, carry a wide variety of groceries, beer, and pop, and always have the lowest state minimum priced tobacco products. We are an official game checking station and we sell all West Virginia hunting and fishing licenses.

Once again, we have a great staff who always knows your name. It doesn't matter which Get'n Go you go to, we will always try to keep you coming back!

Oakland Arts

Give those on your Christmas list a gift from Oakland Arts. We carry a wide variety of paints, water, oils, and acrylic, and paint sets. We also carry drawing, drafting, and calligraphy supplies.

For the hobbyist on your list we have coin collecting, candle making, rockets, models, HO and N scale train set supplies.

For that special person who has everything, why not frame that hole-in-one golf ball or winning card game? We frame anything you need framed.

We take credit cards. Layaway and gift credit are available. Come in and browse Oakland Arts in downtown Oakland.

Naylor's True Value Hardware

Our Christmas is well under way, with many new vendors represented this year. Our assortment of artificial trees is the biggest ever, with fiber optic trees from 18" to 6 feet, and regular trees to 10 feet, narrow trees (for apartments or small rooms) with real bark trunks, and lots of variety, including blue spruce and white trees. Real Christmas trees from a local grower will be available starting November 26 for $17.99.

We also have revolving tree stands for real or artificial trees to show off all your decorations. Try a swivel tree stand that enables one person to put up a tree up to 10 feet straight, in one minute. ($29.99)!

We have over 10 trees decorated to help you with ideas.

New this year are hand-painted ornaments from Ukraine - each one is different ($2.25-18.88 each)! Our display of cardinal and snowy bird-house ornaments has been so popular that only a few are left. This year we have fiber optic angels, wreathes, and poinsettias. Our display of miniature buildings, sculptures, pine trees, and townspeople figures should help you add to your Christmas garden.

Back again by popular demand are indoor-outdoor 30" Santa and snowman inflatables ($49.99). Each comes with a hand pump and re-useable storage bag.

Free gift wrapping is included with most Christmas purchases (there may be a fee for very large packages). We accept credit cards and ship UPS all over the country.

Don't miss our Christmas Open House on Friday, December 3, from 4 to 10 p.m. We will have fantastic specials during those hours only.

And finally, if good tasting water has been on your wish list for sometime, there's no better time than Christmas to treat you and your family to great water with a new system by Culligan. Call Jason at 301-334-4477 for an appointment and free water test.

Naylor's True Value Hardware is located at 32 South Third Street, Oakland. 301-334-3923.

Special Events: Home For Christmas Sale starts 11/26/99; Christmas Open House 12/3/99, 4 p.m. - 10 p.m.; and Christmas Gift Sale starts 12/10/99.

High Mountain Sports

Traders Landing
Deep Creek Lake

This holiday season will be special at High Mountain Sports, as we have planned some special events for the holidays, such as the new Christmas Snow Storm Special.

Brian Glotfelty, co-owner of High Mountain Sports, explains, "We have made arrangements for 12" of snow every day between Christmas and New Year's so all of our loyal customers can get out and enjoy their new gifts from High Mountain Sports, such as Tubbs snowshoes, Alpina cross-country gear, Burton snowboards, or even the Volant stainless steel downhill skis."

The other co-owner of High Mountain Sports, Steve Green, notes, "We have even arranged for bright sunshine during the day, with all of the new snow at night, so make sure to get your new Oakley sunglasses or some new Spy goggles to protect your eyeballs." Green goes on to say, "We felt it important to let people know beforehand of our plans so they could stock up on everything before the Christmas Snow Storm Special went into effect. We would hate to run out of all the really neat winter items we sell for people who love the snow because, with all of this precious white stuff coming, we could possibly run out of things."

Another new program this year is the New Year's Day Tropical Heat Wave. "When we first discussed the Christmas Snow Storm Special, we felt we might offend some of our warm weather customers so we have added the New Year's Day Tropical Heat Wave program to our special events," explains Glotfelty. "We plan to have this day where it will be 85 degrees by noon so everyone can ride their new Trek kids bikes or even try out a new Hyperlite wakeboard for the daring," adds Green.

So this year when shopping around, don't be misled by another company's special holiday program designed to lure you into their store with deceptive advertising. Come to High Mountain Sports and try out the Christmas Snow Storm Special or the New Year's Day Tropical Heat Wave, designed with our customers in mind.

Mountain Fitness

Overlooking the slopes of the Wisp Ski Resort and the shores of Deep Creek Lake, Mountain Fitness is McHenry's first full-fitness facility. It is located at 283 Mosser Road in McHenry.

Offering new, state-of-the-art equipment, Mountain Fitness has a complete line of Circuit training equipment consisting of 19 separate machines that will allow you to perform over 25 different exercises. In addition to the Circuit system, we have a complete free-weight room, which not only includes benches, dumbbells, and a cable machine, but also features a Smith Machine, Hip and Leg Sled, and a Power Rack.

Mountain Fitness also has cardio equipment, including treadmills, bikes, a Versa-Climber, and two Elliptical Crosstrainers, with most of the cardio equipment set up for the users to be able to enjoy the views of Deep Creek Lake and the slopes during their cardio workouts. Other services Mountain Fitness has to offer include a certified personal trainer on staff, and tanning with two tanning beds, each w/34-bulb and two facials. Several tanning packages are available. Massage therapy is available with "The McHenry Massage Cooperative," located at the facility, and operated by Linda Theriot and Margaret Bogen.

Mountain Fitness can also offer our members the availability of having a dual membership with the Oakland Health & Racquet Club in Oakland and will soon be offering "cardio kick-boxing" classes as well as aerobic classes. We also hope to add a line of supplements for your workout and nutritional needs.

Gift certificates are available for memberships as well as tanning packages and would make ideal Christmas presents, especially for those New Year resolutions. Stop by and check us out or call 301-387-6966 for more information. Have a Happy Holiday Season!

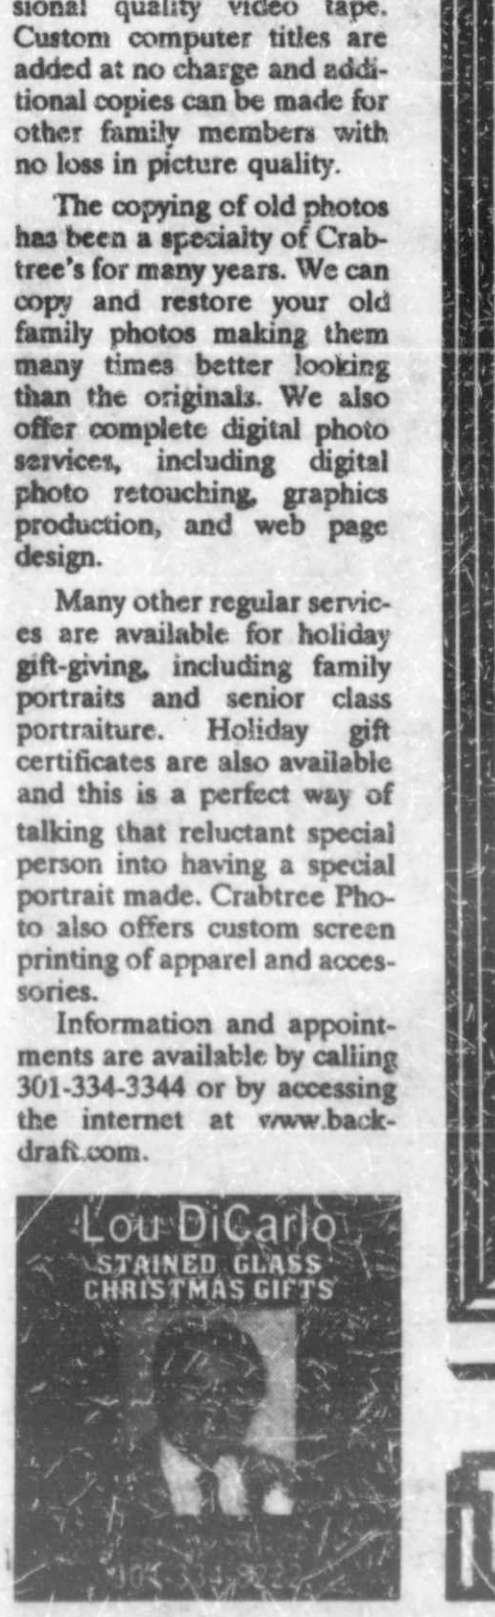
Crabtree Photo & Video

Crabtree Photography & Video, located in Mitchell Manor in Oakland, is really in the "memory business" when it comes to the holidays. Two specialties of Jim Crabtree are the transferring of 8mm movie film to video tape and the copying and restoring of old photographs.

Crabtree's can professionally copy these old family treasures, which make excellent holiday gifts. Almost everyone young and old appreciates the gift of family history, a gift that grows in value as time drifts by.

Your old movies are copied through a computer-controlled system using television station quality equipment and are digitally "cleaned up" and edited for transfer to professional quality video tape. Custom computer titles are added at no charge and additional copies can be made for other family members with no loss in picture quality.

The copying of old photos has been a specialty of Crabtree's for many years. We can copy and restore your old family photos making them many times better looking than the originals. We also offer complete digital photo services, including digital photo retouching, graphics production, and web page design.



Many other regular services are available for holiday gift-giving, including family portraits and senior class portraiture. Holiday gift certificates are also available and this is a perfect way of talking that reluctant special person into having a special portrait made. Crabtree Photo also offers custom screen printing of apparel and accessories.

Information and appointments are available by calling 301-334-3344 or by accessing the internet at www.backdraft.com.

Give Golfers A Ho-Ho-Hole In One For The Holidays

What's the best club you can buy for your favorite golfer? It's the 2000 Mid-Atlantic Golf Privilege Club from the American Lung Association of Maryland. A membership to the Golf Privilege Club provides free or discounted rounds of golf and other discounts at more than 140 golf courses and ranges in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware, and D.C. Some restrictions apply.

The Golf Privilege Club books are available for $29.95 plus shipping and handling. Purchasers can also take advantage of the buy three—get one free deal; for $89.85, the purchaser will receive four books, a savings of nearly $30. Team Tara

Realtors to Wed: Tara C. Crossland and Stephen R. Folickman, realtors with Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, have launched their team approach to real estate in Garrett County and surrounding West Virginia counties. "Team Tara" is their market name, and their upcoming wedding in December will unite the couple in marriage as well.

Crossland and Folickman began their real estate career this summer with Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty. They have commented how everyone at their place of business has helped them with their generosity and knowledge in this field. It is this very team concept at Coldwell Banker that has led to their early success in sales and listings. The couple have also completed their education and examination to become licensed in West Virginia as well as Maryland.

In addition, "Team Tara" is currently half-way through their 90 hours of education to become Licensed Residential Appraisers, the first of three appraisal licenses these two hope to earn. After the classroom, there is a state certification exam and 2,000 hours of apprenticeship.

Shaffer Ford

We are proud to be one of the new car dealers on the mountaintop, where life is a bit slower, more honest, and a lot more considerate and polite. We are happy to be an active part of this community. Because you support us, we support you, by putting thousands of dollars back into local non-profit organizations.

Today and every day our trained, hand-picked, and friendly staff of over 30 know that customer satisfaction and excellent quality workmanship are our livelihood. All dealership personnel will treat every customer as a potential lifetime purchase, communicating a professional image that embraces honesty and concern for the customer's wants and needs.

We offer the latest state-of-the-art equipment and technology in our service, body, and parts department. Our inventory includes over 100 units, specializing in 4x4's, sport utilities, and all-wheel-drive vehicles. If we don't have the vehicle you're looking for on the lot, we will search for it on our Ford locator.

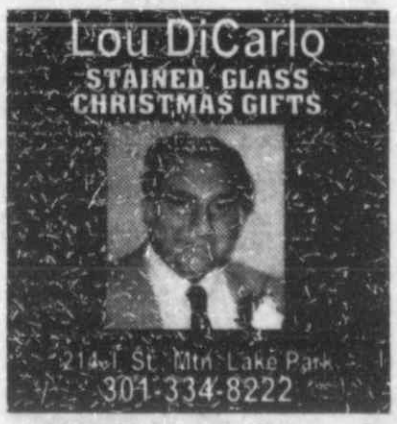
Seth's Self Storage



Seth's Self Storage was developed in 1995 and is owned and operated by the Folickman family of Garrett County and Deep Creek Lake. We cater to businesses and residences of all of Garrett County, though our location is ideal and most convenient to the Lake Watershed Area.

Conveniently located on Rt. 219, one mile south of the Deep Creek Lake (Thayerville) Town Center, we are most accessible to the areas of Blakeslee, Paradise Point, Pergin Farms, Penn Cove, Red Run, Pinnacle, Beckman's Peninsula, Harvey's Peninsula, Four Hoophole, and Thayerville, and the Town of Oakland.

Seth's Self Storage was developed as an answer to the storage needs of many families, homeowners, renters, and businesses. How often do we not have room in our garage for our cars and trucks? Our "stuff" has taken over this valuable space. If this is your situation or if you don't have a garage or any storage space, then let Seth's Self Storage supply this much needed space for you. Our various sizes were designed with everyone's needs in mind.

Our 5' x 10' units are perfect for storing seasonal items such as winter sporting equipment and lawn mowers. We also have 10' x 30' units that make excellent storage for building contractors' materials and retail inventory overflow. And, we even now have 12' x 30' units with huge 10'X'10' doors for your boats and waverunners. These oversized units can store a 26' boat and several waverunners and more! Our peaked roof gives us the tallest ceilings of any personal storage facility in a 50 mile radius, thus the highest capacity storage for your money!

Whatever your needs, Seth's Self Storage can fill the order.

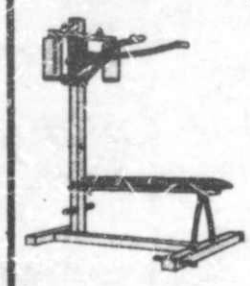
Oakland Health & Racquet

The Oakland Health & Racquet Club is the area's first full fitness facility. With a complete circuit system, free weights, racquetball courts, and a sauna, we have everything you need to get in shape and stay there. The Oakland Health & Racquet also has cardio equipment with treadmills, bikes, and rowers available to the members.

One-month, three-month, and yearly memberships are available for individuals, while family memberships can be for three months or yearly. Regular memberships include unlimited use of the gym facilities. Racquetball can also be added to the memberships or purchased separately. Tanning is also available, with several packages to choose from.



To make things more convenient for our members, we also offer key access. Key access is available to those members who have purchased one-year memberships and allows those members to use the gym at their convenience, whether it is at 5 a.m. before work or 11 p.m. after the late shift.

In the near future, The Oakland Health & Racquet Club will be offering some new services. Oakland Health & Racquet has recently expanded and opened a second club in McHenry — Mountain Fitness. Members of The Oakland Health & Racquet will now be able to sign up for a dual membership that would include use of both facilities (check out the article on Mountain Fitness elsewhere in this publication.) Also, in conjunction with Mountain Fitness, we will soon be offering the services of a personal trainer, as well as "cardio kickboxing", and aerobic classes.

Holiday specials are running right now for The Oakland Health & Racquet, so call 301-334-1766 for information and prices. Gift certificates are available for memberships and tanning packages. The Oakland Health & Racquet Club wishes everyone a safe and happy holiday season.

The Village Mall

Come experience an old-fashioned way of shopping at the shops of the Village Mall, located in the Main Street historic district of Kingwood, W.Va. We hope the warmth of our hospitality and atmosphere allows you to enjoy your holiday shopping. We welcome you to browse our many shops and enjoy some homemade cookies and gourmet cider at our Christmas Open House on Sunday, Nov. 28, from noon to 5 p.m.

When you walk through our double doors, Monroe's Deli will entice your appetite, but don't stop yet -- you can work up your appetite browsing through our fine shops.

The holiday trek will take you through The Curiosity Shoppe, which offers cat's meow villages and other unique gifts; Six "S" Stampede, seller of rubber stamps, stencils, and candles; and Northwoods Collection, purveyors of pine home accessories at great prices, and Contics Jewelry, which carries a fine selection of 14-carat gold and sterling silver.

Your browsing spree can continue at Laurel Mountain Books, where you can find a wide selection of books on West Virginia and other topics; Brad's Country Frame Shop, which has a display of its high-quality custom picture framing; and Earthstar Offerings, which offers a unique selection of herb products, aromatherapy, and essences. (Did you know that many of those products are grown locally at Magic Mountain?)

The warm atmosphere gets even cozier at Polar Fleece, sellers of a variety of fleece wear such as hoods, mittens, and jackets; Christian Image, your local Christian supply store; and don't forget The Christmas Shop, offering traditional and unique decorations as well as slim size Christmas trees.

There's also Antiques in the Attic; the Razor's Edge Barbershop, offering that old-fashioned treatment; D&B Lettering, which carries quality custom signs for business or personal needs; and, coming Wednesday, Dec. 1 — The Salvation Army shop.

We invite you to travel along Route 7 over the mountain and come browse all the stores in historic downtown Kingwood, located 22 miles west of Oakland. Several downtown shops will be celebrating open houses on Thanksgiving weekend, Friday, Nov. 26, through Sunday, Nov. 28, so it will be worth the trip.

To find us at The Village Mall, go through the second stoplight on Route 7 in town and, just after passing One Valley Bank, look for our big red building on the left. Regular hours for the shops are Monday—Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., while the Deli is open from 11 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Give us a call to check on special Sunday hours in December at 304-329-0622 for the shops, or 304-329-DELI for Monroe's Deli.

Kellers' Christmas Tree Farm

Sue and I would like to invite you to join the growing family of customers at Kellers' Christmas Tree Farm. We are a family-oriented operation and we try to make an extra effort to make everyone's Christmas visit a memorable one. We are grateful to our loyal customers whose patronage makes our dream possible.

We have a single price of $26.25 for any tree, any size. We grow Fraser Fir, Colorado Blue Spruce, White Pine, and Norway Spruce. We always try to make sure the kids get a tractor ride, when they've selected their tree. We are a small, growing operation, and Sue and I personally greet and help our customers at our farm. This is a real working farm here in Garrett County and conditions change on the farm from year to year.

Bring your boots! If we don't have snow, we may have mud. Last year, we had folks in Bermuda shorts cutting trees! We've seen years where the real "Christmas Tree Junkies" showed up when there was 36 inches of snow on the ground, with brooms and shovels in hand to get their Christmas fix.

Our farm is located on a sloping hillside along the Accident-Bittinger Road one mile east of the town of Accident. We have a really great fresh product to offer you, and I truly believe we can provide you with one of the nicest experiences you'll have this Christmas. Please come by and browse. I look forward to meeting you and showing you our farm. Our regular hours are in our ad, if they are not convenient, please call and we'll open the farm at any reasonable time just to make your Christmas a little special.

If you don't stop by, you really will have missed a chance to have a little nicer Christmas.

Merry Christmas and God bless, Rich Keller

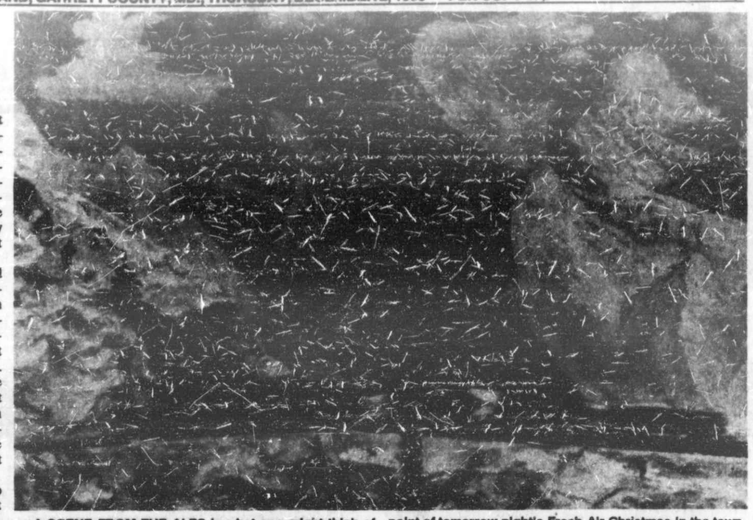
Planning Comm. Will Not Call For Zoning Vote



After a series of county meetings held over the past several months, the Planning Commission for Garrett County has voted unanimously to oppose the implementation of any county-wide zoning. This is the recommendation that they will present to the Garrett County commissioners.

Citing what he perceived as an "overwhelming majority" of the public being in opposition to the idea, commission member John Forman made the motion that the group oppose zoning. Forman also noted that the commission has recently put in place the subdivision ordinance, and that the regulations included in the ordinance are sufficient at this time.

The issue was brought up this year by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, the president of which asked the commissioners to pursue zoning in light of increasing development in the county. The commissioners then gave the planning commission the task of researching the issue and gathering public input. The commission members proceeded to hold their regular monthly meetings at various locations around the county in an attempt to gather public sentiment on the idea of zoning.

The planning commission is not a decision-making body. The group can only make recommendations to the commissioners, who then must make a decision.

Forman's motion was seconded by Dale Glotfelty, and the vote was unanimous. (Commission member Ruth Beitzel was not present for the proceedings.)

A SCENE FROM THE ALPS is what one might think of at first glance of this picture, and most likely what artist and engineer Walter Atwill meant for one to think while gazing at this year's miniature train Christmas village. The annual arrangement in Oakland is a snow scene this time, complete with ice skaters, mountain goats, and a genuine Swiss Alps gondola. Atwill's amazing display is located in the front window of the former Flinn building along Second Street, across from the county museum. It will be a focal point of tomorrow night's Fresh Air Christmas in the town, which will include special holiday music, food, and a visit from the Guy in the Red Suit. Similar holiday events are taking place Friday night around the county, with Old-Fashioned Christmas beginning in Grantsville and Light-Up Night in Friendsville. Choral concerts and Christmas programs are also slated this month. For a schedule of area events this week, see Arts at a Glance on page C-2. Photo by John McEwen.

Edwards, Hafer To Host Annual Legislative Mtg.

The meeting will be held on Saturday, Dec. 11, at 10 a.m. in the Garrett Community College auditorium.

Delegate George Edwards and Senator John Hafer have made the meeting an annual event in an effort to preview the session and to listen to concerns of the public.

Deputies Make Ten Arrests On Busy Sunday

Deputies with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office arrested 10 individuals Sunday in connection with a variety of unrelated incidents across the county.

The first arrests occurred at 2:20 a.m. in Mtn. Lake Park when a vehicle was stopped for running a stop sign at the intersection of Deer Park Avenue and Oakland Drive. The driver, Chad Allen Ward, 20, Oakland, was arrested for driving on a suspended and revoked license.

The deputy, who also noted an odor of suspected burnt marijuana coming from the vehicle, undertook a search of the vehicle and reportedly uncovered a quantity of marijuana and rolling papers from the car and from the person of a passenger, William Earl Gardner, 20, Frostburg. Both Gardner and Ward, along with a third passenger, a juvenile male, were each then charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

Both Ward and Gardner were released upon posting a $1,000 bond each after appearing before a district court commissioner. The juvenile, whose case will be processed through the Department of Juvenile Justice, was released to the custody of his parents.

An Oakland man was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct after a 4 a.m. incident Sunday.

Dennis Lee Dalton, 45, was arrested when deputies were called to an Oakland Avenue residence in Mtn. Lake Park for a complaint of an intoxicated man beating on the front door and yelling. Dalton, who was apprehended on the front porch of the home, was later released on his own recognizance.

Deputies serving an unrelated court summons at the home of a Friendsville resident arrested the subject and his fiancée for drug offenses at 1 p.m. Sunday afternoon.

Phillip Ray Coddington, 32, and Tania Yvonne Feller, 34, were arrested at their Water Street apartment when deputies knocking at the door noted the

Electric Deregulation Information Provided By People's Counsel Rep

Michael J. Travieso of the Maryland Office of People's Council (OPC) met with the Garrett County commissioners last week to discuss the issue of electric utility deregulation. As of July 1, 2000, one-third of all Marylanders will have access to retail competition in the electric industry, and by July 1, 2002, full implementation of deregulation is expected to be in place. This is a result of legislation enacted this year in the Maryland General Assembly, as agreed to by the Public Service Commission (PSC).

Travieso, a member of the governor-appointed OPC, was in Garrett County to explain the process, and to discuss a recent agreement between the OPC and Allegheny Power, Garrett County's electricity provider, that will cap rates well into the first decade of 2000.

The OPC is based in Baltimore and consists of nine lawyers and a support staff. These individuals work to make sure the interests of residential utility customers are protected, he said. As the state-appointed consumer advocate, the OPC works to ensure that residential consumers of electricity, natural gas, telephone service, water and sewer, and transportation receive safe, reliable service at the lowest possible cost, he said.

The OPC recently filed an agreement with Allegheny Power that calls for a 7% base rate cut on Jan. 1, 2002, and frozen rates from that date through 2008.

Currently, electricity rates are set by the PSC. Utility providers can seek changes in those rates — increases or decreases — by presenting supporting evidence for the changes to the PSC. The commission then decides whether or not the rate can be changed. As of July 1 of next year, the PSC will no longer set the rates. They will instead be based on market prices, similar to the way gasoline is priced. Residents will be able to choose the company that generates their electricity.

The deregulation applies only to the generation of electric. The transmission of this generated power and the distribution of it will continue to be provided locally by Allegheny Power.

Travieso said deregulation came into focus because of technological changes and rate differences.

"It used to be that in order to serve a large area of customers, an electric plant had to be huge. With advances in technology, smaller plants can now be built and operated efficiently," he said. "In the 1970s, the federal government started to encourage competition among the companies."

A competitive market, in theory, should lower prices, Travieso said. However, electricity rates in western Maryland are already nearly the lowest in the country.

"Allegany Power is one of the most efficient generation plants in the Atlantic region," he said. "Frankly, city dwellers who are currently paying a lot for their

Swan Meadow, Friendsville Earn Praise On MSPAP

State statistics on the Maryland School Performance Assessment testing (MSPAP) were released this week. Information received by The Republican this morning notes the success of two of Garrett County's school: Friendsville Elementary and Swan Meadow School.

Swan Meadow eighth grade students had the state's highest scores in the state in reading (60.0 percent at satisfactory), writing (83.3) and language usage (83.3). They also met the state Excellent standard in the latter two categories.

Friendsville Elementary was recognized for making significant gains in student achievement. The school's composite MSPAP score has risen from 25.1 percent in 1993 to 46.1 percent in 1999. This year students also met the Excellent standard in attendance with a rate of 96.1.

A more complete report on the results of Garrett County schools will appear in a future edition of The Republican.

NRP Increases Focus On Game Law Violations

The Maryland Natural Resources Police have undertaken increased enforcement efforts during the current deer firearms season in Garrett County, with special focus on interstate game violations.

"Poaching and disregard of game laws deprive true sportsmen and sportswomen of hunting opportunities," said Capt. Louis W. Ritter, NRP commander for the western region. "An animal shot at night from a vehicle, while the shooter is trespassing, or during a closed season, adds nothing but shame to the shooters' reputation."

Game check points, which have been used with success in the past, have been established near the state boundary lines with West Virginia and Pennsylvania. NRP officers stationed at these check points will stop hunters traveling between states and check for their compliance with laws and regulations gov-

Public Invited To Continental 1 Meeting In Pa.

The first meeting of the Continental 1 support organization — a bi-national, multi-state lobbying and action group dedicated to the creation of an east coast, north-south trade and travel corridor from Toronto to Miami — is set for 10 a.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 8, at the Living/Learning Center at the University of Pittsburgh, Johnstown campus.

The meeting's featured guest speaker will be David Winstead, former Maryland secretary of transportation and the newest member of the Continental 1 steering committee. Currently a member of the Washington, D.C., law firm of Wilkes, Artis, Hedrick and Lane, Winstead has been involved with economic development and transportation issues for nearly 25 years. He is past president of the American Association of State Highway Transportation Officials (AASHTO).

Oakland Man Dies As Result Of W.Va. Crash

An Oakland man died Monday as a result of injuries he sustained in a single vehicle accident early that morning between Gormania and Bayard, W.Va.

Neil Ross Brubaker, 57, was operating a 1982 Ford Bronco northbound on Route 90 when he apparently lost control of his vehicle just over a mile south of Gormania. The Grant County (W.Va.) Sheriff's Department was notified of the accident at 7 a.m. that morning, and responded along with Mt. Storm (W.Va.) Volunteer Fire Department and Mt. Storm Rescue Squad.

The Grant County sheriff's deputy who is handling the continuing accident investigation was unable to provide further details as of this morning.

Born March 24, 1942, in Baltimore, Brubaker was a son of Alice (Shindel) Chase, Berkeley Springs, W.Va., and the late Earl W. Brubaker.

He was a U.S. Navy veteran and had worked for Gray Concrete Pipe Co. in Baltimore and Master Casting in Accident.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by two children, Pam Brubaker of Massachusetts, and Todd Brubaker with the U.S. Navy; one brother, Donald Brubaker, Kingsville; and three grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Fredlock Funeral Home, Piedmont, W.Va. A graveside service was conducted earlier today, Dec. 2, in Lancaster, Pa.

Bypass Hearing Slated At Southern Tuesday; "Hybrid" Option Proposed

A location/design public hearing for the proposed Oakland Bypass will take place Tuesday evening, Dec. 7, in the Southern High School gymnasium. The doors to the gym will open at 5:30 p.m. for a map display of the various alternate route proposals, and a formal presentation by Maryland State Highway Administration officials will get under way at 6:30 p.m.

A late development in the bypass proposal project was yesterday's presentation of a new alternate bypass route proposal at the monthly meeting of the Garrett County Planning and Zoning Commission.

"We like this new proposal more than what's already been put forth because it has the least impact on the community of any other option proposed so far," commented John Nelson, director of the Planning Office. "We're in debt to Sheila Edwards for sharing her concerns with us and helping suggest this new option."

The "hybrid alternate," which combines aspects of previously published alternates A and A-1, was met with unanimous approval by the members of the commission, and chairman Bus Bender, will reiterate that approval for SHA officials by reading it into the public record at Tuesday's meeting, Nelson said.

The hybrid alternate, which is currently available for public inspection at the Planning Office in the courthouse rotunda, will also be on display in a rough draft map at the Planning and Zoning Commission table at the SHS hearing. Commission members have strongly urged the public to inspect it, draw their own conclusions, and share them with the state officials who will be on hand that evening.

The hybrid alternate is discussed in greater detail at the end of this report.

PUBLIC HEARING

Tuesday's hearing at Southern will be conducted by officials from the Maryland State Highway Administration, including Paul E. Maloney, project manager for the U.S. Route 219 Oakland Transportation Improvement Project, and representatives of the Federal Highway Administration and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The doors to the SHS gym will open at 5:30 p.m. when maps depicting the various bypass route alternatives will be on display for public viewing. A 20-minute formal program, beginning at 6:30 p.m., will include a description of the project alternates, an environmental summary, information on right-of-way acquisition, and relocation assistance policies and procedures.

Citizen input via public and private testimony will

Phone Number Of Hospital To Change Dec. 10

Beginning December 10, the telephone number of Garrett County Memorial Hospital will be changed from its present 301-334-2155 to 201-533-4000, according to Don Battista, hospital president. The change is a result of the installation of a new telephone system at the hospital, plus the addition of Oakland's new 533 exchange.

"We are working hard to get the word out that our number is being changed," Battista said. "We hope everyone will make a note of the new number right now, so when Friday, Dec. 10, arrives, they will know to begin using it."

Autumn Glory Meeting Slated For Wednesday

A meeting to discuss the future of Garrett County's annual Autumn Glory Festival has been scheduled for next Wednesday, Dec. 8, by Ken Wishnick, executive director of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. The meeting will be held in Room 314 of the Continuing Education building at GCC, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

"Should the first Autumn Glory of the 21st Century be different? Should it include new county-wide events? Should the Chamber of Commerce retain oversight control? Should activities be altered? What are your thoughts? These are the questions that we want to address at this meeting," stated Wishnick.

"It may seem early to think about next year's festival, but the reality is that the Chamber of Commerce staff will begin work on Autumn Glory 2000 in January," he said. "The beginning of a new century — a new millennium — seems like an excellent time to take a hard look at the festival and do some things to make it better."

Wishnick invites all interested persons to attend the meeting, especially those who play an active role in any of the events of the festival. He may be contacted at 301-387-4386 for more information.

Staff Reports Include Autumn Glory, DSS Award, Health Dept. Topics

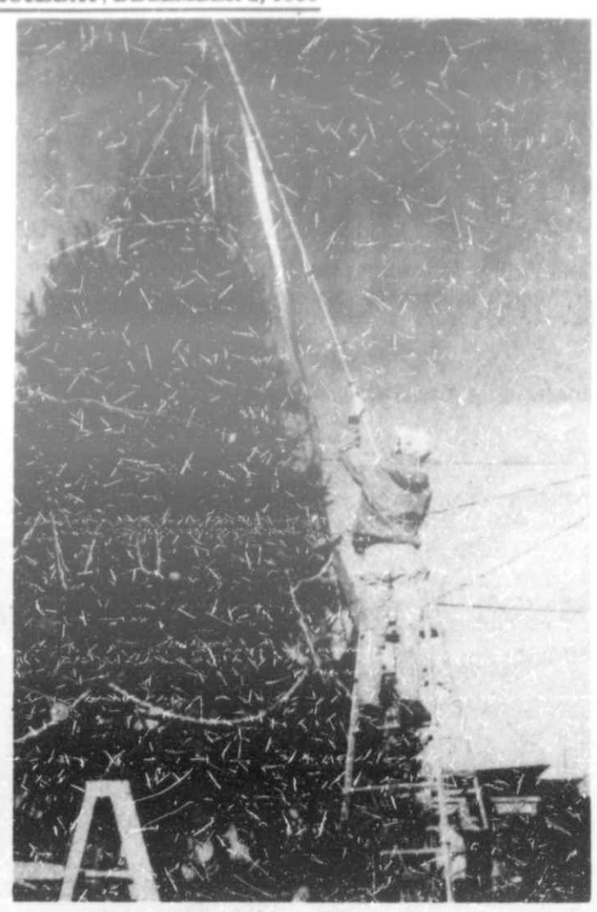
The monthly staff meeting of Garrett County agency and office leaders was held Tuesday with the county commissioners. Topics discussed included the future of the annual Autumn Glory Festival, governor's awards presented to the county's Department of Social Services and the health department, and other items.

Chamber of Commerce

Ken Wishnick, executive director of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, reported that his organization is hosting a meeting on Dec. 8 at Garrett Community College to discuss the future handling of the Autumn Glory Festival. (See related story.) Wishnick said work on the event will begin as early as January, and he is interested in obtaining a major corporate sponsor for the festival. He also wishes to consult with local individuals about the organization of the event.

"As we approach the new millennium, I think it's time we looked at what we have and decide what sort of goals we would like to set for it," Wishnick said. He reported that the chamber's net profit from this year's festival was about $20,000, in comparison with last year's net of $894. "I think some questions we want to ask are how could it be better organized, and who should do it," Wishnick said.

He also stated that he would like to see the festival be more of a county-wide event. While most of the events now occur in the Oakland area, the festival did once include activities in several towns. The tradition of choosing the queen from the two high schools alternatively each year still exists, and several areas host special Autumn Glory dinners and other events, but the majority of the festival takes place in the Oakland area and nearby communities. The Dec. 8 meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m., and all persons interested in the future of Autumn Glory are encouraged to attend.



In other chamber news, Wishnick said the Vacation Guide advertising deadlines have passed and that sales are up $15,000 from last year. He also reported that the chamber is hosting seminars on business topics, beginning on Dec. 8 with a talk by Zack Taylor concerning retail excelience. The seminars are free for chamber members and $5 for non-members.

A chamber "after-hours" event is slated for Dec. 7 at Penn Alps in Grantsville. The gathering will be held in the Great Hall.

Social Services

Henry Brown, director of the Garrett County Department of Social Services, reported that his department was among 11 state agencies recognized by Governor Parris Glendening for providing excellent customer service. The local office received a "level 4 interest assessment" quality award, along with the De-

REACHING FOR A STAR - It was no easy job to decorate the tree in Grantsville for the coming holidays — especially getting the star on the top. Students at Grantsville Elementary School made ornaments from recycled materials and volunteers braved the cold windy afternoon to decorate. Christmas festivities provided by the Greater Grantsville Business Association and Spruce Forest Artisan Village begin Friday and continue through Saturday with music, refreshments, and entertainment for visitors.

One Injured In Traffic Crash This Morning

Oakland police responded to a two-vehicle accident at the intersection of Oak Street and U.S. Rt. 219 South this morning at 8:40 a.m., resulting in injuries to one driver.

Their investigation revealed that a vehicle operated by Melissa Custer, 23, Oakland, had traveled north on Rt. 219, and was proceeding to turn onto westbound Oak Street when it was struck by a vehicle being operated by Michele DeWitt, 20, Oakland. DeWitt was eastbound on Oak Street, and allegedly failed to stop for a red signal. DeWitt told police that her vision was impaired by glaring sunlight.

The Southern Rescue Squad transported Custer to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated for minor injuries and released. DeWitt was cited for failure to stop for a red signal.

Also assisting at the scene was a State Highway Administration crew, which removed debris from the roadway.

GCC Nets Tuition Assistance For Potential Teachers

The Financial Aid Office at Garrett Community College has information about a new tuition assistance program for teachers now available through the Maryland Higher Education Commission, according to Pat Bennett, GCC's director of financial aid. This program is designed to fund education for students pursuing teacher certification in a critical shortage area.

The Sharon Christa McAuliffe Memorial Teacher Education Award Program provides tuition assistance to full-time or part-time students who are planning to teach in a designated critical shortage subject area. The shortage areas for the 2000-2001 academic year are: career and technology education (agriculture, technology education) computer science, English as a second language, German, Spanish, science (chemistry, earth/space science, physical science, physics), and special education.

Applicants must meet one of the following criteria: be an undergraduate student who will have earned 60 credit hours by the beginning of the first award year; be a degree-holding applicant who possesses a bachelor's or higher degree and is not certified in a critical teacher shortage subject area; or be a classroom teacher who is not certified in a critical shortage subject area. Applicants must be residents of Maryland with a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 who are attending or planning to attend an eligible Maryland postsecondary institution.

The amount of award may not exceed the equivalent annual tuition, room, and board of a resident undergraduate student at the University of Maryland, College Park. The maximum award for full-time students living on campus will be approximately $11,500 for the 2000-2001 academic year. Awards will be made for one year and may be reviewed for an additional year provided the recipient continues to meet eligibility requirements.

Each recipient of a Sharon Christa McAuliffe Memorial Teacher Education Award is required to sign a guaranteed promissory note with the Maryland Higher Education Commission that states that he or she will become certified in the teacher certification area for which he/she applied, and will then be employed in a Maryland public school system as a full-time teacher for one year for each year that a payment of assistance was made.

Applications for this teacher tuition assistance program are available in the Financial Aid office of Garrett Community College, which may be reached at 301-387-3083 for further information. Completed applications must be postmarked by December 31 and mailed to: Maryland Higher Education Commission, State Scholarship Administration, 16 Francis Street, Annapolis, MD 21401-1781, Attention: Sharon Christa McAuliffe Memorial Teacher Education Award.

Legion Post 71 Sets Pearl Harbor Day Observance

MAJ. RICK WAKEFIELD

This coming Tuesday, Dec. 7, marks the 58th anniversary of the "day that will live in infamy" — the bombing of Pearl Harbor, which drew the United States into World War II. The local observance of that anniversary will take place this Saturday, Dec. 4., at 1 p.m., in a commemorative program at the American Legion, Proctor Kildow Post 71, located along Memorial Drive across from Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The guest speaker for the program is Major Richard D. Wakefield of the Maryland Defense Force. The U.S. Army and National Guard veteran is a Friendsville native and current Mtn. Lake Park resident.

A number of dignitaries will be on hand and recognized during the program by master of ceremonies Jim Seeders, American Legion Garrett County commander. Various veterans organizations will post colors, Post 71 Chaplain Ward Ashby will preside over the invocation and benediction, and the firing squad unit of VFW Post 10077 will salute the departed veterans of Pearl Harbor and WWII.

Patriotic music and song will be provided by the Southern High School Band, under the direction of Richard Clever, bagpiper Rev. John Grant, and singers David Martin and Tim Miller. Fred Stemple will perform the solemn tribute of "Taps" shortly before the program concludes.

"It is appropriate that we all take a moment to remember not only all the people who were killed or wounded at Pearl Harbor," a Post 71 spokesperson said, "but also all those who gave a part of their life to the defense of our country."

Multiple Single-Vehicle Accidents Reported On Garrett County Roads

Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack reported a series of single-vehicle accidents this week on Garrett County roads.

Truck Loses Traction

The driver of a truck on New Germany Road was injured yesterday, when the vehicle reportedly lost traction. Police said Debra L. Baird, 45, Cumberland, was northbound on New Germany Road around 8:40 a.m. when her 1998 Honda truck, having lost traction, swerved to the right, overturned, and struck a tree.

Northern Rescue Squad and Grantsville VFD assisted at the scene and transported Baird to Garrett Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Car Skids

National Pike at Pigs Ear Road near the Pennsylvania line was the site of an accident Tuesday at 8:11 a.m. Tpr. B.A. Bond reported that Donna J. Grove, 51, Friendsville, was operating a 1996 Buick Century westbound on Route 40. When she tried to apply her brakes, the car skidded, left the travel portion of the road, and overturned, Tpr. Bond said.

Northern Rescue Squad responded to the scene and transported Grove to Cumberland Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries. She was released following treatment and no charges were filed.

Two Injured

A driver and his passenger were injured in an accident on Rock Lodge Road near Route 495 Monday afternoon. Tpr. B. Broadwater reported that Christopher J. Wilt, 17, Grantsville, reportedly lost control of his vehicle when he swerved to avoid a deer in the road. The car then struck a ditch and overturned, Tpr. Broadwater said.

Northern Rescue Squad and Bittinger VFD responded to the scene. Wilt and his passenger, Amy Berringer, 16, Accident, were taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released. No charges were filed.

Steering Fails

Laura L. Thomas, 22, Oakland, was injured when the 1997 Dodge she was driving overturned. Tpr. Clapper said Thomas was traveling on George Washington Highway when the accident occurred on Sunday at 4:14 p.m. Thomas reportedly advised the officer that the steering on her car had failed and, in a moment of panic, she neglected to apply her brakes. The car crossed the eastbound lane, struck an embankment, and overturned.

Gorman VFD and Southern Rescue Squad assisted, and Thomas was taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries and later released.

Strikes Guardrail

A motorist on Interstate 68 near Friendsville was taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital after his vehicle struck a guardrail.

Tpr. B. Broadwater reported that Lakoven E. Bullie, 21, Baltimore, was westbound on I-68 at 8:43 p.m. Sunday, when, for unknown reasons, he lost control of his 1993 Mazda, which spun around before striking the rail. Bullie was released following treatment of injuries at Garrett Memorial. No charges were filed.

Northern Rescue Squad and Friendsville VFD assisted the police.

Garrett CC Names Staley To Dean's Assistant Post

Sally Staley, a native of Baltimore, accepted the position of assistant to the dean of Academic Affairs at Garrett Community College recently. Her responsibilities at GCC include coordinating the co-curricular activities, the peer tutoring service, and the non-traditional credit evaluation, as well as a variety of other activities.

A graduate of Hood College with a B.A. in business, Staley has previously worked for a biomedical firm, a micro electronics firm, and has spent the past eight years doing income tax work in Alamagordo, N.M. She has family residing in Garrett County.

"This is my first time working at a college, and I like it very much," Staley said. "GCC is a very friendly place. My job is still evolving. I am currently working on the spring schedule of co-curricular events, trying to find activities that are interesting to students and have some educational or cultural value. We want to get ideas from the students and have a student representative on the committee.

Staley is the mother of a 6-year-old daughter and an 8-year-old son.

OTT Announces Auditions For Our Town Play

Our Town Theatre in Oakland has posted an audition schedule for Thornton Wilder's play Our Town, which will be presented in February 2000. Although auditions are slated this month, the rehearsals will not begin until January.

"I'd like to have a few weeks after auditions but before rehearsals to get organized," said Jane Avery, director of the production. "I directed this play for GLAF [Garrett Lakes Arts Festival] back in 1990, but this production will be completely different. Since our theatre has the same name as the play, the OTT board of directors is considering producing the work every decade. After all, it's a wonderful gauge of the past with the present and future."

The audition schedule is as follows: Friday, Dec. 10, 7-9 p.m.; Sunday, Dec. 12, 2-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m.; Monday, Dec. 13, 7-9 p.m.; and Friday, Dec. 17, 7-9 p.m.

The performance dates are Feb. 9-13 and 16-20, and reservations may be made by calling the theatre starting Jan. 1.

Avery stressed that persons who wish to try out but cannot make any of the audition slots may audition by appointment. More information may be obtained by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640.

Victim "Stable" After Accident On 4-Wheeler

Miles Paugh, 56, Kitzmiller, was reported this morning to be in stable condition at Cumberland Memorial Hospital following injuries sustained Monday while operating a 4-wheeler.

Tpr. B.L. Bittinger at the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police reported that Paugh was operating a 1988 Moto 4 with a deer secured on the front rack. While trying to climb a steep embankment near Pee Wee Road at 3:38 p.m., the vehicle reportedly overturned, trapping Paugh underneath.

Tpr. Bittinger reported that Paugh was found by his wife about four hours after the incident. Other emergency companies responding to the scene were Kitzmiller VFD, Southern Rescue Squad, and Elk District Ambulance.

The state police helicopter, Trooper 5, transported Paugh to Cumberland Memorial hospital.

Swanton Man Charged With Assault, DWI

Matthew Storey III, 42, Swanton, was charged by state police with second degree assault, assault on a police officer, three counts of reckless endangerment, driving while intoxicated, speeding, reckless driving, and negligent driving, following an incident last Saturday morning at 2 a.m.

According to a report filed by Tfc. Seaman at the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police, the officer responded to a call from Black Bear Tavern at 2:50 a.m., where an employee had reportedly been assaulted by a man with a knife.

Upon arrival the suspect fled in his white Dodge van, traveling south on Deep Creek Drive, Tfc. Seaman said. In the process of fleeing, the suspect drove through a roadblock by Tfc. J. Broadwater, though no injuries or damages resulted.

The suspect was stopped at the parking lot of the Point View Inn. An arrest was effected with assistance from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office K-9 unit and the use of pepper spray.

Cherry Glade Church Struck By Vandals

Cherry Glade Mennonite Church was the scene of a vandalism incident late last month that resulted in over $4,000 worth of damage, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Investigators believe that the church, located at 4051 Accident-Bittinger Road, was entered between Wednesday, Nov. 24, and Friday, Nov. 26. The perpetrator(s) apparently used a metal tool to smash and destroy a number of items inside the entrance lobby, pastor's study room, an upstairs sound room, and a bathroom. Included among the damaged items was a sound mixer, a sound duplicator, a power amp, and a copy machine, among numerous other pieces of equipment and fixtures.

Persons with information on this incident are encouraged to call the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911 or the Crimesolvers line at 301-334-1975.

An Important Meeting...

What an odd time to be thinking about the Autumn Glory Festival, with snow on the ground and holiday shopping well under way. But the planning for an event of this magnitude requires more than just a few weeks; indeed, it requires many months, typically beginning each year in January. So the time to begin considering new possibilities, enhancements, and a new overall approach to the festival is now.

There will be a meeting held next Wednesday evening at Garrett Community College (see story on front page) to initiate an open, fresh discussion about the festival and its future. Many questions will be asked and issues considered, having to do not only with the specific events of the festival, but also the coordination, planning, and sponsorship of the festival as a whole, and whether or not it is time to establish a new entity to assume all of these responsibilities. We have believed for a number of years (and said so once or twice in this column) that the festival is in need of some new activities, or a general overhaul. But we recognize that the enormity of such a task is frankly more than can be handled by the small staff of the Chamber of Commerce.

Another topic that will be discussed is whether or not to pursue some major corporate sponsors for the festival, an idea that to us has tremendous appeal and possibilities.

The importance of the festival can hardly be overestimated. For a number of local non-profit organizations it represents a huge portion of their annual fund-raising efforts, which in turn support scores of local programs, charities, and projects. For many arts and crafts persons it is the largest, most lucrative event of the entire year. For many local businesses it yields a highly profitable four-day weekend. In terms of economic development and exposure of our county, the effects are probably more far-reaching than most of us realize. Some people literally discover Garrett County during the Autumn Glory Festival.

Therefore, we hope the representation is extensive at next Wednesday's meeting, with persons from all of the above in attendance. Broad-based brain-storming, involvement, cooperation, open-mindedness, and support are the keys to capitalizing on an opportunity to make the Autumn Glory Festival bigger and better.

Make Arrests

odor of suspected burnt marijuana coming from inside. A consensual search followed, which reportedly uncovered a bag of marijuana and a smoking pipe.

Coddington and Feller each face charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. The couple were subsequently released, Coddington after posting a $300 bond, and Feller on her own recognizance.

Brenda Jean Bittinger, 35, Swanton, was arrested shortly after 6 p.m. Sunday on charges of second degree assault and child abuse. Deputies were called to her New Germany Road residence after she had allegedly become disorderly, grabbing a juvenile by his hand, leaving scratches and marks, and throwing a jar through a window. She was released after posting a $1,000 bond.

Jeffrey Chandler Bell, 46, Oakland was arrested and charged with second degree assault, destruction of property, and resisting arrest Sunday after a 9:30 p.m. incident at a Mt. Nebo Road residence.

Prior to deputies' arrival, Bell reportedly threw some miscellaneous items around inside the home and grabbed a woman when she refused to give him a set of car keys. Bell also allegedly struggled when deputies attempted to place handcuffs on him. He was subsequently released on his own recognizance.

Sunday's final arrests came at 11:48 p.m. when a car occupied by a pair of Morgantown, W.Va., residents was stopped for speeding and equipment violations along Garrett Highway south of Accident.

The deputy detected the odor of suspected burnt marijuana, and the driver of the 1987 Acura, Jason Philip Deem, 22, and his passenger, Henry Eugene Fletcher III, 19, were both charged with possession of drugs and drug paraphernalia after a vehicle search reportedly uncovered several bags of suspected marijuana, a quantity of suspected LSD, and related paraphernalia. A quantity of currency was also seized from the vehicle, which was impounded as well.

Deem faces an additional charge of speeding. Both he and Fletcher were released after each posted a $1,000 bond.

A Westernport man was arrested early Thanksgiving morning following a traffic stop along D Street in Mtn. Lake Park.

Hubert Todd Murphy, 38, was initially stopped when his 1987 Plymouth X-car was observed failing to stop at a flashing red light 17 minutes after midnight. After further investigation, Murphy was charged with DWI (driving while intoxicated), failure to stop at a flashing red light, driving on a revoked license, and possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

Murphy was later released after posting a $500 bond.

A two-month Garrett County Narcotics Task Force investigation resulted in the arrest of a Grantsville man Monday.

Charles Clinton Cole Jr., 19, is accused of allegedly selling marijuana to undercover police officers. He was charged with distribution of marijuana and possession of marijuana, and his vehicle was seized as a result of the arrest.

Cole was subsequently released on his own recognizance.

Dale Matthew Frazee, 18, Friendsville, was arrested Tuesday, Nov. 23, by Garrett Bureau of Investigation detectives in connection with a court hearing stemming from a theft charge. Frazee's most recent charges are intimidating a witness and obstruction of justice, both filed by the GBI. After his arrest he was released on his own recognizance.

be solicited throughout the evening. "The purpose of this meeting is to afford all interested persons the opportunity to present their views regarding the proposed location and general design features of the project," a Maryland State Highway Administration representative said, "including the social, economic, and environmental effects for both the build alternates and the no-build alternate."

Requests to speak during the public testimony portion of the meeting should be received no later than the day before the meeting in order to ensure proper scheduling. Requests may be made by calling Maloney toll free at 1-800-548-5026.

Persons who wish to present testimony without having made an advance request will follow those on the established list, and if there are a large number of speakers a time limit for each person may be instituted.

Brochures and forms for written comments submitted by persons not interested in providing spoken testimony in public or in private will be available at the meeting. Persons not attending the meeting but who wish to submit written input may do so by mailing their comments to Paul Maloney, P.E., Project Manager, Maryland SHA Project Planning Division, C-301, 707 North Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202, by Friday, Jan. 7, 2000, in order to be included in the public hearing transcript.

If the Garrett County snow emergency plan is in effect on the day of the hearing, or if the county's public schools have been closed and evening activities canceled, the hearing will be canceled and rescheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 12, 2000.

"HYBRID" ALTERNATE

The routing of the hybrid alternate, which combines aspects of alternates A and A-1, would take the proposed bypass north from Maryland Highway to the area of Memorial Drive just as each of the other proposals do.

At Memorial Drive, however, the hybrid would begin its gradual turn to the west where Option A's turn begins, approximately 600 feet south of where Option A-1's turn would begin.

The hybrid would then continue westward, traveling between a set of wetlands and crossing just north of the proposed site for a Wal-Mart Supercenter store and parking lot, and would then join with existing Route 219 in a gradual sweeping turn to the north, rather than at a T-intersection, as other options have proposed, at a point between the intersection points of A and A-1.

"The biggest reduction is from a taking of two, and, depending on which option you're discussing, possibly three houses, down to one house," Nelson commented.

"I'm not fighting the bypass itself," Sheila Edwards said later. "We're just looking for something we can live with. The hybrid alternate fits in better with the town of Oakland's wishes, which, as I understand, have always been to have the bypass take a route as close to the town as possible."

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain said this morning that although he still had to study the hybrid proposal in detail, he and the town council would be open to "encouraging the final selection of a route that would best minimize impacts in the community." That could include changing the town's current endorsement of Option A-1 to the hybrid or another preferable route, he said.

IN AUSTRALIA AND ENGLAND

Just a month ago momentous decisions were made in England and Australia. They were barely reported in the American press, though they were decisions of revolutionary importance. As decisions, they were all the more interesting because they were opposite in their effects.

In the Parliament of the United Kingdom of England, Scotland, Wales, and Northern Ireland sitting in Westminster (London) the hereditary lords of the realm were expelled from the House of Lords. The House of Lords is the forerunner of our own U.S. Senate, and has served as the upper house of the British Parliament since about 1344 A.D.

For more than a century liberals have attempted to abolish the House of Lords, and have, little by little, diminished its authority. The current Labour Prime Minister Tony Blair has not yet achieved the abolition of the upper house, but has been successful at getting it.

Since World War II, prime ministers have been packing the House of Lords with so-called life-peers, meaning that an individual was named a "lord" and permitted to sit in the upper house, but such lords could not pass on the lordship to their heirs.

I have said that the liberals have sought to abolish the House of Lords, and have successfully gutted it. The truth is that the Conservative Party has aided and abetted in this drive for a very simple reason. The House of Lords was as much a thorn in the side of Margaret Thatcher (the Conservative "Iron Lady") as to Tony Blair.

The common motivation is that an elected prime minister thinks she or he is the ruler of the land. Queens and lords are to them nothing but obstacles. The hereditary lords spoke on behalf of tradition against Conservatives and Labourites alike. They became the voice for the voiceless in British politics. The Labour Party wielded the axe, but the Conservative Party shed only crocodile tears.

While the British were throwing the guardians of tradition into the street, the Australian people voted in a referendum to retain the queen (the same Elizabeth of the United Kingdom) as the head of state in Australia by a 55% to 45% margin.

There is a strong movement in Australia to rid the country of the monarchy. The proposal for a president as head of state was that the new office should be elected by a super-majority in the Australian Parliament. The opponents of the republican head of state (a republic instead of a monarchy) urged their compatriots to "Say 'no' to the politicians' republic."

The people of Australia, who feel the British queen is removed from their lives and, therefore, irrelevant, nevertheless voted to retain her as their head of state. As little as they like queens and kings, they like politicians even less.

In Britain it is commonly asked against the hereditary lords, "What right have they to govern us just because their ancestors were successful horse thieves?" In Australia the reply was in effect, "Better the descendants of horse thieves than the horse thieves themselves."

The monarchy has had a reprieve in Australia, but only a reprieve. The queen and the Royal Family have an opportunity in conjunction with Australian monarchists to demonstrate that the institution of monarchy can be adapted to Australia's future. If they fail to seize the opportunity, or having seized it if they fail to make their case then the referendum on the republic will be back, and the results will be the reverse of November's vote.

In the United Kingdom, on the other hand, we are watching the careful dismemberment of a nation that took centuries to develop and which can be voted out of business between breakfast and lunch. The British would do well to remember two things. First, the only out and out tyrant they have experienced in 1,500 years was a Parliamentarian who rejected the institutions which safeguarded tradition. The other thing they need to remember is that a wise man builds a new house before he tears down the old house.

As we Americans observe the decisions made by cousins in the mother country and in a sister country, we do well to reflect upon the direction of our own institutions in an age when political battles are staged between the Kennedys and the Bushes. Family dynasties that are coopted by the interests of big money cannot be easily dislodged. Whatever the labels they wear in each land, we discern on the field of battle the few defenders of tradition against armies of veneered barbarians.

electricity will see the effects of the competitive market probably more than rural residents, who are paying low rates as it is."

In fact, because of an agreement with Cumberland's AES Warrior Run independent power producer, area consumers may actually see a slight increase in their electric bills over the next two years. The agreed-to base rate reduction will then begin on Jan. 1, 2002.

According to Travieso, federal law required Allegheny Power in 1988 to buy annually $50 million worth of electricity from Warrior Run. Because of changing economic conditions, the cost of this power is now more than the market price. The previously filed agreement allows for small rate increases this year and in 2000 and 2001 to compensate the company for the contract.

However, the recent settlement arranged by the OPC "softens the effect of buying this higher-priced power," Travieso said. "Under the agreement, the company will sell on the wholesale market the electricity it buys from Warrior Run and credit customers with the proceeds."

Travieso said that although consumers will have to pay for the Warrior Run contract, they will not have to pay the company $241 million in "stranded" costs the company claimed to have when it filed a deregulation plan with the PSC in July 1998. Stranded costs are investments utilities have made in power plants and other generating assets that they might not be able to recover in a competitive market. Travieso said he and OPC members feel that recovering stranded costs is "just a way of rewarding inefficient companies and punishing well-run ones like Allegheny Power."

Until July 1, 2000, local consumers will continue to be customers of Allegheny Power. Travieso said in those months, advertising from other generation companies will most likely begin, offering area residents some choices. One offering could be "green power," which is a more costly generation process, but is also produced in a way that is environmentally conscious.

"Green power offers residents ways to reduce consumption, such as giving a limit on provided hours, and it is produced in a way that is better for the environment," he said. "While some people will not be interested because of the higher rates, others will take it because of its benefits to the environment."

He said as the deregulation date approaches, the OPC will be providing informational brochures to help residents choose.

Those consumers who remain with Allegheny Power without change will benefit from the agreed rate cap that is to be in effect until 2008. In that year, if Allegheny Power would decide to get out of the retail business, customers who have remained with the company will be secure, Travieso said. The electricity required by these consumers will be placed on the wholesale market and sold to the provider who will most efficiently meet those needs.

Electric bills will look different, Travieso said, but are supposed to be less confusing.

"In the same way that your telephone bills have at least two parts, your electric bill will have two parts — one from your supplier and one from your generating company," he said.

Travieso said the OPC is very willing to answer questions about deregulation and persons are encouraged to contact the group. The office is located at 6 St. Paul Street, Suite 2102, Baltimore, MD 21202. The telephone number is 1-800-207-4055, and the web site is www.opc.state.md.us.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in regard to the tragedy at Texas A&M where some 12 students were killed while constructing a large bonfire for their homecoming event, a long and time-honored tradition at the university.

My heart goes out to the young people who were killed and injured and to their friends and families, but as a combat veteran, who served this country in time of war, I feel I have to speak out about the military honors that were given to the victims.

The playing of "Taps," flags at half-mast, not to mention the flyover of F16s in the missing-man formation, are all very sacred military traditions that all veterans hold dear. To bestow them upon a group of civilians constructing a 50-foot pile of logs with an orange privy on top to be burned at a football game is, in my eyes, an insult to me and every other veteran who has put his life on the line for this country and its way of life. A tragedy and terrible loss this truly was, but the solemn rights that are reserved for the few, willingly or not, who gave their lives for this country should be held sacred and be given only to those who truly deserve them.

Sincerely,
John Stacy

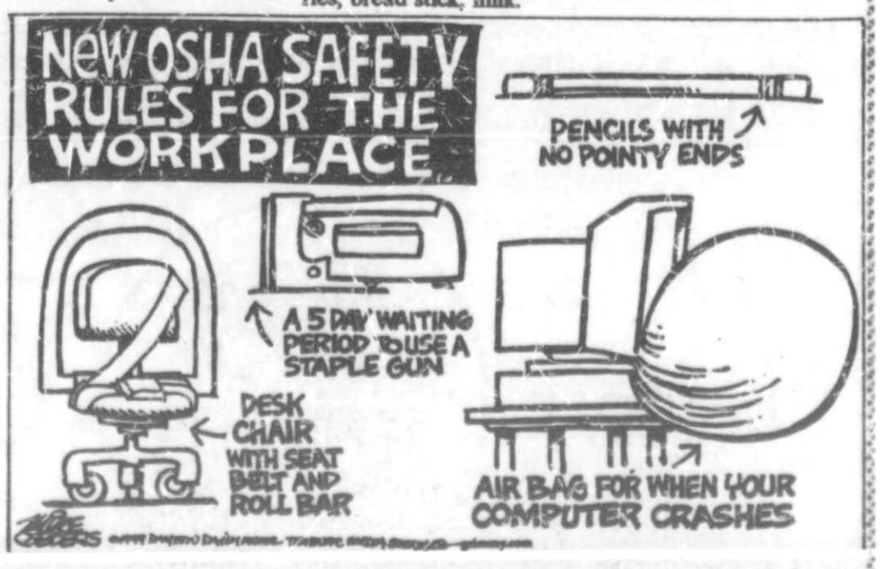
To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to an article that I read a week or two ago in the Cumberland paper. It was about our Sheriff's Dept. complaining about their pay. They said they were the lowest paid deputies, compared to those of four other counties.



Well, what about the rest of the hard-working people in this county? I'd say the majority are working well under pay compared to the rest of the state. But do you hear anybody feeling sorry for them?

Some might note the dangers of the Sheriff's Dept. jobs, but a lot of other people in this county, making half as much, could get hurt a lot faster.

If the commissioners want to feel sorry about their wages, then they need to give all of Garrett County a raise.

Some people also don't have cars, uniforms, and whatever other benefits the Sheriff's Dept. has.

THIS MAN HAS A REASON FOR SMILING - Norman Shaffer had many reasons to be happy and grateful this Thanksgiving. But one reason may have overshadowed all others. The tiny baby cuddled her mother's arms in the photo on the left had been absent from Norman's life for 44 years following the divorce from his wife Gerlinde. This year he found that missing daughter. So far, Norman and daughter Shirley have bridged the gap of decades and over 3,000 miles via phone calls. He hopes to see her before long in her home in Washington state.

Search Spanning 44 Years Leads Norman Shaffer To His Daughter

by Peggy Santamaria

As families gathered last week, in person or in spirit, to bow heads in gratitude for life's gifts and blessings, Norman Shaffer, at his home in Terra Alta, had a very special reason to lift his voice in thanks. His child, missing from his life for 44 years, had been found.

Norman's journey to find this daughter spanned four decades and two continents. This odyssey for Norman began while he was a soldier stationed in Germany. He had wed a young German woman named Gerlinde and on May 7, 1955, she gave birth in Munich to their daughter, Shirley Sharnett Maria Shaffer. The young couple, however, separated and divorced while Shirley was little more than an infant.

Still serving in the Army, Shaffer moved with his assignments from post to post, including a stint in Korea. Gerlinde, remarried to a serviceman, drifted from his life — as did the tiny daughter.

This week, holding up a well-worn photo, once black and white but now softened to tones of gray, Shaffer pointed out Gerlinde, dressed in a coat, cuddling the infant Shirley, wrapped in a blanket. "This is what she looked like when I last saw her." Penciled on the back of the photo was the date September 1955.

Another photo, with equally muted tones and curling edges, showed a pixie-like toddler. "And this was the last photo I got of her. Her mother and I lost touch with each other around 1958 or '59," he recalled.

Being out of touch with his daughter did not suit Norman, who began to try to locate his former wife and their child. "I continued trying to find them in the '60s. I was in the Army until 1964 and I knew Gerlinde's husband was also. I had his name and tried to get information from the Army but couldn't," he explained.

Did the daughter know of the father's existence? "It wasn't until she was about 13 that Shirley's mother told her about me, but she had no details," Norman said. However, the information that his former wife had about him would not really have helped Shirley should she want to locate her dad.

Originally from the Aurora, W.Va., area, Norman Shaffer's family had moved to upstate New York at the time he was serving in the Army. Gerlinde did not know that he left that area and returned to his West Virginia roots.

Norman never gave up the quest. Remarried, his wife helped him to initiate a computer check to see what could be found. The 1970s had turned into the '80s by this time and computer use was more widespread. The Shaffers searched for Gerlinde's husband and for her. No luck.

In 1988, Shaffer's son Robert, employed by Procter and Gamble in upstate New York, added his computer expertise to the search for his half-sister. Inquiries over the years yielded nothing.

"It was one Sunday about seven weeks ago. Robert called me in the morning and asked me to give him all the information I had on her. That night he called me back and said, 'Dad, you'd better sit down,'" Shaffer related.

Robert had made the connection. He had linked first to the former wife Gerlinde, now living in Mesa, Ariz., and from there to Shirley, now a 44-year-old wife, mother, and career woman living in Cowiche, Wash.

Norman and Shirley spoke to each other for the first time ever. And many phone calls have followed that initial contact. "She started calling me Dad right away. She was excited to learn that she had five brothers and sisters — two sisters in Iowa and another sister and two brothers in upstate New York," he said.

Conversation between father and daughter revealed a situation occuring some years earlier which had brought them into almost the same neighborhood. "I was a truck driver at the time and picking up a load of apples in Washington state. The town I went to and stayed in was Yakima, which is right next to the town Shirley lives in. She was right there and neither of us knew it," Shaffer reflected.

It has been a long time coming for Shaffer, but his once-broken family circle has been mended. Shirley has talked with his other children, and he has talked with his newly discovered grandchildren. "Now that I have finally found her, I want to try to get to Washington to see her. It's a long way, but I hope I can get the money together to make the trip soon," he concluded.

Two Injured In Swanton Area Car Collision

Two Swanton residents were injured in a head-on collision on Route 495 just north of Swanton the afternoon of Wednesday, Nov. 24.

William H. Cogley, 35, was driving south on Route 495 at 2:30 p.m. when he came upon another southbound vehicle stopped in the road as it was waiting to make a left turn. Unable to stop his own car, a 1986 Pontiac Trans Am, Cogley pulled around the stopped vehicle and into the path of an oncoming northbound 1987 Chrysler New Yorker driven by Catherine F. Duckworth, 45, and collided with her car.

Both Cogley and Duckworth sustained minor injuries as a result of the collision. Cogley refused medical treatment, and Duckworth was transported by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

Sheriff's deputies charged Cogley with failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

WARMTH AND FRIENDSHIP FOR CHRISTMAS - Receiving a pet for Christmas can bring great amounts of joy, companionship, and warmth to a cold season, especially to a child. The Garrett County Animal Shelter has many animals ready for adoption during the holidays. The eyes of a child light up when he or she sees a puppy under the Christmas tree or a kitten peeking over the edge of a present on Christmas morning. Some of the animals currently hold at the shelter could even be great surprise gifts. The female beagle puppy sniffing around, above, is 8 months old and available for adoption. The Dalmatian and kitten, below, are also located at the shelter. The female Dalmatian is between 2 and 3 years of age, and the kitten is a 4-month-old, short-haired domesticated tabby. Any of these animals and more may be adopted at the Garrett County Animal Shelter, Oakland Sang Run Road. The shelter is open Monday through Friday and can be reached at 301-334-3553 for more information.

partment of Agriculture and the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene's Board of Physician Quality.

"This is quite an honor for us. It reaffirms the quality service we are providing for our county's population," Brown said.

Brown also noted that local jurisdictions are being requested to appoint citizen review panels to examine foster care and other activities involving the welfare of children. More information on the formation of the board is forthcoming.

Health Department

Rodney Glotfelty, health officer for Garrett County, told the commissioners that November was a good month for the county health department, as the agency has received both federal and state recognition for excellence.

For the success of its Walk Away Program, the department was presented with a Governor's Fitness Council Award. The program currently involves about 650 participants who log the miles they walk and receive motivational awards. Glotfelty himself has participated in the program since March and reported that he has lost 30 pounds and his blood pressure has gone down significantly.

Walkers who sign up in the program keep track of their milage. When a participant reaches 25 miles, he or she receives a sweatshirt. For every 25 miles beyond that, a sew-on heart is given to the walker to put on the sweatshirt. Persons who would like to join the program may contact Nancy Brady at 301-334-8122.

Also granted to the health department last month was the 1999 Summer Food Sunshine Award, given to the organization in recognition of the Fun Day Camp programs, held in Loch Lynn, Kitzmiller, and Friendsville. Glotfelty said each camp had over 40 participants who learned about food safety and other topics.

The Great American Smoke-Out was promoted in November by the health department, Glotfelty said, and the department hosted a health fair in Pleasant Valley that was "huge success," with over 40 businesses participating, as well as four medical professionals. Glotfelty said a similar fair will be held in the northern part of the county in April.

Sanitary District

Ron Petrella, administrator of the Garrett County Sanitary District, reported that a meeting in Deer Park was held recently to discuss the possibility of altering the sanitary district boundaries in that town. The commissioners then informed Petrella that they had just received a letter from the Deer Park town council rejecting the alteration proposal.

Petrella also reported that the town of Mountain Lake Park is considering adding fluoride to the town's water supply, and that the proposal is being researched. Health Officer Glotfelty noted that part of the funds included in the recently won dentistry grant to the county could feasibly be directed toward the purchase of the proper fluoridation equipment for the town.

Ruth Enlow Library

Cathy Ashby, director of the Ruth Enlow Library, reported that automation is on track for the Oakland and Accident branches of the system. The state is providing well over $100,000 for the upgrade, she said.

The staff members of the library system are currently being trained on the Internet, Ashby reported, and are learning how to print out tax forms.

"This is a big change for us, and it will be a very valuable public service for county residents," Ashby said. The system will be able to obtain any state or federal form on the Internet, and then print it out as needed.

An open house at the Accident branch is slated for Dec. 15, she noted, and the library will be participating in the Maryland Technology Showcase, slated for Dec. 8 and 9 at the Baltimore Civic Center.

Treasurer's Office

Patty Glover, county treasurer, reported that the commissioners have opted to reject the idea of credit card usage for tax payments. The county was approached by a representative of the Discover credit card company to introduce the idea. If the local office had agreed to use the credit system, only the Discover card could be utilized.

"We didn't like the idea of going with just one credit card company, so we won't be adding that process this year," Glover said.

Garrett County Chamber of Commerce UPDATE

Home of Deep Creek Lake

CHANGING AUTUMN GLORY FOR THE NEW MILLENNIUM

The Chamber's Autumn Glory Festival just completed its 32nd year, and by most accounts, it was the best ever. To spectators, it flowed smoothly from end to end, drawing approximately 60,000 attendees. In addition, it was very profitable to both organizations and vendors.

However, is Autumn Glory all that it can be? Several suggestions have been made to expand and "freshen" the festival since many components have remained substantially similar year after year. Is it this consistency that gives the festival its appeal or would the festival benefit from significant changes?

Since festival preparations need to begin nine months in advance, it is time now for discussion. It may be hard to think about next fall before we even enter our winter season, but if we don't start now, we will lose the opportunity to shape the first Autumn Glory of the 21st century.

A first step is to review some basic policies. Is there interest in expanding Autumn Glory to be a true countywide event with activities in Friendsville, Accident, Grantsville, Northern High School, county fairgrounds, and other locations? Should major outside corporate sponsorship be sought which could infuse big dollars? Should the Chamber of Commerce continue to be the entity that controls the festival or should a community-wide oversight foundation or organization be charged with this responsibility? August and September should be the time of the year that Chamber staff become obsessed with winter tourism marketing, yet this has not been happening due to demands of the festival.

Do you have thoughts concerning the festival's future? Bring your ideas to the Chamber Festival Committee's Autumn Glory Community Meeting to be held 6:30 p.m. next Wednesday, Dec. 8, at Garrett Community College in Room 314 of the Continuing Education building.

INVENTING THE RECLINING SLED - This colored pencil drawing by Garrett County resident Kieran Adams depicts her idea for an invention that she submitted to National Geographic World. She was in the fifth grade when she sent her work in for consideration.

Kieran Adams Creates Artwork For National Magazine Contest

The December issue of National Geographic World magazine is currently being delivered to thousands of homes around the country. Among its pages, eager young readers will find a sample of the artwork and creativity of Grantsville resident Kieran Adams. The 11-year-old student is in the sixth grade at Calvary Christian Academy in Cesaptown.

The colored pencil drawing by Kieran appears in the section of the magazine called Mailbag. "This is always my favorite part of the magazine. Junior members invent these totally cool toys and games," she said. The section features submissions by young readers on a subject chosen by the editors of the national publication for youth.

Kieran responded to a challenge in the Mailbag feature in December 1998. Her concept was a sled recliner, which she illustrated. "I like to work in pencil best. I like it better than crayon," the young artist explained.

She said she always carried a doodle pad around with her so she can sketch and write, which is another of her pastimes. "Most of the time I draw houses, trees, and dolphins. I like to draw the trees without leaves on them," she explained. This skill she has shared with classmates who have asked her how she draws trees so realistically.

Kieran's success has prompted one of her sisters, 8-year-old Shaun, to follow in her footsteps and submit a drawing to the Mailbag feature this month.

Parents Ron and Pam Adams, along with Kieran's other younger sister Lauren, age 6, said they are very proud of Kieran's accomplishment.

Healthy ♡ Living in Garrett County

Germain Reaches Out To Counsel Victims Of Abuse

Kristiann Germain joined the staff of the Dove Center earlier this year to reach out into the Garrett County community to provide counseling and support to victims of sexual abuse and family violence. The Dove Center had opened offices in several locations to make services more accessible to residents throughout the county.

Germain, who had trained and served as a volunteer at the center, was selected to serve the outreach sites, which opened this year in the Kitzmiller, Accident/Friendsville, and Grantsville areas.

As a counselor, Germain brings both education and experience to the Dove Center. A native of Garrett County, she graduated from Southern High School, attended Garrett Community College, and earned her bachelor's degree in German and psychology at West Virginia University. She has also completed all course- work required for a master's degree in clinical psychology from Middle Tennessee State University, Murfreesboro, Tenn.

Germain has worked in crisis intervention fields, both with severely mentally ill clients and those experiencing homicidal/suicidal ideations.

Upon returning to Garrett County in the fall of 1998, Germain said was drawn to the work of the Dove Center. "Domestic Violence has touched the lives of so many people. Most of us know someone who has been in a violent or abusive situation," she said.

Reaching out into the county to offer counseling services, Germain has found that her clients cross all socio-economic lines. "I have been unhappily surprised with the amount of business that I have here in Garrett County. It has been a real eye-opener," she noted.

For information on services available through the Dove Center, persons may call 301-334-9000 or 1-800-656-HOPE.

Athey-Oxford To Join Women's Health Council

Susan Athey-Oxford, director of resource development for the Partnership for Children and Families, will represent Garrett County on the state's recently formed council to study women's health issues.

Identifying and cataloging health needs and issues facing women at each stage of their lives are among the tasks that will be undertaken by the governor's newly appointed Women Health Promotion Council. The group will also explore ways to promote a stronger and more coordinated public/private response to women's health needs.

The 23-member council is composed of representatives of state and local government, the general public, and the business community who are interested in preventive health care for women, plus leaders in health education or relevant scientific disciplines. The panel is co-chaired by Dr. Georges C. Benjamin, secretary of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH), and Lynne A. Battaglia, U.S. attorney for Maryland.

"The members of the Women's Health Promotion Council will use their collective expertise on health issues, and work hard to find ways to help ensure that Maryland women receive the best possible health care services at each stage of their lives," said Gov. Parris N. Glendening.

The council will tackle such assignments as developing a catalog of the essential age-appropriate health services that should be accessible to women, and identifying any gaps in or impediments to these essentials.

Identifying health services needed by underserved populations, such as the homeless, minority groups, and victims of violence and sexual assault, will be a priority.

The council will develop evidence-based guidelines for programs and resources to meet women's health needs. In addition, it will outline and promote public education for better understanding of women's health.

Massage Clinics, Seminars Slated At Garrett CC

Garrett Community College, approved by the National Certification Board for Therapeutic Massage and Bodywork as a continuing education provider, will offer a massage clinic and two massage seminars in coming weeks.

The student massage clinic, open to the general public, is set from Monday, Dec. 13, through Saturday, Dec. 18 at the college. Persons may call 301-387-3088 for appointments and costs.

A seminar titled Massage Therapy: Communications and Feedback is set for this Saturday, Dec. 4. Topics to be covered include improving communication between therapists and clients.

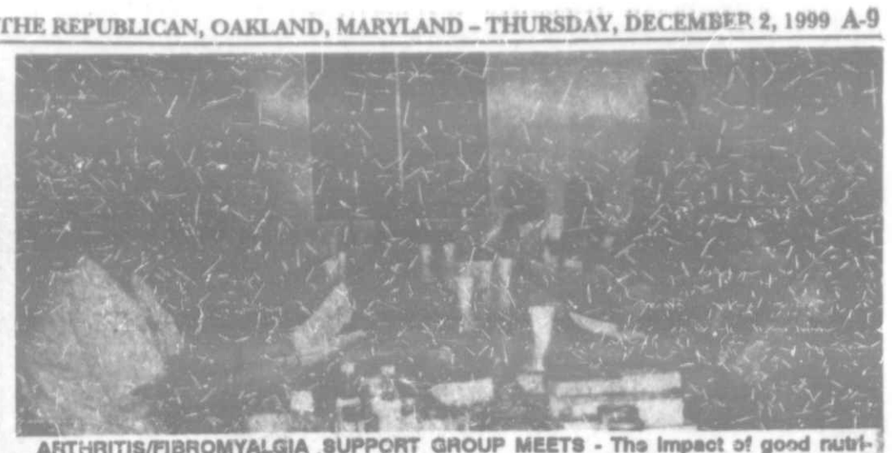
A seminar titled Multi-Dimensional Approach to Bodywork and Massage Therapy is set for the following day, Sunday, Dec. 5. This seminar is designed to offer information on the way touch affects physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual levels of being.

Each of the seminars is open to practicing therapists and those persons who have completed the Overview of Bodywork and Massage Therapy course.

Extension Service Sets Safe Food Handling Classes

Citing reports that most foodborne illnesses happen in the home, the Garrett County Cooperative Extension has slated a food safety program specifically designed for homeowners. The two-hour program will be presented in Oakland, Friendsville, and Accident.

Foodborne illnesses "may be called stomach flu or just not feeling good for a few days," according to Irmgard R. Koscielniak, extension educator for the county, "but these bouts do take their toll on the very young, the elderly, and those with a compromised immune system.



"Food contaminations with bacteria, viruses, yeast, and molds may start in the home, but careless food handling can aggravate the already existing contaminations to the danger point," she added.

The program will be presented at three different locations in the county, as follows: the Oakland Town Hall on Thursday, Dec. 9; the Friendsville Community Building on Friday, Dec. 10; and the Accident Community Center on Wednesday, Dec. 15. On each of those dates the program will be presented twice in its entirety; from 10 a.m. to noon, and again from 7 to 9 p.m.

A fee of $2 per person will be charged to defray the cost of materials. Preregistration is needed to reserve space and prepare handouts. For more information persons may contact Koscielniak at the Garrett County Extension Office, 1916 Maryland Highway, Suite A, Mtn. Lake Park, MD 21550; phone 301-334-6960; fax 301-334-6961.

MOVING TOWARD BETTER HEALTH - Achieving better health through physical activity and good eating habits had been the focus of ongoing public education and displays presented by the Garrett County Health Department. As part of the effort to encourage people to increase levels of physical activity, the health department offered free chances to win a "pedometer." Participants were able to sign up for the drawing at several area sites. The winner of the pedometer had entered the contest at the Farmers' Market in Oakland. In the photo, Becky Friends, left, accepts her prize from Community Health Outreach worker Gail Dever.

Hospice Care To Be Featured In ABC Movie

Tuesdays With Morrie, ABC Television's Sunday movie to be aired at 9 p.m. on December 5, may help families understand how Hospice care can meet end-of-life needs and terminal illness decisions, according to Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County Inc. "We are encouraging Garrett County residents to watch the movie," she said.

The story portrayed for the television audience is based on a best-selling book written by journalist Mitch Alborn. In it the author describes his relationship with his former college professor, Morrie Schwartz, who suffered from terminal Lou Gehrig's disease. The movie illustrates the types of service that Schwartz and his family received from hospice including medical, physical, and emotional care, and comforting support by trained, professional hospice caregivers.

"The movie demonstrates the essence and benefits of hospice services which represent those offered by our local hospice," Butscher said.

The hospice philosophy of care calls for in-home services which are patient-centered and team-oriented. The goals are to provide expert medical care, pain relief, and emotional support for patients with a terminal illness and for their families. Services are provided by both staff professionals and trained volunteer caregivers. "The continuing aim is to keep a patient comfortable in his or her own home or a home-like setting; promote quality, dignity, and fullness of life; and provide customized physical, medical, emotional, and spiritual needs as appropriate and desirable," Butscher concluded.

Those interested in learning more about Hospice of Garrett County Inc. or its volunteer and support programs may call 301-334-5151 or visit the office, located at 69 Wolf Acres Drive in Oakland.

Rebounding, Somerville, Levi Power Lakers Over Red Devils

Rebounding made the difference for the Garrett Community College Lakers last night, as they out-rebounded host Baltimore City by a huge 61-39 margin and eked out an 85-82 victory in a physical contest that also featured a total of 49 fouls. The JUCO win gave the Lakers an 8-1 record overall and a 3-0 mark in the conference.

Charles Somerville was the key person on the boards for the Lakers, as he pulled down a career-high 21 rebounds to go with his 14 points and three blocked shots. Dexter Levi led Garrett in scoring with 17 points, while Carlos Jones and Corin Turner also reached double figures with 14 and 10 points, respectively.

The Lakers held a reasonably comfortable 48-36 lead at intermission, and they led the entire second half, but late in the game the Red Devils pared GCC's lead to the final three-point difference. A rebound by Levi, followed by a field goal by Jones off a missed foul shot all in the final minute were key to the Lakers' win.

Levi also grabbed nine rebounds and blocked three shots, while Turner recorded five steals and Scott Kochenderfer dished out a game-high six assists.

The Lakers out-gunned the Red Devils from the floor by a 34-29 margin, but were unimpressive at the foul line, from which they made good on only 14 of 30 attempts.

The big gun for the night was Baltimore's Miquel Wilson, who hit a dozen field goals, including five from three-point range, and connected on 12 of 16 free throws to finish with 41 points, exactly half of his team's total. Iran Turner netted 11 and Tavon Nathan chipped in with 10.

"This was a great win for us," stated Laker coach Dennis Gibson. "It's always great when you can win a game on the road that is as physical as this one was. Charles Somerville played his best game to date, and Dustin Long (former Northern High standout) gave us a nice lift coming off the bench in the first half."

The Lakers will play another JUCO game this Saturday when they host Harford CC, with tip-off set for 7 p.m. They will travel to Penn State-Fayette next Thursday.

MAKING HER MOVE, Garrett Community College forward Erica Henderson (#40) cuts to the basket during last night's home battle with Allegany College of Maryland. The freshman scored 10 points in the 68-58 loss, and her teammate, Shawntice McLaughlin (#12, background) added six points. The contest marked the return of two Garrett County natives to the mountaintop, as Northern High School graduates Mindy McCarty (#24) and Jill Speicher (not pictured) each took to the McHenry floor wearing Trojan colors. Allegany forward Danny Keays (#32), a native of another cold climate (Fairbanks, Alaska), helped spark her team to victory by recording four steals in a game marred by Laker turnovers. The leading Garrett point producer of the night, Tameka Graves (#42) is pictured at right, popping in two of her 18 points. GCC will take a 2-2 record on the road tomorrow as the Lakers travel to Baltimore City Community College tomorrow for the three-day Charm City Classic. Photos by John McEwen

Laker Women Split Home Contests With CCAC, ACM

The Lakers trounced CCAC-Allegheny (Pa.) at home Monday by a 75-62 margin, but fell to Allegany College of Maryland 68-58 in another homecourt battle last night.

Guard Donielle Gaines hit for 18 points in leading Garrett to victory over CCAC. (A box score for the game was not available.) The lead changed several times through the first two-thirds of the contest, with only a single point separating the two teams at the half, when GCC held a 27-26 lead.

CCAC held close with a five-guard line-up that connected on 9 of its 18 three-point attempts; however, the size differential proved a bigger advantage for the Lakers as the Garrett women pulled down 52 rebounds as compared to 16 for the visitors. That superior figure barely outweighed GCC's 26 turnovers, twice as many as CCAC compiled.

Center Tameka Graves and forward Erica Henderson ruled under the boards for Garrett, as Graves scored 12 points while yanking down 11 rebounds, and Henderson tallied 11 points and nine rebounds. The Laker bench weighed in by supplying 51 of the team's 75 points and neutralizing CCAC's quickness.

CCAC was paced by 22 points by Ti'La Hardeman and 19 points by Kathy Symchak.

"We're still making too many mental mistakes resulting in turnovers," Laker head coach Ann Wellham observed afterwards. "There is a lot of talent on the team this year. We're growing and maturing with each game, and we're starting to see individuals step up and perform, but I've yet to see a total team effort."

Last night the Lakers were dominated by the visiting Allegany Trojans, as a former Garrett player and Northern High School alumna, sophomore guard Mindy McCarty, scored 15 points and recorded 13 rebounds against her old teammates. Fellow Accident native and Husky alumna Jill Speicher, a freshman guard, scored five points for Allegany.

The Trojans took an early lead and held a 33-24 advantage at the half. Turnovers proved to be Garrett's Achilles' heel once again, as the Lakers gave the ball away 26 times. The give-aways proved especially costly as GCC tallied a 61-45 rebounding edge for the contest.

Graves led the Lakers with 18 points and 11 rebounds, Henderson scored 10 points, and forward Tasha Blackmon added 13 rebounds.

GCC travels to Baltimore City Community College this weekend for the Charm City Classic, where the Lakers will open with tomorrow's match-up with Manhattan Community College. On Saturday the Garrett squad takes on Globe Tech, and on Sunday GCC battles Mercer County Community College.

Edwards Faces Big Challenge As New Head Coach Of Huskies

One's first year as a head coach is a challenge in and of itself, but when a new coach takes the reigns of a team that has lost four of its five starters to graduation, the quest for success is even more difficult. That's what is facing Paul Edwards, who has taken over as head coach of the Northern High School boys' varsity basketball team, a position held for many years by Mike Friend.

The Huskies, who finished with a commendable 15-8 record last year, were led by one of the area's top scorers in Dustin Long, who is now playing for Coach Dennis Gibson at Garrett Community College. Other starters who were awarded their diplomas last spring were Craig Kamp, Brian Harvey, and Jed Wilhelm. The only returning starter is junior center Rob Dozier (6-5, 190).

The Huskies will open their season next Tuesday at home against Westmar.

"We'll be strong inside with Rob, who has the ability to dominate games," Edwards said, "and we also have some quickness and good ball handlers at the guard spots. I think Timmy (Umbel) is going to have an excellent year at point."

Joining Dozier and Umbel (senior, 5-10, 140) in the starting line-up will most likely be junior Greg Speicher (5-9, 150) at the shooting guard position, junior A.J. Thomas (6-0, 160) at the small forward spot, and senior Josh Resh (6-3, 185) at power forward.

"Obviously with this being my first year as a head coach, and in losing four starters, we will go through an adjustment period," stated Edwards, a former Husky himself. "But at least I've been coaching in some capacity for eight years, and this is the hardest working group of guys I've ever had. They have really dedicated themselves, and I'm excited to see how well we can do."

Other members of the team are: seniors P.J. Workman (5-10, 180), Jeremy Rice (6-1, 185), Russell Lawson (6-2, 170), Steve Smith (6-2, 180) and Marcus Rugg, 5-11, 220); and juniors Jeremy Frazee (5-9, 145) and Denny Thorp (5-8, 135).

When asked which opponents on the schedule will pose the biggest challenge to the Huskies, Edwards identified Allegany and Southern.

"We have the same ultimate goal that every team in the area has," Edwards said, "to win a state championship. Of course we want to compete for the WMIL title as well, and to start a consistent, winning tradition here at Northern."

The Huskies first four games will be at home. Next Tuesday's match-up with Westmar will tip off at 7:30 p.m. The junior varsity game will begin at 6 p.m.

The Garrett County Sanitary District wishes to thank all of its customers for their conservation efforts during the drought emergency that we recently experienced. It was a difficult summer and fall as a result of the lack of rainfall.

We asked our customers to conserve water, and the results were tremendous.

Water is a precious resource. We continue to ask our customers not to waste this resource and more importantly, not to take it for granted. Water tables are still low and we should all continue to conserve any way we can. Once again, the Sanitary District wishes to thank you for your assistance and cooperation during the drought. We look forward to continuing to provide quality service to all our customers.

Coach Stough, Husky Matmen Anticipate Continued Success

Despite losing one state champion and a third-place state finisher to graduation, Coach Scott Stough and his Northern High School wrestling team are anticipating another winning season. The Huskies will kick off their season next Wednesday with a tri-match at Keyser. The host school and Hyndman will be the other participants.

Northern concluded an outstanding season last year with a 16-1 record and a second-place finish in the Maryland State 1A/2A Championships. Jesse Shimrock, whose record was perfect last year all the way to a state title, was lost to graduation, as was Matt Kauffman, who finished third in the state meet. But among those back in Husky uniforms this season are Brandon Stein, another 1999 state champ, Blake Huber, who was a state runner-up, Mark Wolf, a fifth place finisher in the state, and Paul Beitzel, who earned a sixth place.

"We also have three other state qualifiers back this season," said Coach Stough, "and we have eight seniors in our starting line-up. We have great depth, with 35 on our squad. One of my problems is going to be getting some of our more talented wrestlers in the line-up, which is a good problem to have."

Others on the roster include: John Beachy, John Foutz, Steven Friend, Danny Ganoe, Darric Kamp, Eric Rodeheaver, Andrew Sebold, Nathan Simmons, Billy Wilt, Jordan Brenneman, and Lee Yoder, freshmen; Kellen Baumgardner, Trey Brenneman, Anthony Coddington, Chris Knox, Jeremy Layman, and Joel Resh, sophomores; Adam Butner, Brian Frazee, Bill Rodeheaver, and Malcolm Simmons, juniors; and Trapper Duckworth, Brant Green, Dale Hetrick, and Dan Rounds, seniors.

Stough believes the Huskies' most difficult challeages on the 1999-2000 schedule will be the dual meet at Fairmont, University High, Southern, and tournaments at Berkeley Springs and Bedford.

"We came so close to a team state championship last year," Stough said. "But a lot of that team is back this year, and several with state tournament experience, which really makes a difference."

Stough is being assisted this season by Steve Savage, Galen Kamp, John Toston, and Daymond Schmuck.

The Huskies' will have four meets on the road before their home opener on December 23 against Beall.

tation in Maryland, Winstead was responsible for all of the state's transportation initiatives during his five-year tenure. He is credited with forming Maryland's first real estate management unit to improve infrastructure and land-use planning, as well as the first departmental strategy plan, designed to unify the state's individual modal business plans. He also oversaw the expansion of the state's highway system by 345 miles, the reorganization of the Maryland Transportation Authority, and improvements in customer service at the Motor Vehicles Administration.

"Having David Winstead serve on our steering committee is a great benefit to Continental 1 and all its members," Continental 1 president Glenn Miller said. "His knowledge of transportation issues is invaluable and his expertise will help catapult Continental 1 to even greater international prominence."

In addition to Winstead's presentation, other Continental 1 members will speak on their views of the importance and economic potential of Continental 1, the financial needs of the organization, and the competition for state and federal highway dollars among organizations supporting other interstate highway corridors.

This meeting is being cosponsored by U.S. Congressman John Murtha of Pennsylvania.

The 10 a.m. meeting is free and open to the public, and will be followed by lunch at 12:30 p.m. Lunch reservations are $15 per person and may be made by calling John Brennan, operations director for Continental 1, as soon as possible at 814-773-3162, or by faxing an RSVP to Brennan at 814-773-7045. Persons submitting reservations are asked to provide their name, address, and telephone number on the RSVP.

Continental 1 is composed of an alliance of local governments, chambers of commerce, businesses, professionals, and citizens. The organization can be contacted at 651 Montmorenci Avenue, Ridgway, PA 15853; by telephone at 814-773-3162; by fax at 814-772-7045; or by E-mail at con1@ncentral.com. Special Olympics Group To Convene Special Olympics Maryland (SOMD) of Garrett County will hold a meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 14, at 6:30 p.m. at Appalachian Crossroads, Oakland. Topics on the agenda for the evening will include strategies for recruiting coaches to work with the special athletes.

A need has been identified by the group — to find additional coaches for both skiing and basketball. The group also needs to enlist the help of more volunteers to work with the program. Plans will also be discussed for attracting more athletes to participate in the games.

The meeting will also focus on setting goals for the year 2000. Anyone in the community who would like to attend or get more information on SOMD may call Garrett County coordinator Chad Brown at 301-895-3793.

Garrett County Outdoors

By Robert Yonke

DEER SEASON IS OPEN

When most people think hunting season, they are thinking about firearm deer season and Maryland's 1999-2000 season opened on Saturday, Nov. 27, for Maryland's estimated 78,000 firearm deer hunters.

In the 1998-99 season Maryland hunters harvested 41,073 deer. This was a record year with 19,256 antlered deer and 21,781 antlerless deer taken. The 10 leading 1998 firearm deer harvest counties were: Frederick (3,703), Washington (3,157), Allegany (2,997), Garrett (2,826), Dorchester (2,528), Worcester (2,193), Kent (1,963), Charles (1,954), Carroll (1,797), and Queen Anne's (1,797).

This season has opened with a bang. Jack Faulkner reported that, early Saturday afternoon, The Butcher Block on Rt. 135 was stacked high with deer to be processed. We heard that one of those deer belonged to Dan Milavec, proprietor of D&B Sport Shop, who got his buck early Saturday morning in the Bethlehem area. Congratulations, Danny!

Other hunters successful on opening day include: Gary Whitacre, who got a 7-point buck on North Hill; Bill Thomas, with a 6-point from the Boiling Springs area; Stacy Martin, with an 8-point from near Deer Park; Curt Tasker, with a 4-point from Potomac Camp Road; Chris Tasker, with an 8-point from the same area; John Beachy, with a 6-point from the Nine Springs area; and Joey Schroyer, with a 7- point from Friendsville.

Father and son, Rodney and Brad King, are to be commended for their teamwork in each bagging 4-point bucks near Friendsville. Congratulations are also due to Dan Wartring for a 3-pointer he took near Mt. Zion; Jim Brady for a 7-pointer taken near Kitzmiller; along with Dania Chapman for an 8-pointer from Kitzmiller; and Danny Evans Jr. with an 8-pointer from Kitzmiller. John Evans and Wayne Evans took a 9-point and 8-point respectively from Kitzmiller, and Robbie Elliott got a 6-pointer from near the same area. Jim Lohr took a 5-pointer near Swanton.

Maryland deer hunters have four separate bag limits for the four Deer Management Regions. The number of deer that a firearm hunter can take in one region will not affect the hunter's bag limit in other regions during the two-week firearm deer season (Nov. 27 through Dec. 11). In Region A, which includes Garrett County, firearm deer hunters may take one antlered deer. A second white-tailed deer may be taken using either a Bonus Deer Stamp or a Bonus Antlerless Deer Stamp. Hunters who purchase a Bonus Deer Stamp ($5 for residents, $25 for nonresidents) may take a second antlered deer. Hunters who were selected for a Bonus Antlerless Deer Stamp may take an antlerless deer on Dec. 10 or Dec. 11. The combined total firearm season bag limit for Region A is two deer.

MARYLAND FARMERS AND HUNTERS DONATE VENISON

With the opening of Maryland's Deer Firearms Season on November 27, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources encourages hunters and non-hunting citizens alike to support Farmers and Hunters Feeding the Hungry (FHFH), a nonprofit organization that transforms Maryland's overpopulation of white-tailed deer into a renewable food source for the hungry. Working with area meat processors, food banks, and service providers, hunters and farmers are donating excess venison to help feed those in need. Since its inception in 1997, more than 67 tons of venison has been processed, providing 536,000 meals for those in need.

Through monetary donations, FHFH pays processors to prepare donated venison for distribution through local service providers and ministries. Hunters have supported FHFH by voluntarily donating between $1 and $5 when they apply for their Maryland hunting license.

SUCCESSFUL YOUTH HUNTERS

Since our last writing we have been alerted to more young hunters who were successful in the recent special youth hunt. Congratulations to Joshua Custer, who took an 8-point buck in the Deer Park area; Tony Sines, for his doe, also taken near Deer Park; Sarah Pysell, for a 5-pointer from the Swallow Falls area; Danielle Harvey, for a doe from Kitzmiller; Tommy Martin, for a 4-pointer from Deer Park; and William Lyons, for a 9-pointer tagged near Kitzmiller. Billy Whitacre and Derrick Tasker both got deer in the Thousand Acres area. Billy took a button buck and Derrick got a big doe.

SAD NEWS FROM THE ANGLING COMMUNITY

As the 1999 fishing season winds down, the Maryland sportfishing community was shocked and saddened by the news that one of its best-known and well-respected members had suddenly passed away. Maryland BASS Federation president Butch Ward died early last Tuesday morning (November 23) in a hospital near his home. Butch was one of Maryland's most accomplished and respected bass fishermen, and a life-long leader in black bass conservation in the state.

FISHING REPORT

Even with the onset of colder weather and some preoccupation with deer hunting, there are still fishermen working area trout streams. Wet fly action has been reported on all of our major trout fisheries.

TOY STORY 2

Rated G - Running Time: 1:32 - Released 11/24/99

Back in 1995, Toy Story introduced us to Sheriff Woody, an old time cowboy, Buzz Lightyear, a state-of-the-art spaceman, and a host of other personable playthings who lived in the bedroom of a boy named Andy. But more importantly, it introduced us to Pixar, the computer-animation company that is revolutionizing the industry. Pixar had been producing animated shorts since the early '80s, but Toy Story, distributed through Walt Disney Pictures, marked the first ever feature-length film produced completely on the computer. But this film was not only distinctive because it was an important milestone in the history of geeks. It was also just an excellent movie. It had an action-packed story, a sparkling script, hilarious characterizations by a star-studded cast, and an excellent musical score by Randy Newman. After its wild success (about $500 mil and counting), Pixar/Disney turned out A Bug's Life, also fabulously effective.

Now comes Toy Story 2, with the same creative team, the same actors (plus a few additions), and, amazingly, the same standards for excellence. Seldom has there been such a brilliant sequel to such a brilliant predecessor. Toy Story 2 is crammed full of fun and excitement from the first second to the last, with the crisp animation we have come to enjoy from Pixar, incredibly lifelike detail that perhaps even surpasses the original, and absolutely no diminishment of script or cast performance. Directors Ash Brannon and John Lasseter, who also wrote the film with the help of Peter Docter and several others, should be proud to produce such high-quality entertainment in a bloated industry that regularly settles for mediocrity.

In the latest saga of Andy's toys, Woody (voice of Tom Hanks), through a yard sale-related accident, falls into the opportunistic hands of Al the toy salesman (Wayne Knight) and winds up on the 23rd floor of an office building, waiting to be shipped to a toy museum in Japan. You see, Al knows that Woody is a collector's item — finding him means completing his set of priceless vintage dolls from the popular "Woody's Round-Up" TV show of the '50s. So Woody finds himself in the company of Jessie the cowgirl (Joan Cusack), Stinky Pete the prospector (Kelsey Grammer), and, of course, his own faithful steed, Bullseye. They inform him of his previous stardom, showing off Al's vast collection of Woody lunch boxes, records, posters, and even videos of the old show. Woody is awestruck. Not to mention starstruck.

Meanwhile, Buzz (Tim Allen) knows he must save his friend at all costs, so he embarks on a mission to Al's Toy Barn, taking along Mr. Potato Head (Don Rickles), Hamm the piggy bank (John Ratzenberger), Slinky Dog (Jim Varney), and Rex the timid Tyrannosaurus (Wallace Shawn). They go on a hilarious, action-packed journey, encountering other toys like Barbie (The Little Mermaid's Jodi Benson), the evil Emperor Zurg (Andrew Stanton), and even another Buzz Lightyear (also Allen).

This film is one of the most enjoyable I have seen in ages. The detail of the animation is impeccable; every moment is dripping with characterization. The script is a riot, making many humerous asides to grownups, and even some that the kids can get. Hanks and Allen are once again stupendous in their vocal characterizations, and the rest of the cast members support them impeccably with the many great lines and situations in the effervescent text.

On hand again is composer Newman, but he doesn't warble his own tunes this time, leaving it instead to other artists like Riders In The Sky ("Woody's Roundup"), Robert Goulet ("You've Got A Friend In Me"), and Sarah McLachlan ("When She Loved Me"). The latter selection, the one moment of the film where the pace slows for a few minutes, is a heart-wrenching piece written from the perspective of a toy which has been forgotten by its beloved owner. Newman's music and lyrics are deeply touching, and McLachlan's delivery haunting. This moment provides a perfect counterpoint to the otherwise hilarious and fast-paced experience.

Of course, there's no question that one of the objectives of Toy Story was to create a market for Buzz and Woody merchandise, which was manufactured in perfect sychronization with the film's release. But that film, and now its sequel, have proven that commercialism doesn't have to be a soulless endeavor. Unlike so many kids' movies made to boost toy sales (Pik--Pik--Pikachu! — excuse me), Toy Story actually makes us want to shell out the dough for the dolls. ★★★★★

THE OMEGA CODE

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:39 - Released 10/15/99

Casper Van Dien, who starred in the abysmal Starship Troopers and more recently had a small part in Sleepy Hollow, has proven again that he does not have what it takes to be a leading man. Van Dien is so howlingly bad in The Omega Code that he alone would be a reason to avoid it, but there's soooooo much more. The script, by the freshman team of Stephan Blinn and Hollis Barton, is not only preposterous in concept but badly executed from a dialogue standpoint. The film is sometimes visually interesting (thanks mainly to the cinematography of Carlos González), but Robert Marcarelli's directing lacks any insight into human behavior. Even Michael York, a seasoned actor with many distinguished credits to his name, can't make this film look good. The script is so bad he can't possibly behave in a convincing manner. So he doesn't even try.

The Omega Code involves the theory that criss-crossed throughout the ancient Hebrew text of the Torah are numerous codified predictions about the future. If one looks closely, one can decode cryptic messages by aligning certain characters, or skipping by regular intervals, or by viewing the text backwards, or whatever. Kinda like how "Lucy in the Sky with Diamonds" is supposed to stand for LSD. People have worked for centuries to unravel this complex code and thereby gain knowledge of what exit to take when the world ends.

Van Dien plays Dr. Gillen Lane, a famous motivational guru who is supposed to be an authority on the subject. Lane is spotted by Stone Alexander (York), a wealthy, ambitious despot who has a bank of computers working full tilt to crack the code, and occasionally finding messages like "Hitler is a fink" and "Be sure to drink your Ovaltine." Although Alexander really wants to ruie the world like any good villain would, he engages in regular showings of outward humility and charity, and gains worldwide goodwill by posing as a philanthropist. He summons Lane to his side and offers him a position as his right-hand man, and Lane, who can never refuse a chance to get more press coverage and get away from his bitchy wife (Devon Odessa), agrees.

As they begin a world tour to promote worldwide religious unity (and to promote Alexander as its leader), they are confounded by two nameless prophets (Jan Triska and Gregory Wagrowski) who make their own predictions, like "Christ good — Alexander bad." Soon Lane must decide whether to stick with his crazy new friend and ride his coattails right to the top, or turn against him and save the world as we know it. Also present are Michael Ironside as Alexander's number one goon, and Catherine Oxenberg (whom Van Dien apparently married during production) as the Mystery Woman.

The story is dumb. The actors are dumb. Even the special effects are dumb. But not half as dumb as you'll feel if you pay to get in. ★½

END OF DAYS

Rated R - Running Time: 2:00 - Released 11/24/99

You know, if I were in a dark alley encountering a gang of street thugs, I would love to have Arnold Schwarzenegger on my side, but I don't know if I can buy him as the savior of all mankind. In End Of Days, Arnold plays the only man who is able to save us all from the absolute power of Satan. As long as he has enough bullets. With director Peter Hyams (2010, The Relic) at the helm, and such able actors as Gabriel Byrne and Rod Steiger in supporting roles, I was almost persuaded. But the leading roles are filled by Schwarzenegger and Robin Tunney, and they are not quite so able. Also, Andrew W. Marlowe's script reminds me of The Matrix; it's an interesting concept with cool effects and some decent acting, but relies too heavily on sophomoric, shoot-em-up action formulas for its own good.

It is late December, the end of the millennium. There are only a few days left until New Year's 2000, and New York City is preparing to party like it's 1999. Christine York (Tunney) is unaware that she was chosen at birth to be the bearer of Satan's offspring; she is aware, however, that she has been seeing visions of Gabriel Byrne for ages. Byrne plays the body Satan chooses to use for his desperate act (she could do worse), so throughout the story, his body is pursuing hers, because he must do the deed between 11 p.m. and midnight on New Year's Eve. Talk about pressure to perform.

Arnold plays Jericho Cane (get it?), a high-priced bodyguard and former cop who is struggling with alcoholism after the murders of his wife and daughter. He stumbles upon Christine's case when he takes a bullet to the chest that was meant for Byrne's body (I'm gonna call him Bb from now on). With the aid of his partner (Kevin Pollak), Jericho finds a group of Roman Catholic priests who are aware of Satan's plan and are trying to foil it by killing half of the unhappy couple. Of course, it ain't easy to kill Satan, so they're focusing on the girl. But these guys are really just a fringe element; the pope's official position is that they shouldn't kill Christine, but simply pray and have faith (a predictable stance). Father Kovak (Steiger) is of this opinion; he doesn't want to harm the girl, just hide her from Bb. But Jericho, who doesn't believe in God, knows that this is a lame plan, that Bb will find her eventually, and that priests don't usually carry guns. And guns, not God, are what you need when you're up against the devil. That or a fiddle.

The end of the millennium has predictably given rise to various doomsday movements all over the world, in the movies as well as real life. People just can't resist seeing symbolism in all those zeroes. But it seems that a Biblical conflict scenario like this would be better suited to a more intelligent treatment in the script than a commando action figure unloading his machine gun at the devil. The sub-plot about the girl being sacrificed fit the theme, but Arnold getting in fistfights with Byrne just hamstrings the ol' believability factor. Thank goodness for Steiger; he lends credibility to every scene he's a part of. Too bad he's not on screen more than a few minutes. Gabriel Byrne is enjoyably accessible as Satan — there's no stone throne or lake of fire for him; he's just a regular guy with a New York accent, trying to convince Arnold to do the wrong thing. And he makes a pretty darn good case, especially when Arnold is hanging by his fingernails from the windowsill of his high-rise apartment building. But Schwarzenegger lacks the emotional range for this part, and Tunney also struggles to convince. ★★★½

Grantsville Community Choir Cantata To Be Sung In Spruce Forest Church

Grantsville Community Choir, under the direction of Gloria Martin and including members from 12 churches in the Grantsville and Salisbury areas, is set to perform in the 1903 Village Church of Spruce Forest this Friday, Dec. 3, at 7:30 p.m.

This concert, which will offer music of the holiday season, will be held in conjunction with the 14th annual Christmas in the Village, scheduled for both Friday and Saturday.

The choir performance of "Love, Life, and Light" by Mosie Lister will feature the vocal artistry of soloists David Rawe, Sharon Kamp, Melissa Tucker, Carol Humberson, Erin Resh and Sue Beachy, accompanied by pianist Gale Ringer. Pastor Brenda Shreve will narrate.

There is no admission charge to the concert, and seating is limited to 80 persons. "This former Pleasant Valley Methodist Church, which has recently undergone major restoration work, is heated and cozy for those who plan to attend the cantata," noted village administrator Trish Morgan.

Other highlights of Christmas in the Village include holiday music and decorations, cookie art for children in the 1825 Compton School, fireside storytelling in the 1835 Miller House, complimentary refreshments, holiday shopping in authentic and heated log cabins with artisans at work, People's Choice voting for favorite artisans' studios, and door prizes.

"One of our visitors' favorite activities is the live nativity that will be held both evenings at 6:30 outside amidst the 75-year-old spruce forest and folks who venture to the village after dusk will find hundreds and hundreds of candlelights throughout the pathways."

Artisans who will offer their old-time craftsmanship during the festival are potter Lynn Lais, weaver Ann Jones, slate painter Peggy Nixon, teddy bear artist and herb specialist Connie Stark, basket weaver and spinner Meriam Brode, soap maker John Daugherty, stain glass artists Jim and Mary Ann Cummings, and blacksmith Jody Best.

Christmas in the Village will be open Friday, Dec. 3 from 4 to 9 p.m. and on Saturday, Dec. 4, from noon to 9 p.m. Admission is free, although donations of one dollar per adult are appreciated to help offset the festival expenses. The event is sponsored in part by the Maryland State and Garrett County arts councils and is presented by the nonprofit Spruce Forest Artisan Village.

Youth-Oriented Meetings Set At Discovery Center

Garrett's Promise — An Alliance for Youth, in conjunction with the Garrett Youth Council, have slated a pair of community-wide discussion meetings for this Sunday, Dec. 5, to discuss issues pertaining to the well-being of the county's youth. The meetings, which will take place at the Discovery Center at Deep Creek Lake State Park, are open for local residents of all ages to attend.

The first meeting, slated for 1 p.m., will feature a presentation by guest speaker Harold W. Bolinger, president of Cumberland-based Freestyle Country Clubs Inc. Bolinger's organization proposes to establish a for-profit multi-sport recreation complex for Garrett County's youth with the assistance of willing local businesses and other civic-minded organizations.

The results of that first meeting will be presented and discussed during the second meeting, set to begin at 3 p.m., which will entail the regular meeting of the Garrett Youth Council (GYC). Parents and children are encouraged to attend this session, organizers Crystal Shaffer and Sue Newton said. This GYC meeting will include a discussion of other "creative ways to provide fulfilling activities and recreation for Garrett County youth," a press release stated.

"Too often, young people in the county 'looking for stuff to do' cite a lack of activities as a primary reason for disproportionately high statistics Garrett has for teen pregnancy, smoking, alcohol and drug use, and other behaviors which are detrimental to their futures," the release stated.

service last Tuesday evening, Barbara Rexroad was honored by the local congregation. She was given a gift from the church to show appreciation for her faithful service and work. A member of Otterbein since childhood, Barbara was "willing to do any task that needed to be done," according to a church spokesman.

In June, Barbara accepted an appointment as assistant pastor to three churches in the Keyser area.

Love boxes were filled with "goodies" on Saturday and sent to Swanton college students. The church has done this for a number of years.

The South Garrett Parish is sponsoring Don Stephens in a Christian concert at the Garrett Community College auditorium, McHenry, at 7 p.m. this Saturday, Dec. 4. There is no admission charge, but a free-will offering will be received.

The annual Christmas dinner will be Sunday, Dec. 12, following the 11 a.m. worship service.

Oakland's Fresh Air Christmas Set Tomorrow

The plans are finalized for this year's Fresh Air Christmas in Oakland, scheduled for Friday, Dec. 3, beginning at 4 p.m. downtown. Music, food, and a book-signing event are among the activities of the evening.

Local merchants will be offering door prizes and seasonal specials, as well as hot chocolate, apple cider, and holiday foods. The model train display of Walter Atwill, located in a storefront window on the corner of Second and Green streets, will also be featured.

Homemade vegetable soup, chili, and chicken noodle soup, as well as coffee and hot chocolate, will all be provided by the Creation School of Dance and Gymnastics, according to Glenn Tolbert, Main Street program manager.

Holiday music will be provided by the Southern Garrett Marching Band and the Southern High School Chorus, both under the direction of Richard Clever. Also featured will be the Southern Hand Bell Choir, under the direction of Marjorie Clever.

A double Christmas tree lighting will take place right after dark, with the Oakland Christmas tree in the "pocket park," located along Second Street, lighted simultaneously with the 110-foot Norway spruce in front of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church.

Santa Claus is slated to make his annual visit, and will be seated at the pocket park, prepared to discuss wish lists with any children interested in putting in requests.

A book-signing event, featuring local artist Mark Stutzman, will take place at the Book Mark'et and Antique Mezzanine, beginning at 6 p.m. The signing is in part a reception to thank the young models featured on the covers of a new series of paperbacks for children.

For more information about this year's Fresh Air Christmas, persons may call either the Oakland Town Hall at 301-334-2691 or the Oakland Main Street office at 301-533-4470.

CONTRIBUTING TO BRAILLE PROJECT - At the recent Deep Creek Lake Lioness meeting at the Red Run Restaurant, the club made a donation to Carl Haenftling of the Lutheran Braille Workshop to assist with purchasing supplies for the volunteers who work at Zion Lutheran Church in Accident. Haenftling, as the guest speaker, told the club members about the workshop's project of assembling the books of the Bible in Braille. In the photo from left are Theresa Haenftling, Carl Haenftling, and club president M. Sue Shockey, who is presenting the donation.

Funds Awarded To GCCAC For Emergency Needs

The Garrett County Community Action Committee has been awarded $25,129 from the Federal Emergency Management Agency to supplement emergency food, heat, and shelter programs in the county.

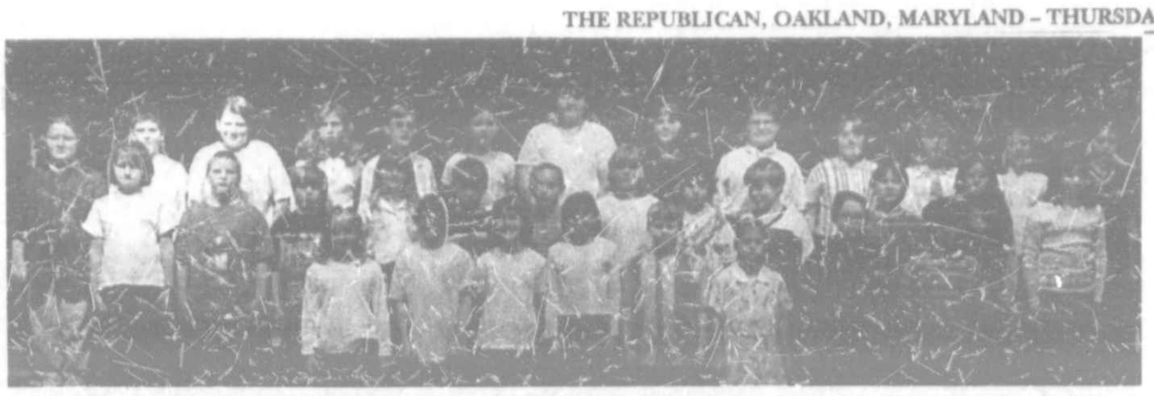
Persons interested in obtaining information on how the funds can assist them are encouraged to contact GCCAC's Office of Community and Emergency Services by tomorrow, Friday, Dec. 3. Interested persons may contact Linda Green, director of Community and Emergency Services, at 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403. Applicants for assistance will be required to complete a budget and provide proof of gross household income.

Garrett County was selected as a grant recipient by a national board chaired by FEMA officials. The national board included representatives from the Salvation Army, American Red Cross, Council of Jewish Federations, Catholic Charities, and the Garrett County Department of Social Services, as well as a former homeless person. Local representatives of each of those organizations will assist Community Action in determining how the funds awarded to the county will be allocated to individual households.

Taxpayers Due Refunds Sought By IRS, State

The Internal Revenue Service and the Maryland State Comptroller's Office are teaming up once again to locate area residents who are due tax refunds from their 1998 and prior year federal and state income tax returns.

According to John J. Jennings, IRS district director for Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia, 1,777 federal refund checks totaling over $1 million were returned by the postal service marked "Undeliverable." The check amounts range from a low of $1 to a high of $21,880, with an average unclaimed federal refund of about $600.



Maryland State Comptroller William Donald Schaefer noted that his office has 1,591 state refund checks, totaling $385,401, which were returned by the postal service marked "Undeliverable."

"These range from a low of $1 to a high of $5,329," said Schaefer, "with the average unclaimed Maryland state refund amounting to about $242."

Jennings said, "These taxpayers may have died, moved, or changed their last names during the year and the IRS or the state of Maryland were not notified, or the address on their tax returns may simply have been illegible. Choosing to have your tax refund deposited directly to your checking or savings account is the best way to ensure that your money is delivered quickly and to guard against loss or theft from a mailbox." Last year, 23.5 million taxpayers nationwide chose the "direct-deposit" option by filling in just two extra lines on their federal tax returns.

"It's important that this money gets back to the taxpayers and then back into our economy as soon as possible," Schaefer added.

Anyone who is expecting a 1998 or prior year federal refund check, and who has not already contacted the IRS, should call 1-800-829-1040. For Maryland state refund inquiries, taxpayers should call 410-260-7980 in central Maryland, or 1-800-MD-TAXES toll free from elsewhere. Maryland taxpayers can also check out the comptroller's web site at www.marylandtaxes.com to see if they are due a federal or Maryland state prior year undeliverable refund.

Faith Church To Host Variety Of Holiday Events

The Rev. David R. Martin, pastor of Faith Evangelical Free Church, announces several activities being scheduled for the Christmas season during the month of December. "We are very excited that we can share the joy of the Christmas season with our neighbors and community," Rev. Martin said.

All worship services in December are scheduled for Sundays at 10:45 a.m., and will pertain to Joseph, Jesus' earthly father at the time of his birth.

The church will also host Garrett Choral Society's presentation of "The Joy of Christmas" on December 10 and 11 at 7:30 p.m. and again on December 12 at 2 p.m. Tickets are available at Englander's Pharmacy for $5 each. Children 12 and under will be admitted free.

On Sunday, Dec. 12, at 6 p.m., Faith will hold its annual church dinner at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. "We will also be having our annual Christmas presentation, 'Christmas on the Air,' which will include a children's program, a youth program, and an instrumental ensemble, to be held Sunday, Dec. 19, at 7 p.m.," Rev. Martin said. "We will conclude the season with a Christmas Eve candlelight service on Sunday, Dec. 24, at 7 p.m.

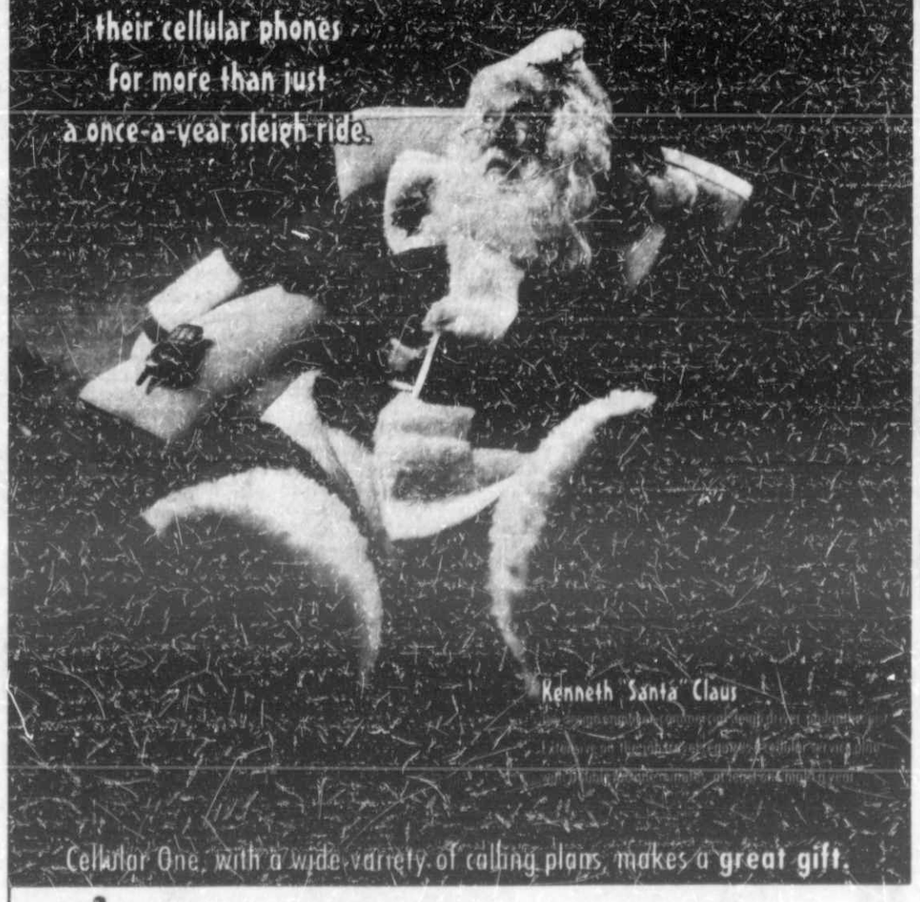
Horse Liniment Eases Arthritis Pain

OCALA, FL -- An ingredient derived from hot peppers that decreases inflammation in racehorse's legs, is now recognized as safe and effective for human use. The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx™ and comes in a strength designed for humans. Researchers are excited and say the formula can relieve arthritis pain for millions.

Developed by the Phillips Gulf Corporation, ARTH-Rx is a breakthrough in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, tendonitis, backache and more.

Although the mechanism by which ARTH-Rx works to relieve pain is not totally clear, scientists suggest that pain is relieved because ARTH-Rx intercepts the messenger substance that sends pain signals to the brain.



ARTH-Rx is available in a convenient roll-on applicator without a prescription. According to a spokesperson for the company, due to the overwhelming demand for ARTH-Rx, supplies are sometimes limited. ARTH-Rx can also be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8446.® 1999 PGC

The Coming of the Light

The beginning of the season of Advent brings with it many symbols. Among these are candles, wreaths, and light.

As the first Advent candle is lit, we begin to see other symbols of the coming of the Christ-Child into a dark world. A tree is lit here, a candle in the window there. Every day of every week of the advent season there is more light that meets the darkness. We climb into the car and make the annual pilgrimage of the viewing of the lights just as the shepherds and wisemen followed the star of Bethlehem in the dark sky, stopping where the Holy Child lay in a manger.

Jesus tells us in John 9:5..."As long as I am in the world, I am the Light of the world." Jesus is in the world as long as He shines in the hearts of His children. As you visit God's house this Advent season, won't you ask the light of His Son into your heart?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

IS ABRAHAM ENOUGH?

December 5, 1999

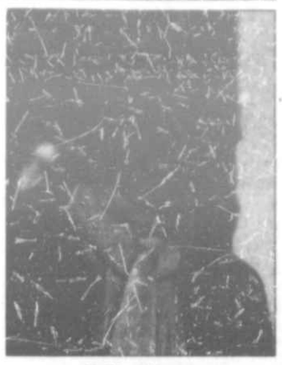
Background Scripture:
Matthew 3
Devotional Reading:
Matthew 21:23-27

I have had more than one friend or acquittance tell me that the thing that turns them off from Christianity is the call to repentance. "It's demeaning" one told me. "I would rather focus on the God's image within me," said another. I can appreciate that their early experiences of Christianity were heavily weighted on the side of sin, guilt and repentance. Teaching and preaching that only emphasizes human depravity, I believe, presents a very one-sided gospel.

At the same time, to believe that human nature is essentially good with just an occasional mistake or failing is also woefully one-sided as well. My seminary professor, Reinhold Niebuhr said that "Few things are worthless as those for which people have not felt a need. This is particularly true of mercy: when we know we are in need of it, nothing is more precious; when we do not know we are in need of it, the offer of it may appear as the worst kind of insult." Many people do feel insulted by the call to repent. The very fact that they do not know they need to repent is proof of their need. It was Neibuhr who said, "...not much evil is done by evil men...most of the evil is done by good people who do not know that they are not good."

Everybody?

The story of Jesus begins with John their Baptist's clarion call: "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand" Does that mean everybody? Yes, everybody. Without acknowledgment of our imperfection, our self-centeredness, our failures, we cannot enter the kingdom of heaven. Only the redeemed can enter and only those who repent can be redeemed. No one enters the kingdom because he or she qualifies; it is always a matter of grace.



This, however, does not mean that we are to be obsessed with our sins. Christianity offers the perfect way to be rid of sins: recognize, confess and accept forgiveness. Then get on with your life, leaving behind all the stains and regrets that rob life of its vitality. Unfortunately, some would make a transaction out of this process: I sin, I say I repent, God forgives and I start over again. But John says that the repentance cannot be a ritual or device—it must be real. John warned the Pharisees and Sadducees: "Bear fruit that befits repentance" (3:8). Repentance that doesn't bear fruit, that does not issue in a better life is not repentance. Going through the motions is not enough.

Jesus would adopt this same rule-of-thumb. In Matthew 7:20 he says, "By their fruits you shall know them." In John 15:16, he says

Home pros offer tips for holiday decorations

By Jacqueline Cutler
©TVData Features Syndicate

Katie Brown

Hoisting a plastic Rudolph onto the roof, even if it boasts a light-up nose, just won't cut it anymore in sprucing up the house for the holidays.

To help us deck the halls with wow and folly, TV's home mavens offer a preview of what they'll teach on their shows.

The reigning queen of domesticity, Martha Stewart, says her big Christmas project is a tree with 42,000 lights. Do most people have the time (and money) to decorate a tree to this extent? "Well, they can certainly do less than 42,000," she says.

Martha Stewart's Home for the Holidays – The Family Tree airs Wednesday, Dec. 8, on CBS and features, among other special guests, Aretha Franklin.

Stewart plans to show viewers how to make snow globes, explaining that "a tiny bit of glycerin and baby-food jars that are sealed with silicone glue works well." What to use for the ornaments? Stewart suggests "your little collections, like horses or plastic figurines, and you could make one out of old charm bracelets."

She also suggests decorating with cookies, maintaining that "bugs don't eat gingerbread. Gingerbread can stay forever."

The host of The Christopher Lowell Show on Discovery Channel also suggests decorating with dough; he plans to create spiral ornaments using bread dough that has been wrapped around cylinderlike "cream horn cases." Also, he says, stringing penne pasta on lights creates "a gorgeous look" on the tree.

"One of the things I am really emphasizing this year is either do Christmas or don't; don't do junk," Lowell says, adding, "You know you will have to vacuum up the pine needles. Get over it!"

He continues, "Here's what happens historically: We start running out of time around the holidays, and we buy crap." He recommends buying some items new each year. "I don't care what you say; a packed bow never looks the same."

To entertain kids, Lowell recommends lining a wall of their rooms with brown paper and giving them art supplies to make a mural. And for the house, "natural garland draped over doorways with a big grosgrain bow in the center can turn any room into something spectacular."

Lifetime's special Next Door With Katie Brown: 12 Tips for Christmas, airing Wednesday, Dec. 15, focuses on "the mantel and the area above the mantel, and if you don't have a mantel, how to pretend you have one," Brown says.

Unlike her colleagues, Brown says, "You can use a fake wreath if you have to." She advises buying a smaller plastic-foam wreath to fit inside the larger one. Wrap the smaller one with greenery, then stick berries into it and connect the two with ribbon.

Brown advises those without mantels to buy slate steppingstones and build tiers with them inside the fireplace. "Let it look a bit jagged, and then just put some big, fat round candles on them." Those without fireplaces can put the slate steps on a table, she suggests.

"The most important thing," Brown says, "is no matter what you celebrate, just take the time and do something special."

Countdown 100 an uplifting look at 20th-century progress

By Jacqueline Cutler
©TVData Features Syndicate

Pit the achievements of any other historical period against those of the 20th century, and the latter wins.

It's not that people suddenly became flawless. Rather, one invention led to another, and each made life easier. Social movements brought about freedoms for oppressed people. And despite continued suffering, the plight of many was tremendously improved over the past century.

Such milestones are celebrated in the fun, fast-paced documentary Countdown 100: The Greatest Achievements of the 20th Century, premiering Sunday, Dec. 5, on The Learning Channel.

Lists are bombarding us, and it seems everyone is weighing in on whatever they can in the waning days of the millennium. But this film is different. For one, it's decidedly upbeat. And, it's educational while remaining entertaining, so kids will enjoy it, too. But be prepared to argue, because no two people could agree on the tabulation.

"My hope was it would spark greater interest in history for people, and in their lively debates, they would start thinking about some of these things that have changed our lives," says Arnold Shapiro, executive producer and creator of the documentary.

The idea came to him in 1997, and Shapiro says he was determined to "only include positive contributions. I wasn't going to include disasters and wars because if it is the greatest achievements, I wanted them to be positive and uplifting.

"I wanted us to be really proud of what we have accomplished this century," Shapiro adds. "You can ask the most uninformed person around and they will tell you all about the Holocaust and World War II because crime things and natural disasters stand out. But people forget about other things that changed our lives, like the credit cards and batteries."

Indeed, if time travel were possible, just imagine someone popping into a typical American home from 1899. Then, women's ensembles included whalebones that squashed their insides. Men endured three-piece suits with stiff collars even in the summer. Today, clothes are easy and comfortable (jeans and fashion are No. 87 in the countdown).

Without even delving into the cutting-edge technology, TLC highlights the many inventions taken for granted today that didn't exist 100 years ago, such as air conditioning (No. 67), wireless radio transmission (No. 50), aspirin tablets (No. 44), the first efficient light bulb (No. 45), radio (No. 18), television (No. 16) and the spread of telephones (No. 15).

We're not going to be spoilers and divulge the top 10 here, but what is lovely about this list is that it isn't weighted with only material matters. Social movements that have truly changed the world merit serious attention.

The documentary shows a good sense of humor in picking clips to illustrate ideas. Sean Connery as James Bond represents the sexual revolution (No. 94). For rock 'n' roll (No. 93), Elvis swivels. Some clips are surprising because of their rarity. The more famous images of Mahatma Gandhi wearing his trademark white loincloth and Sigmund Freud as a stern bearded man are accompanied by photos of them as young men.

Shapiro and his crew queried 16 historians and writers who were selected to ensure a mix of racial and ethnic viewpoints and disciplines. The participants were asked to rank 125 achievements and could remove things from or add things to the list.

The only achievement that was deleted that Shapiro believes made a huge impact was the creation of Alcoholics Anonymous and the other 12-step programs it encouraged.

The clips move by at a fast pace, and some are understandably longer than others. Nelson Mandela's becoming the first elected black president of South Africa (No. 57) is far more visual than the proliferation of global literature (No. 58).

And there are moments bound to make viewers mist. The Tiananmen Square resistance (No. 74) remains one of the most potent snapshots of man's determination to be free. It's chilling to watch the lone man trying to block the tanks and jumping in front of one as it tries to avoid him as the announcer says, "To this date, his identity and fate remain unknown."

Sometimes the achievements remind us how much easier we have it now. The invention of frozen food (No. 61) by Clarence Birdseye was a result of the fur trader working in the Arctic Circle and watching the Inuit flash-freeze fish. He experimented for a while, and his tinkering eventually led to the creation of General Foods Inc.

This new educational program will feature Chamber members sharing information in their areas of expertise with others. According to Ken Wishnick, executive director of the Chamber, it "makes for a great combination" of learning new ways to be successful in business and networking with other business people. BEST ARC CHAPTER - The Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross has been named the best large-sized chapter of the 1998-99 fiscal year by the 100-county ARC Blood Services, Greater Alleghenies Region. The chapter comprises Garrett, Allegany, and Mineral counties. Best ARC Chapter Award Presented To Western Md.

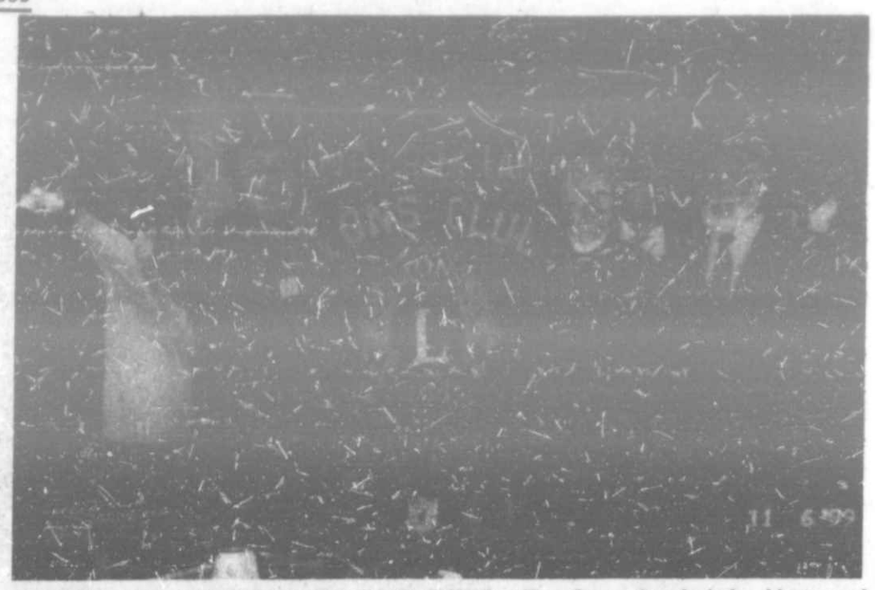
The Western Potomac Chapter, American Red Cross has been named the best large-sized chapter of the 1998-99 fiscal year by the 100-county American Red Cross Blood Services, Greater Alleghenies Region.



The Western Potomac Chapter was recognized among those regional units with an annual collection goal of more than 5,000 units of blood. Criteria for this honor include meeting the annual collection goal, operating efficiently, experiencing an increase in donations, and the amount of blood collected over holiday periods.

During the 1998-99 fiscal year, the chapter collected 6,433 units of blood, 108.12% of its annual goal. Its bloodmobiles operated at an overall 94.10% operational efficiency, meaning that the bloodmobiles achieved 94.10% of projected collections.

Nan Costa, former blood services coordinator, Western Potomac Chapter, accepted the award at a regional meeting held October 27 in Morgantown, W.Va.

Local residents and patients are among those served through American Red Cross Blood Services, Greater Alleghenies Region. The region directly serves hospitals, patients, and donors hospitals, patients and donors in a 100-county area in Kentucky, Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia, and also supports blood needs experienced by patients elsewhere in hospitals served through Red Cross Blood Services. The Western Potomac Chapter comprises Allegany, Garrett, and Mineral counties.

Bill Crawford, executive director, said that the Western Potomac Chapter is at work to meet its 1999-2000 collection goal of 7,724 units. "We thank all of those who support our efforts year-round to maintain an adequate, readily available blood supply. Because of you, blood products are there when patients need them. Please continue to give blood to help surgery patients, cancer patients, accident victims, and others who need blood, because there's still no substitute for blood donors to help save lives," he said.

Cellular Phones Now Available For Seniors' Use

In an effort to assure that senior citizens are able to access assistance in the event of an emergency, Garrett County Community Action Committee's Area Agency on Aging offers a service titled Senior Citizen Cellular Phone Program. Seniors traveling to a medical appointment, shopping, or vacationing will be able to obtain a loaner cellular telephone from the agency to use during the length of their trip. The cellular telephone is programmed allowing only 911 access. It will give seniors peace of mind to know that should they have a medical emergency or automotive problem while traveling they can immediately call for assistance.

With the winter weather and the holidays coming, the Area Agency on Aging encourages senior travelers to take advantage of this program. It will also provide seniors with a sense of security that they need when they are on the road.

Persons who would like to use one of the cellular phones should call Veronica Padmos at the Area Agency on Aging, 301-334-9432, or toll free , 301-888-8403, ext. 137.

Westvaco To Acquire Mebane Packaging Group

Westvaco Corporation announced this week a definitive agreement to acquire Mebane Packaging Group Inc., a leading supplier of packaging for pharmaceutical products and personal care items with more than $130 million in annual sales. Terms of the transaction were not disclosed. Subject to regulatory review, the sale is scheduled to close by the end of the calendar year.

"Increasing our participation in premium consumer packaging markets, particularly the pharmaceutical and personal care segments, is a prime strategic direction for us," said John A. Luke Jr., chairman and CEO. "Mebane is the leading domestic supplier to many major multinational companies in these market segments, which are particularly attractive because of their size and significant growth potential. Mebane will be an outstanding operational fit with our existing consumer packaging operations. We expect the acquisition to become accretive to our earnings within the second year of our ownership."

Luke said the decision to purchase Mebane is the latest action to result from Westvaco's strategic review process, which began earlier this year. In September, the company announced that it would reorganize its packaging-related businesses to create a single business unit called the Packaging Resources Group (PRG). The PRG provides an attractive platform to increase Westvaco's participation in worldwide packaging markets through internal growth and acquisitions. In October, Westvaco announced its intent to purchase Temple-Inland Inc.'s bleached paperboard mill in Evadale, Texas. That transaction is scheduled to close in December.

"Packaging markets in the United States and elsewhere in the world offer some of our most promising business opportunities," said Luke. "We already have industry-leading paperboard and converted packaging products. Mebane's current customer base does not overlap with our existing consumer packaging business. Furthermore, this acquisition presents us with excellent opportunities to leverage our existing research, product development, and manufacturing strengths, while offering the potential for synergies and cost savings."

Mebane, which is a privately held business headquartered in Mebane, N.C., employs about 900 people.

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

The need is great this year. In Garrett County, Maryland, needy children will go cold this winter without your help.

Just what is The Republican Newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND?

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND is neighbors helping neighbors. The Republican is asking readers to donate to the fund, and the proceeds are being used to buy new winter clothing for needy area children. There are no administrative fees; all the money donated is used to buy warm winter clothing.

How are needy children being identified?

A collaborative effort to identify needy children is under way between the Department of Social Services, Healthy Families, the Dove Center, and other organizations. We want to help families who are trying to make ends meet, but who are simply in need of a boost this year.

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

The staff at The Republican has recruited volunteers to serve as "shoppers" who accompany selected children and their parents on shopping trips. The kids are able to select their own coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, boots, or any other needed winter items. Any person or civic group interested in helping out is welcome to contact Mary McEwen at the newspaper, 301-334-3963.

How can I help?

Either sign up as a volunteer, or complete the coupon below and send it with a donation to the address on the coupon. (All checks should be made out to Warm the Children Fund.) All donations are tax deductible. Please make your donations before December 12, 1999. Those collected after December 12 will be saved for next year's campaign.

Antiques

Q. My father purchased a few antique clocks over the years and has left them to me. One is a brass and glass rectangular shelf clock, about 16 1/2 inches high, 9 inches wide, and 5 inches deep. There are plain brass columns at each corner, a single glass column at the center of each side and a curved glass door on the front. The brass decorative crown is fancy. On the face of the clock are the words "Manufactured by the Ansonia Clock Co., New York, United States of America." Can you help me determine age and value?

A. The Ansonia Clock Co. was founded in Derby, Conn., in 1850 by Anson G. Phelps, a wealthy New York importer. After two fires and corporate reorganizations, the company moved to Brooklyn, N.Y., in 1880. Your clock is called a "crystal regulator," and was probably made between 1905 and 1915. (The 1914 Ansonia catalog has 18 pages of crystal regulators.) It was a popular clock style in 19th-century France. If your clock works, it is worth more than $3,000.

Q. Five years ago, my mother-in-law gave me a bridal shower gift of 21 coin silver teaspoons and serving spoons. She paid only 10 cents for each spoon. She says they are all English and date before 1850. I like the spoons but can't identify their marks. The marks include "N. Matson," "A. Henderson" and "W.P.&H. Stanton." Some of the spoons have additional small hallmarks of a lion, star and single initials.

A. Your mother-in-law was a great shopper, but your spoons are American. Newell Matson and his partners worked as N. Matson & Co. in Chicago from about 1867 to 1888. A.A. Henderson worked in Philadelphia in the mid-1830s. William P. and Henry Stanton worked in Rochester, N.Y., from about 1826 to 1841. Some 19th-century American silversmiths also used pseudo hallmarks to make the public think the silver was English. The letter mark "D" indicates the amount of silver (900/1000) in the metal used to make the spoons.

Home Tips

CHARITABLE GIVING – When you have some clothes to give away, a good idea might be to go and leave them at a nursing home, as some residents don't have any family to buy some for them. Or, if there are already family members there, when they pass away, leave them for some other resident. It's an act of kindness that would be greatly appreciated. Linda S., Huntsville, Ala.

EMERGENCY! – I have a tip for college students. Every student should make out an emergency sheet to be kept in his/her room or apartment where it is easily accessible to his or her roommates. The emergency information would include the student's name, college address, and phone, home address and phone, blood type, drug allergies, current medications, insurance company, family doctor and whom to notify in the event of an emergency.

There are times when a student has to use health facilities other than the college health services. This could save a lot of time for the roommates, especially in case of an accident. Rita K., Montezuma, Ind.

Household Help
by John Amantea

Q. My bathroom has the conventional two-handled tub and shower faucets. I need to replace the old tub spout with a new flexible shower adapter. This change is necessary for an elderly relative who has to sit in the bathtub with a shower chair. Can you tell me how to do this?

A. Begin by checking underneath the tub spout for an allen head threaded machine bolt. Use the correct allen key wrench to remove the spout. If there isn't any bolt in place, insert a large, slotted screwdriver in the spout's opening and turn counterclockwise until it comes off the threads.

Upon purchasing your new spout, be sure to get one with an adapter hose outlet. When you install your new spout, use either a shop rag or small piece of rubber with the pipe wrench. Pipe joint compound is recommended over using Teflon tape on the threads of the spout pipe.

The next items you'll need are the flexible shower hose (if not with the new spout), stainless steel or chrome wand holder, and plastic anchors. Install the flexible shower hose to the adapter hose outlet on the spout with an adjustable wrench. Next, you need to determine the desired height to install the shower head. With the shower head holder in hand, mark the holes on the wall tile. You should use a specific bit to drill the holes in ceramic tile. Install the plastic anchors into the holes and use only a rubber or wooden mallet. Finally, secure the shower head holder to the wall and always use caution not to slam the shower head when hanging it up.

WINTER TIPS

 Use sodium chloride to melt ice and snow on your concrete walks and driveways.

 Try to remove as much snow as possible from your gutter to prevent ice damming.

* Remove any hanging tree limbs or branches which may cause damage to your home's exterior.

 Occasionally check in on your elderly neighbors who may be alone during the long, cold winter months.

Emergency Service Blanket Collection Called A Success

The 1999 blanket collection drive, sponsored by the Emergency Services Department of Garrett County Community Action resulted in a positive response from the community, according to the coordinator, AmeriCorps member Virginia Fike. "The blanket drive was great. I collected 130 blankets," Fike said.

Donations of new blankets, quilts, and afghans were made by residents around the county. Churches and businesses provided space for drop-off/collection baskets. "We really want to express our appreciation to the individuals who helped to make this blanket drive a success and say a special thank you to all the churches and businesses that helped out by acting as drop-off sites," Fike stated.

The blankets collected will be available at Community Action for county residents who experience a heating emergency during the winter months. For more information on the emergency blanket program, persons may call 301-334-9431 or 888-877-8403.

Blood Drive At Legion Exceeds November Goals

The American Red Cross, Western Potomac Chapter, held a bloodmobile at the Oakland American Legion on November 12. The results of the drive surpassed expectations, according to a spokesman for the chapter. "Thanks to all of the donors and volunteers, the results were outstanding and exceeded our goal," he said.

Bloodmobile coordinators Elizabeth Huxford and Shirley Panther and the donors were congratulated for the success of the November blood drive. "Because of you our goal was met," the spokesman said.

To donate blood, individuals must be 17 years of age, weigh a minimum of 105 pounds, and be in generally good health. Donors can safely donate every 56 days.

The next bloodmobile scheduled in Garrett County will be at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, Friday, Dec. 3, between the hours of 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Questions about the American Red Cross blood services programs may be directed to Kim Gulck, blood services director, Western Potomac Chapter, at 301-722-1760 or Suzan Clemens, donor resources, Morgantown Region, at 1-800-54-BLOOD.

Green Selected Legionnaire Of Year For 1999

Jeffrey L. Green was recently selected as Legionnaire of the Year 1999 for American Legion Post 214, Grantsville. An award for earning this honor was presented to Green during the post's Veterans Day banquet.

Members of the post selected Green, who has served as post commander and has been recognized in the past for various achievements as a Legion member and a citizen.

A Garrett County native, Green graduated from Northern High School in 1985 and entered the U.S. Air Force on a delayed enlistment signed in 1984. He completed training as a law enforcement specialist in 1985 and was assigned to an air base in Spain, where his duties included serving in K-9, patrol, and armor units. While stationed in Europe, Green was recognized as Airman of the Quarter and received numerous squadron citations.

Green's second duty assignment took him to Andrew Air Force Base near Washington, D.C., where he was on special assignment with presidential security, working jointly with the U.S. State Department and the U.S. Secret Service Agency.

Returning to Garrett County following an honorable discharge, Green was hired by the Garrett County's Sheriff' Office in 1990. He had completed training at the Western Maryland Police Academy in Hagerstown, graduating in the top 5 percent of his class. He pursued further training in advanced accident investigation and collision reconstruction, graduating from both courses in the top 5 percent of the class.

Green's name is added to the list of Post 214 Legionnaires of the Year, which includes Charles C. Bender, Roger C. Resh, Paul L. Durst, William T. Frickey, William D. Sipple, Ivan E. Miller, and Matthew B. Stieringer Sr.

New Web Site For Community Action Developed

Garrett County Community Action Inc. has a new web site, and Duane Yoder, president, invites residents to "check out our new look at the URL address www.cac.garrett.co.md.us and view relevant agency information and contacts to make using our services easier."

The web pages were developed as a project with the Western Maryland Regional Internet Lab of Frostburg State University and a grant from the Regional Education Services Agency, partially funded by the Appalachian Regional Commission. The web pages are being hosted at GCNet, McHenry, where staff provide support and assistance.

Project manager and programmer for the web page was Julian Winter, who is attending Frostburg after graduating from Northern High School. Graphic design for the site was provided by Brian Himmler and Jessica Jones. The Western Maryland Regional Internet Lab is under the direction of Charles Teets, former Garrett County Board of Education member and a Garrett County resident. Community Action staff persons Lynda Weeks, Dawn Eichorn, Bonnie Sines, Tina Sumpter, and Julie Feather attended training at Frostburg on updating the web site.

The web site features the major departments of Community Action as hyperlinks: Corporate, Area Agency on Aging, Community Services, Child Development, Housing, Transportation, Community and Economic Development, and News. "This electronic directory works much like any other service directory, where you go to a major heading and look for specific details, program contacts, schedules, and program guidelines," Yoder said. "In addition to the listing of services, there are links that, by using your computer mouse to click on, take you to another site immediately, let you request information, or send an E-mail to an agency staff person." Local residents who are participants in programs are featured throughout the web site in digital photographs.

The emphasis in developing this new site is on providing more relevant and concise information to the viewer. "If you are interested in the Garrett Transit Services you select transportation," commented Loring Young, director of Community Development Programs. "You do not have to read through a lot of other agency information before you find exactly what you need to know."

Mary Beckman, director of Head Start, said she is "pleased to give parents the details of all of our child development programs — which are very extensive — and which allows us to better promote our availability and meet the needs of our community."

Mikal McCartney, vice president for Community and Economic Development at Community Action, directs the MicroWorks microbusiness program. This web site is the beginning of a microbusiness directory for the county. It contains all the existing information on the microbusiness program locally and lists some of the current businesses in the community."

Those interested in viewing the new web site and accessing information who do not have a computer may use one at the local libraries, as well as at Garrett Community College.

Local Civic Club Names Johnson Woman Of Year

JACKIE JOHNSON

The MFWC Civic Club of Oakland has honored Jackie Johnson as its 1999 Club Woman of the Year for her "outstanding service to the club and to the community." The annual honor was announced by Civic Club president Martha Jachowski at the club's November meeting, which took place at the Will O'the Wisp Tuesday evening.

Johnson, who resides in Oakland with her husband, Wayne Johnson, "has been a vital part of the Oakland community since moving here from Cumberland," Jachowski said. Johnson's service as a club member has included terms as second vice president on the executive board, corresponding secretary, and, most recently, as club chairman of the Autumn Glory Festival.

In addition to her Civic Club activities, Johnson is a member of VIVA (Volunteers in Various Areas), working several days a week at the group's information desk or its newly opened office. She serves on the Garrett County Memorial Hospital public relations committee, and she and Wayne are assisting with preparations for a large hospital fund-raiser this coming year. She has also assisted with other organizations such as Hospice of Garrett County, the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lioness Club, and the American Red Cross.

Past recipients of the Civic Club's Woman of the Year award have included Helen Wagner, Martha Jachowski, Bobby Andersen, Agnes Dzendzel, Faye Denison, Helen Atwill, and Pat Filsinger.

Fire Association Offering Free Smoke Detectors

The Garrett County Fire & Rescue Association recently received 1,000 residential smoke detectors for distribution to families in Garrett County who presently do not have adequate warning in the event of smoke and/or fire.

The small, battery-operated units, which were acquired through a grant from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), must be installed by a representative of the local fire department. There is no charge for the units or the installation, but recipients must complete a verification form for each unit installed, with one unit allowed for each level of living space in the residence.

A spokesman for the association stated, "It is important that every home in Garrett County have some means of warning in the event of smoke or fire. Many men, women, and children die each year needlessly because of inadequate or improperly functioning detectors. It is the goal of the GCFRA that such accidents are minimized."

Residents of Garrett County may contact their local fire department chief or call Garrett County Emergency Management during regular business hours at 301-334-1930 or 301-245-4114 to arrange installation.

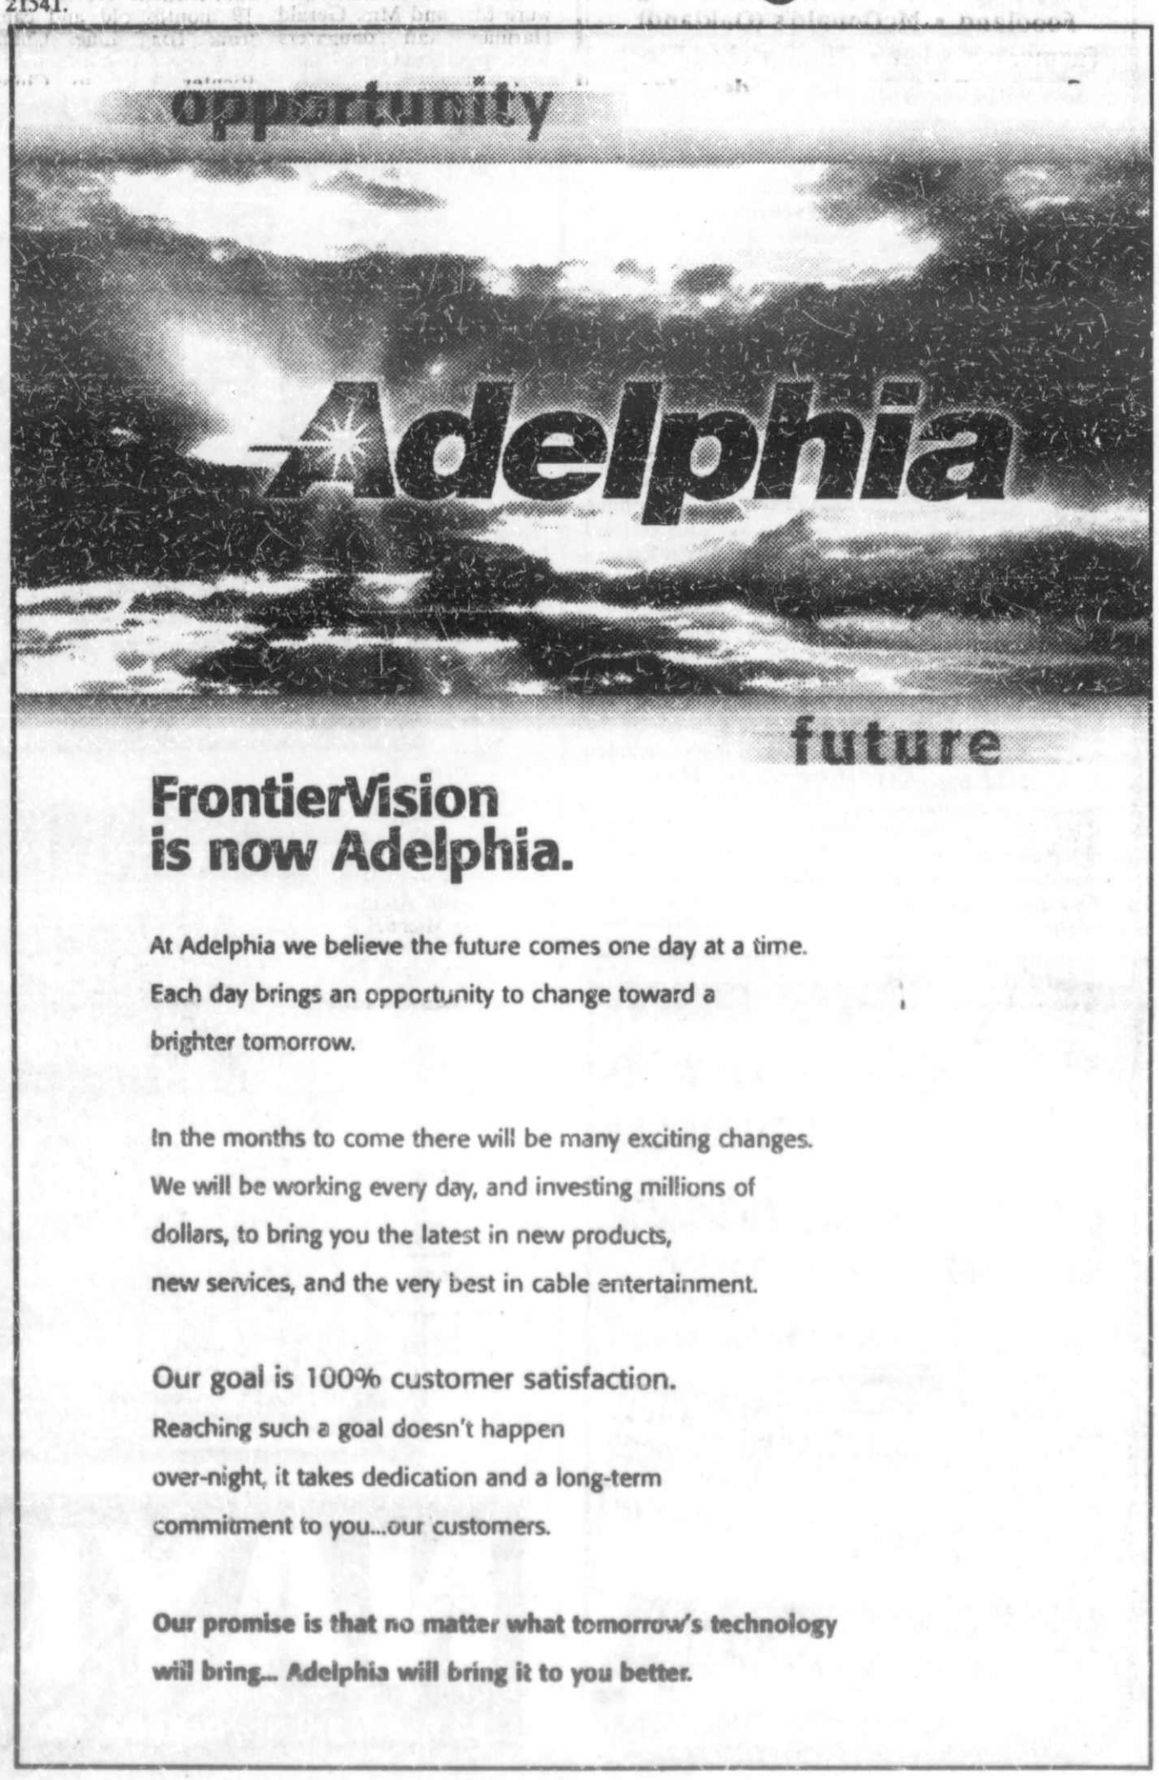
Mountain Top Christmas Web Site Launched



The Mountain Top Christmas 1999 web site, located at http://www.mountaintopchristmas.com, was launched Wednesday, Dec. 1, to bring a Garrett County Christmas to people around the world. The focus of the site is on local events such as Oakland's Fresh Air Christmas, the Old-Fashioned Christmas celebration in Grantsville, and Accident's Christmas festivities. Throughout the holiday activities, GCNet staff members will be located in Oakland, Grantsville, and Accident "to capture the spirit of the season for those persons who may not be able to attend," a spokesperson said.

One of the GCNet student interns, Chris Lantz, Oakland, will be interviewing holiday revelers and taking pictures for the site at Fresh Air Christmas. Lantz will be using technology to capture pictures and post them on the Mountain Top Christmas site during the following week. He has been working under the instruction of Jonathan Ruff, creator of the Special Projects community sites for GCNet.

The Mountain Top Christmas site also includes a photo contest titled "The Spirit of Christmas." Viewers may submit existing pictures or take new photos that represent what Christmas means to them. Viewers can E-mail pictures to GCNet from the site, or pictures can be scanned at the GCNet offices located in McHenry Plaza. All entries will be posted on the site, and one winner will be chosen at random. The grand prize awarded to the winner will be a new Web TV.

In addition, there is also a Just4Kids section, where kids may play games and make Christmas crafts; a food and drink section with holiday recipes; a photo gallery of pictures from local festivals; and a section of "Merry Christmas" phrases in over 50 languages. There are also Christmas carols and holiday downloads for children of all ages to explore.

Any group holding a Christmas event may submit a schedule of events to kmnorris@mail2.gcnet.net or mail it to Mountain Top Christmas, c/o GCNet, PO Box 990, McHenry, MD 21541.

Farming In Maryland.....

Country Pride Meats Awaiting Final Contract Agreements With S. Korea

Bernie Dixon, owner of Country Pride Meats of Friendsville, is awaiting an agreement through the Maryland Department of Agriculture to supply pork to South Korea. Although final details of the contract are undecided, the proposal is that Country Pride will export 80,000 pounds of pork (two sea containers) per month to South Korea for the next 10 months. The 1.6 million pounds of meat equals about 7 percent of the state's annual pork production, based on 1998 statistics.

"The agreement is totally undecided yet," Dixon said this week. "It's hard [for the MDA] to get the agreement coordinated, working between Korea and Baltimore and up here."

Dixon said most of the pigs will come from area stockyards once the contract is finalized, but until that time both production and shipping schedules are in question. Dixon does not question his company's ability to meet the proposed contract agreements, though. He is confident in his company's ability to produce the amount of pork contracted by South Korea.

"This contract could not have come at a better time," Dixon said. "Our busy season is just ending and now we will be able to keep the plant operating at full capacity and create additional employment."

Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) officials also are exploring the possibility of selling rabbit meat and live breeder rabbits to South Korea through Mountain Pride Cooperative, a western Maryland group of producers.

"This contract is welcome news for Garrett County," said House Speaker Casper R. Taylor Jr., who represents a portion of western Maryland. "Livestock is an important farm commodity in western Maryland that will benefit greatly from this opportunity to open new trading partnerships in South Korea and other Asian nations."

The MDA is working to secure two contracts with South Korea. Working with S & K Trading Company of Ellicott City and U.S. Livestock Genetic Export Inc. (USLGE), the MDA is also working to send Maryland Thoroughbreds to South Korea as part of a growing agricultural trading partnership that began in 1997 when 300 horses were exported. The Asian economic crisis prevented additional shipments of horses in 1998, but this year, a contract has been negotiated to send 35 pregnant mares and one stallion to South Korea, where horse racing is a popular past time.

U.S. Thoroughbreds are preferred because they regularly outperform other horses at the Seoul race track. South Korean horse breeders are interested in increasing the variety and quality of their Thoroughbred stock by importing pregnant mares with superior genetics.

"This is an extremely important step for Maryland agriculture and especially for western Maryland that has the potential to open the doors for much more trade with South Korea and other Asian nations," said U.S. Senator Paul S. Sarbanes, who helped bring the companies together. "Increasing international trade in Maryland livestock and other farm products is vital to preserving and expanding agriculture throughout the state, and I am pleased to have been able to assist with this agreement."

Maryland's success in marketing to South Korea was facilitated by USLGE (www.uslge.org), which is headquartered in St. Louis. USLGE is a nationwide livestock-specific, not-for-profit trade association representing the International Market Development interests of the U.S. dairy, beef, sheep, swine and horse-breeding industries. They represent the embryo and semen industry, livestock export sector, plus leading state departments of agriculture from top livestock-producing states.

The MDA's International Marketing Division helped to coordinate negotiations between the South Korean buyers and company representatives and continues to aid Maryland firms interested in developing business overseas.

"Governor Glendening and Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend understand that the future of Maryland agriculture depends on increased foreign trade," said Maryland Agriculture Secretary Henry A. Virts. "We are aggressively pursuing new partnerships in Asia, Europe, Africa, and Latin America to sell Maryland farm products, while at the same time training Maryland producers and business operators to enter and succeed in international trade."

Maryland Produce Headed For British Virgin Islands

A new and growing market for Maryland farm products is emerging in the British Virgin Islands (BVI). Before the end of the year, poinsettias, poultry bedding, and Christmas trees will be shipped to the British protectorate as a direct result of a trade mission by Maryland agricultural officials in August. This is the state's first export agreement with the Caribbean nation.

"We are enthused about the potential growth of this market for a wide variety of Maryland farm products," said Hagner R. Mister, deputy secretary of the Maryland Department of Agriculture who led the trade mission. "The British Virgin Islands is determined to increase their production of agricultural products, especially in poultry, and sees Maryland as an ideal trading partner."

A thousand poinsettias were shipped by Harry Hearns of Wincopia Farms Inc. in Laurel on Nov. 23 to Freeman Nursery in Tortolla, BVI. The sale has opened the way for other Maryland exports as the British Virgin Islands turns to Maryland as a high-quality source for agricultural and nursery products.

The BVI Ministry of Agriculture purchased a shipment of recycled paper chips from Debnam Sales and Export Inc. of Kent County to be used as poultry bedding. According to George Debman, this shipment is scheduled to sail to BVI's capital city, Tortolla, Dec. 1. In addition, a container of Christmas trees is scheduled to be shipped in early December from Bill Underwood's nursery in Elkton.

Buckwheat Fest Livestock Sale Results Noted

A total of 230 animals were purchased by over 140 businesses and individuals from 4-H and FFA youth at the Preston County Junior Livestock Sale held during the Preston County Buckwheat Festival this year. Rose Snider, Farmer's Day chairman, Bill Shockey, assistant Farmer's Day chairman, Tracy Waugh, 4-H agent, and the Preston County FFA instructors expressed their appreciation recently to those businesses and individuals for their purchases (see paid advertisement on this page) and said that by doing so, they were supporting the productive enterprises of the youth and their future.

Matt Hayes showed the Grand Champion market steer, and Adam Foley showed the Reserve Grand Champion market steer, competing with 38 other youth for championship honors. Hayes's Grand Champion steer was purchased by Greer Limestone of Morgantown, W.Va., and Foley's Reserve Grand Champion steer was purchased by Fairfax Mining of Dellslow, W.Va.

Plight Of Md. Farmers To Be Viewed On MPT

Newsnight Maryland, a nightly news program on Maryland Public Television (MPT) will look into the plight of Maryland farmers in the year 2000 this Friday night, Dec. 3 at 7 p.m.

The program's guests Steve Weber, Maryland Farm Bureau, and Pat Langenfelter, owner, Grandview Farm in Kent County, will look at problems and possible opportunities facing Maryland farmers as they go into the next century.

The program's producer said it's no secret out in farm country that things are changing, and fast. Fewer operations, a widening spread between what farmers receive for their production and what consumers pay at the supermarket, weather conditions, population growth, restrictive legislation, these are only a few of the challenges facing Maryland farmers currently. "What will be the challenges facing farmers in the 21st century? Or will farming, as we know it, cease to exist at all?"

Linkages will be explored between agriculture and the changing social, economic, and bio-physical environments that need to be understood and optimized if agriculture is going to meet the challenges of the 21st century. Viewers can share their comments by calling 800-926-0629 or through E-mail to newsnight.mpt.org. VHS cassette copies of the program may be ordered by calling 1-800-873-6154.

Soybean Harvest Draws Nearer To Completion

Only 5% of the Maryland soybean crop was left to harvest after the week which ended on Nov. 28. Again, isolated wet spots in fields have delayed its harvesting. Nevertheless, harvesting was ahead of the five-year average. Wheat planting was slowed due to the same reason as for soybeans. However, wheat condition improved slightly due to some precipitation received last week. Hay harvesting has drawn closer to finishing as well.

Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended Nov. 28, listing the item and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, in that order, follows.

Small grains seeded: wheat 97, 93, 99, 98; rye 96, 92, 100, 99; crops harvested: soybeans 95, 85, 99, 89; alfalfa, 5th cutting 95, 90, 89, 82; and other hay, 4th cutting 96, 94, 100, and 97.

Crop conditions, listing the commodity and percentages for very poor, poor, fair, good, and excellent, in that order, are: wheat 0, 1, 11, 60, 28; barley 0, 1, 16, 66, 17; rye 0, 1, 9, 75, 15; and pasture 1, 6, 24, 54, 15.

1999 Thanksgiving Dinner Cost Has Modest Increase

Despite lower farm commodity prices, the cost of the traditional Thanksgiving Day meal cost Americans slightly more this year, but the annual holiday feast continues to be affordable, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation.

AFBF's annual survey of the price of basic items found on Americans' dinner table on Thanksgiving Day shows an average cost of this year's traditional holiday feast for 10 at $33.83, a modest 74-cent increase from last year's $33.09 average. The traditional dinner included turkey, cranberries, pumpkin pie, and all the trimmings.

"While it hasn't been the most rewarding year for farmers and ranchers, once again Americans will sit down to a hearty meal with their families and have much to be thankful for," said Dean Kleckner, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, before Thanksgiving. "Thanks to the efficiency of American agriculture and the dedication of this nation's farmers and ranchers, families will enjoy an affordable, safe, and nutritious Thanksgiving dinner.

"Despite the difficult economic times America's farmers have endured this year, we take great pride in providing this nation a great bounty. The efforts of our farmers and ranchers make Americans the envy of the rest of the world. For that, we should all be thankful."

The AFBF shopping list included turkey, stuffing, sweet potatoes, rolls with butter, peas, cranberries, a relish tray of carrots and celery, pumpkin pie with whipped cream, and beverages of coffee or milk.

Of the items on the survey, nine increased in price. A 16-pound turkey represented the largest increase, jumping 52 cents to $14.23, or 89 cents per pound. That breaks down to a 3-cent increase per pound.

Mother Nature played a role in the cost of this year's survey, according to AFBF economist Joe Miller. The increase in turkey prices was attributed, in large part, to Hurricane Floyd, which devastated North Carolina, the nation's largest turkey-producing state.

"Hurricane Floyd just wiped them out, and turkey supplies plummeted," said Miller. "If not for that, turkey prices probably would have been lower."

Other increases on the survey included: a gallon of whole milk, $2.95, up 32 cents; a 16-ounce package of peas, $1.13, up 8 cents; a pound of sweet potatoes, $2.17, up 7 cents; a combined pound of celery and carrots, 80 cents, up 6 cents; a package of two 9-inch pie shells, $1.42, up 5 cents; a half-pint carton of whipping cream, $1.15, up 5 cents; and a 30-ounce can of pumpkin pie mix, $1.61, up 3 cents.

Milk prices in grocery stores haven't caught up to the fall in prices farmers have experienced over the past four or five months, according to Miller. "There is always a lag time between farm prices and store prices," he said. "Several months from now, I'm pretty sure milk prices at the retail level will fall."

A 12-ounce package of cranberries experienced the largest decrease, dropping 30 cents to $ 1.70. Other decreases included: a 14-ounce package of stuffing mix, $2.30, down 6 cents; and a 12-ounce package of brown-and-serve rolls, $1.37, down 5 cents.

A combined group of miscellaneous items, including coffee and ingredients necessary to prepare the meal (onions, eggs, sugar, flour, evaporated milk, and butter) cost $3, a 4-cent drop from last year's figure.

The overall survey price has increased eight consecutive years, but this year's average is only $5.09 higher than the inaugural 1986 survey price of $28.74.

Prices of past surveys include: 1998, $33.09; 1997, $31.76; 1996, $31.66; 1995, $29.64; 1994, $28.40; 1993, $27.49; 1992, $26.39; 1991, $25.95; 1990, $28.85; 1989, $24.70; 1988, $26.61; 1987, $24.51; 1986, $28.74.

The Farm Bureau survey is unscientific, but prices reflect actual trends across the nation. Bargain shoppers in all areas should have been able to purchase these items at a price comparable to the Farm Bureau survey. Ready-to-eat Thanksgiving meals were offered by some supermarkets across the country for around $40.

While many items on this survey — along with the overall average during the past eight years — increased in price, the farmers' share of the food dollar has decreased slightly. The farm value of each food dollar spent in the United States is approximately 21 cents. Labor, at 38.5 cents, is the largest component of the consumers' food dollar.

One hundred thirteen shoppers from 28 states participated in this year's Thanksgiving dinner price survey. The results are based on the best in-store price, excluding special coupon deals and purchase requirements. Farm Bureau's survey menu has remained constant since 1986 to allow for valid price comparisons.

Challenges Featured In Upcoming National Summit On Conservation

David P. Doss, Maryland state conservationist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), has announced that the USDA will hold a National Summit on Private Lands Conservation to discuss conservation opportunities and challenges affecting America's farms, forests, and ranch lands. The summit will be held at Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa, on Tuesday, Dec. 7.

"The loss of prime agricultural land to development, the health of our watersheds, nutrient management, and the future of forests and wetlands are some of the challenges facing Maryland and the rest of the nation," said Doss. "USDA's voluntary conservation programs, which are managed by NRCS, can play a strong role in addressing the issues affecting the health of our natural resources."

The USDA National Conservation Summit follows a series of regional listening forums held across the nation on private land conservation. USDA hosted the regional forums to initiate broad discussion on the policies and programs that are needed to effectively deliver conservation assistance to landowners. The forums were held in Sacramento, Calif.; Portland, Ore.; Denver, Colo.; Syracuse, N.Y.; and Atlanta, Ga. Discussions at the forums focused on conservation challenges, Farm Bill issues, and future budget needs.

The National Summit will be chaired by USDA Deputy Secretary Richard Rominger. USDA Secretary Dan Glickman will present a keynote address at the start of the day-long meeting. "The summit will serve as a sounding board to assess what new directions USDA should take to improve the nation's environmental quality and the health of the American landscape," said Glickman. "USDA has expanded its conservation efforts beyond curbing soil erosion to include farmland protection, improving water quality, restoring wetlands, protecting soil productivity, managing livestock manure, enhancing fish and wildlife habitat, and promoting conservation in the nation's cities and communities."

"The health of the land is critical to the wealth of our nation. The farmers, foresters, and ranchers who manage 70 percent of our landscape can contribute greatly to our nation's environmental health, natural resource sustainability, and a sound economy," said Glickman. "I look forward to frank, public discussions on conservation issues that are important to us all."

NRCS is USDA's lead conservation agency and has worked hand-in-hand with farmers and landowners for more than 60 years to conserve natural resources on private lands.

OPEI Sets Record Straight On Recent News

When it comes to lawn mowers and engine emissions, some newspaper articles have distributed information that is outdated, misstated, or simply untrue, according to the Maryland Cooperative Extension's Department of Biological Resources Engineering. This information includes making unrealistic comparisons between today's lawn mowers and automobiles.

According to the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute (OPEI), an industry trade association, comparing cars to lawn mowers is misleading for various reasons. For example, an average automobile is driven approximately 14,000 miles (22,400 km) per year and uses hundreds of gallons of gasoline. A typical walk-behind lawn mower is used an average 25 hours per year, using only a few gallons of gasoline. Furthermore the estimated number of lawn mowers in the United States today is approximately 38 million, compared to 159 million automobiles.

Another inaccurate claim that has surfaced in newspaper articles is that after two years, the average lawn mower will produce 34 times as many smog-forming emissions as an average passenger car. The fact is that on an annual basis, new automobiles generate 10 times more emissions than new lawn mowers. A new automobile would generate 20 lbs. (9 kg) of smog-forming emissions in two years. A new walk-behind lawn mower would generate 2.1 lbs. (0.945 kg) of emissions in that same amount of time.

More misleading information still being used by reporters today stems from data taken from a 1991 U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) study on emissions. The study reported that small, non-road engines were the source of 10% of total emissions in the United States. Based on this information, a false assumption is often made that lawn and garden equipment generates 10% of the nation's airborne pollution. However, many articles fail to note that lawn and garden equipment is only a small part of the EPA's non-road engine category, which includes marine engines, construction and agricultural equipment, industrial engines, airport service equipment, and other commercial sources. Actually, the total contribution of smog-forming emissions from all of today's lawn and garden equipment is less than 2%. For walk-behind mowers, it's less than 1%.

Based on the figures in this article, a walk-behind lawn mower converts a gallon of gasoline into approximately 0.175 lb. of emissions while an automobile converts a gallon of gasoline into approximately 0.015 lb. of emissions. This is where the figure of "34 times" (12 times by this estimate) comes from, and it reflects the conversion rate of gasoline to emissions rate but not the load on the environment.

Today's outdoor power equipment is powered by engines that run an average 70% cleaner than those built in 1990. Design improvements have produced a new generation of outdoor power equipment with engines that are more fuel efficient, durable, and cleaner running. Over the past 30 years, both the public and the industry have become more aware of air poliution and are mutually concerned about finding ways to reduce it.

New technologies engineered by environmentally conscious manufacturers have led to the production of small, non-road, four-cycle engines. These engines comply with standards established by the EPA for small spark-ignition engines of 25 hp or less, manufactured as of September 1997. The engines are substantially cleaner running than similar 1990 models.

As consumers purchase and use the newer equipment, they will be doing their part for cleaner air.

OPEI represents manufacturers of powered lawn and garden maintenance products.

MY COMMENTS

Thank goodness we are getting a good blanket of snow this Tuesday morning following the Thanksgiving holiday, since the kids can't stand to go a whole day to school after almost a week off. We are all pretty tired since we had to pack up on Saturday to go to Silver Spring to visit Lloyd's parents at Leisure World. This was better than last year, as we had to go down on Thanksgiving Day, and since Lloyd's mother, Ruthe, is not a cook, we had to go out to a restaurant for Thanksgiving dinner. We did, however, have our traditional take-out Chinese dinner.

Claire, Caitlin, and Meredith had a big day on Sunday with Aunt Vicki at Toby's Theatre to see a special holiday show "Holiday Hot Nostalgia." While they were at the theatre, Lloyd slipped away to let Nana and Pop rest up and went to visit our friends, Don and Sue Powell, in Columbia. He picked up a wonderful set of photos of my art that Don had taken a few months ago when he visited Garrett County to see the fall foliage.

But on Thanksgiving Day itself, we had a perfect feast at Rodney and Marci Glotfelty's home. Although Marci had to work, Rodney followed her directions to finish the cooking. Everything was perfect, except that my sister Carol and her family were not in attendance, and they had to hit the road to visit Kevin's parents in South Carolina. We did have my uncle, Pappy Dale Glotfelty, my mother Ruth and my brother Barry from Frederick, there to help us celebrate the holiday. Barry was an overnight guest of our mother.

I don't see why Lloyd's family can't get up here for a few holidays. But no, we have to pack our family and travel in holiday traffic.

We managed to get back in time for Claire's soccer team's pizza party at Pizzazz at the Wisp. We even picked up the trophies for the Poholskys, since Torrey was sick from too much holiday. I think there were some other young men also who were under the weather on Monday, namely, Matthew Bass and Elliot Glotfelty.

I was surprised how many homes in Columbia are already decorated with Christmas lights. But not as surprised as to see that both my mother and Rodney's homes are also lit up. Lloyd and I believe in not putting lights up until the last few weeks before Christmas.

I don't know why, but last week a lot of exciting things happened around here. The Brenneman Grove had a controlled burning that turned into a Thanksgiving squirrel roast. The squirrels ran up a big maple tree and caught the top of some trees on fire. That is the rumor I heard, but the Bittinger Fire Department was more than equal to handling the situation.

Also from the grapevine came news of a car belonging to Rick and Connie Brenneman that caught fire on Monday. Just down the road from here a car wrecked trying to avoid a deer. The car overturned in the field, but evidently no one was seriously injured. The fire department was again busy.

There are plenty of deer hunters around here. I don't like deer hunting season at all. You can't go into the woods to take a hike or ride. It is not really safe to drive either, with the deer running for their lives or travelers being hit by a possible stray bullet, not to mention the danger to pets or livestock. I was so relieved to see our animals survived our absence safely.

We missed the big open house for the 50th anniversary of Maxine and Bob Legeer. About 80 friends, neighbors, children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren contributed to a wonderful day for them. They want to thank everyone who helped make the day so special for them.

We are also thankful for the deluge of rain we received on Thursday and Friday. Now comes our first real snowfall for this season. I know several households that depend on getting spring water. The long dry period we had this summer and fall really put a strain on the springs. Maybe we will start to get back to normal again. It certainly looks like a typical December day in Bittinger, with the snow-covered ground, snow squalls, and at times even some blue sky. We do love the snow.

BLACK BEAR TAVERN EARNS TIPS RECOGNITION - The sellers and servers of alcoholic beverages at the Black Bear Tavern, located at the Fort in McHenry, were honored recently for their participation in On-Site Alcohol Awareness training. The Tips of Western Maryland (TWM) certificate of recommendation credits the restaurant with "a level of commitment to professionalism and the responsibilities associated with the sale of beverage alcohol [which represents] an outstanding contribution to the local community and the society at large." The five-hour TIPS training emphasizes that liability issues are most effectively avoided by preventing intoxication and the underage sale of alcoholic beverages. Intervention procedures can minimize alcohol-related problems both on and off an establishment's premises, according to Fred Herath, certified TIPS trainer. "On-site staff training is an excellent business practice for liquor licensees," Herath said. "It adds to the confidence and professionalism of employees while earning the respect and appreciation of a society intent on increasing accountability. If we make servers more aware of the implications of serving alcohol improperly, other things fall into place, such as reduced risk of injuries and fatalities from DWI-related auto accidents, assaults and other violence, not to mention the reputation of an establishment within the community." Pictured above at the Black Bear Tavern are, from the left, Bruce W. Stone, Jann Roeber, Kathy Hall, BBT general manager, Fred Herath, Frank Campbell Jr., and Stacey Stone. Not available for the photo were additional Black Bear Tavern TIPS graduates Michelle Robertson and Chris Hardy. With programs tailored to specific settings where alcohol is sold or served, TIPS offers a choice of eight training opportunities: on premises, off premises, concessions, social functions, casinos, universities, workplace, and parents. For more information on TIPS of Western Maryland persons may call Herath at 301-334-7933.
